vate enterprise instead of a government project, Senator Otis F. Glenn declared today. It would be built next year rather than wait until 1933, he said, if possible this winter. Senator Glenn, who is chairman of the senate committee on rivers and harbors, spoke as headliner at the annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association, which met in this city today in the hope that the failure to gulf waterway might be completed in 1932 instead of in May 1933 with a view of aiding business industry and employment.

Listen To Speeches All Day.

It is the largest convention held by the association. The delegates have the business to speeches all day on the advantages of speeding up the waterway job and linking up Chicago, Duluth, St. Louis, New Orleans, Kansas City, Omaha, Sioux City, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis, a guest of the banquet, likewise favors a quick opening of the link between the lakes and the gulf.

"This is no confidence," said Senator Glenn, "in saying that President Hoover is thoroughly in favor of this completion and that Secretary of War Hurley is 100 per cent for speeding up the work."

Senator Glenn, who recently urged on President Hoover and Secretary Hurley the need of speeding up the construction program laid down by army engineers, said that the objection trotted out by the army engineers, that the type that private capital took a joy in vanquishing

Sees No Real Difficulties.

"There are no real difficulties in finishing the work next year instead of in 1933," he said. "The administration at Washington is in accord with the view that work should be expedited for two reasons; first, that such a vital thing as the waterway should be put into service for the people in the earliest time; second, that six or seven million out of employment, every possible thing should be done to put men to work.

"The army engineers are wonderful, efficient men, but when they get an idea in their head, they can find more reasons for not changing the program. That is why the work should not be rushed up.

"Even if a private enterprise with the money, men, and talent behind the waterway, were building the project, it would be working night and day to finish the job.

Points to Tribune Work.

Even THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, for example. When the army engineers were discussing the difficulties of carrying up the work, they dwelt on the danger of ice and flood water. They had photographs of the ice. Col. McCormick showed photographs of THE TRIBUNE'S work in Canada, where it gets its wood pulp, showing of a monumental dam, and how a lot of this work was done in the face of winter.

"If private enterprise can build such construction projects expeditiously I think the American nation can do it. The dam to be built at Dresden Island is the only great obstacle in an otherwise easy stretch. If it costs a little more to build the taller dam a little stronger, it will be worth it, in the chances it creates for men to get jobs.

Washington Is Sluggish.

"Washington is bound around with red tape until it is the slowest place in the world, its atmosphere is slug-

MOTORISTS' CLAIM TO 'DRAG' LANDS HIM IN A CELL

Edward Lowy, 4822 North Ridgeway avenue, parked his automobile yesterday in front of 540 South State street. When he returned Policeman George Hurley was writing out a ticket which stated the car had been there an hour and ten minutes.

"You can't give me a ticket," said Lowy. "Look at this."

It was a star, purporting to be an I-Gotta-Drag from the corporation counsel's office. Lowy claimed that he was an investigator for that office and was investigating. When Policeman Hurley insisted on his taking the ticket he countered by insisting that he be taken to the South State street police station.

There Capt. John Prendergast questioned Lowy and then, by telephone, the corporation counsel. It was asserted Lowy was not an investigator. So he was locked up on three charges Parking too long, having no vehicle tax license from the city, and impersonating a city official. The star was confiscated.

Jail's Secret of Freedom Awaits Tall Man 4 Years

Tipton, Ia., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Many hands had groped in the dust of an attic opening of the Cedar county jail for a key to the cell block, but Ed Hansen, 21, alleged robber of Iowa City, was the first one tall enough to reach it. With it he escaped from jail. Sheriff Foster Maxon has learned from a former prisoner that the key was thrown there by Clifford Morris, a trusty, who escaped four years ago. Secret of the hidden key had been passed from prisoner to prisoner since that time.

Weather Goes Topsy Turvy All Over U. S.

Topsy turvy weather prevailed over the United States yesterday.

In Chicago the mercury rose to 69 degrees, an all-time high for Nov. 23 and the equal of the highest mark ever recorded so late in the season. Bathers frolicked in Lake Michigan—not many, but some. Today, according to the official forecast, there may be rain and the temperature may fall sharply in the afternoon or evening.

Rochester, N. Y., reported a high yesterday of 74 degrees, a mark that has not even been approached at this date since '887, when 71 was the maximum. New York, Albany, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Washington each had a summertime high of 72 degrees. It was a perfect June day almost everywhere east of the Mississippi.

Subzero, Snow in West.

But in the west it was altogether different. In the Rocky mountains snow 7 deeply drifted and there were many places the thermometers registered from 10 above down to 12 below zero. In Los Angeles, that city of blessed climate, a 17-year-old high school girl, Martha Steiner, collapsed on the street and was taken to a hospital. Physicians asserted that she was overcome by the cold and thawed her out under heavy blankets.

Near Los Angeles the orange and lemon growers battled to save their orchards in temperatures ranging from 23 to 29 degrees. Icicles hung on eaves and frost coated the California meadows. The pepper and let tuce crops were severely damaged. Reports said that the sumdge pots from which the orange and lemon growers had been pouring black smoke for three nights, were being kept going at full blast.

Warm Weather in East.

Isotherms, those dotted lines sweeping across the weather map to indicate places of equal temperature, usually run in a general east and west direction. Yesterday they lay over the central United States in a general north-south direction. To the east it was warm, to the west cold.

There were heavy rains just west of the Mississippi, and a train wreck at Indianola, Ia., was attributed to a washout of the track. The official explanation of the freakish weather was that a "trough" of low pressure, squeezed back by a tarrying of high pressure centered over Virginia, was preventing the western storms with their snows and low temperatures from locking through to the balmy east.

Mexican State Suspends Study of Law, Medicine

RUSSIA ABANDONS 5 DAY WEEK FOR ONE OF SIX DAYS

MOSCOW, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Abandonment of the five day uninterrupted week, which soviet Russia adopted throughout the nation last year in an effort to speed up production, and substitution of a six day interrupted week was authorized tonight by the Council of People's Commissars. Working hours were reduced at the same time from 6½ hours to 6 hours daily to compensate for loss of time off.

The measure, which becomes effective Dec. 1, the decree explained, was aimed at "correcting defects" encountered in the uninterrupted week. The new working week will apply to all enterprises and offices, except those directly connected with serving the cultural and living needs of the population, such as cooperative stores, dining halls and transportation.

One of the most significant features of the new ruling was the introduction of a common day off. Under the five-day week, days off varied according to shifts, individual preferences and industries. The six-day week will mean five working days and one day off. The five-day week consisted of four days of work and one day off.

Burnside police were given a double bomb mystery late last night. The missiles, which failed to explode, were identical and contained two sticks of supposed dynamite and fuses. One was thrown into the kitchen of Daniel Heinz, mason contractor, at 7935 Ellis avenue. The fuse was ignited, but failed to burn through. The second was placed at the doorway of George Arquilla, retired real estate dealer, at 425 East 39th street. Arquilla and Heinz are friends.

The apparent motive was intimidation to force payment on a $9,000 mortgage, police theorized. Heinz purchased a lot five years ago. Arquilla advanced him $3,000 and received a second mortgage. Nothing has been paid on the first mortgage, amounting to $9,000, and the bombs were placed to threaten them to pay, police said.

HICCOUGHS EIGHT DAYS; OPERATION FAILS OF RELIEF

John Weber, 60 years old, who has been in the Copley hospital at Aurora undergoing treatment for an attack of hiccoughs which has lasted eight days, was still hiccoughing last night. One operation failed to stop the spasms, which occur at three second intervals.

MANSFIELD VICTIM CURED.

Mansfield, O., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Ira A. King seemed cured today of the hiccoughs from which he had suffered for fifteen days. For the first time he was able to rest undisturbed, eat without hindrance and talk without interruption.

Relief came with an operation, performed after an X-ray revealed an infection of the gall bladder. The gall bladder was removed yesterday.

ARMY PUSHES SOUTH TOWARD THE GREAT WALL

Ordered to Suppress Bandit Hordes.

BULLETIN.

NANKING, Nov. 24 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Dr. Wellington Koo, new Chinese foreign minister, announced that China will submit to the league of nations council today a plan for solving the Manchurian problem which the Nanking government believes will be successful. He declined to say what it proposed.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 24.—(Tuesday.)—An urgent message from Mukden today said the Japanese had ordered a general offensive at Taian, north of Chinchow, at 7 o'clock this morning to suppress 8,000 bandits.

TOKIO, Nov. 24 [Tuesday].—(AP)—"Real War" might result if Chiang Kai-shek, president of China, goes north to combine forces with Chang Hsueh-liang deposed governor of Manchuria, it was said authoritatively here today.

Reports in official circles indicated that Chiang already was moving his troops northward and had reached Honar. This reported action led to a Japanese belief that the Chinese president might establish himself at Peiping if the league of nations council decided against the Nanking government.

If this situation should arise, Japan would increase her military forces at Tientsin, which is allowed her under the Boxer protocol, it was authoritatively said.

Should serious fighting occur in the Shanhaikwan district, in which Chinchow is situated, it likely would cause the Japanese to penetrate the great wall from the north.

"This would bring a dangerous and complicated situation indeed," a Japanese spokesman said.

LEAGUE IN A PANIC

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate to the league of nations council, created consternation among the members of that peace seeking body tonight with the news that the Japanese are on the move again.

Contrary to general belief, the Japanese do not occupy all of Manchuria away down in the lower left hand corner of the map is a narrow strip of coast on which the city of Chinchow is situated. Chinchow is still in the hands of China.

Late this evening Dr. Sze handed the league a note, based on dispatches from Nanking, saying the Japanese were moving south from Mukden in armored cars with the intention of crushing the opposition to Japan in the Chinchow area.

Sze Saw It Coming.

Mitchell Jewel Bandit Escapes Police in Chase

Frank Tufano, sought as leader of the gang which staged the $150,000 jewel robbery of society leaders Saturday night at the Lake Forest home of William H. Mitchell, is believed to have been an occupant of an automobile which escaped police in a hail of gunfire yesterday.

Meanwhile three suspected members of the robbery gang were held to the Lake county grand jury in Waukegan by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady.

Tufano had been sought as the leader of the robbers since Saturday night, when police traced the license number of the automobile which the gang abandoned outside the Mitchell home to his mother, Mrs. Marie Tufano, 711 South Marshfield avenue. She said her son owned the car.

Shea Recognizes Tufano.

Sergt. William Shea, leader of a detective bureau supervising squad, was riding in Jackson boulevard yesterday when at Throop street the squad car passed another automobile containing five men.

"There's Tufano," yelled the sergeant, who knows the hoodlum. "Stop them."

John Hanrahan, chauffeur of the squad, ran the gang car to the curb and pinned it there with the front wheels of his own automobile, Sergt. Shea got out to question the occupants.

As he did so the driver of the suspect automobile backed up a few feet and then drove straight ahead at him. The sergeant had to leap aside to avoid being crushed.

Speeds Around Squad Car.

As Shea jumped the driver of the gang car twisted his wheel, threw his car across the curb to pass the squad, and roared along the sidewalk for 100 feet before driving back into the street.

Policemen Edward Allman and Thomas Connolly, the other members of the squad, jumped to the street when the gang car backed up. They and Sergt. Shea opened fire. The sergeant saw one of his bullets smash the rear window of the fugitive car. He said there was a good chance that it struck the man he identified as Tufano, who was seated in the middle of the rear seat.

Sergt. Shea recognized Tufano, he said, because the latter, taken as a robbery suspect, was paraded at the detective bureau showup a week ago Sunday.

Three Held in Waukegan.

The three suspects held in Waukegan, all from Chicago, are Paul Ross, 23 years old, 1104 Lytle street; Joseph Parello, 21 years old, 2917 Wallace street, and Nick Maintanis, 19 years old, 702 Sibley street. They were held to the grand jury on charges of robbery with a gun at the request of their own attorneys, Simon McDonnell and Sidney H. Block. The defense counsel adopted that legal stratagem to prevent the trio from being questioned further by the Lake Forest police about the robbery, in which all have denied complicity.

Attorney McDonnell obtained writs of habeas corpus from Judge Dady and by this means put the prisoners under jurisdiction of the Circuit court after the police had taken them before Magistrate Edwin Burgess of Lake Forest. Judge Dady reduced the bonds of each prisoner to $20,000 from the $100,000 bail set for each one by Magistrate Burgess.

A second suspect sought by the Chicago police is Dominick D'Nordi, 1439 Elburn avenue. An overcoat bearing D'Nordi's name, in which all but two minor pieces of the loot were recovered, was found a few hours after the robbery caught in a fence on the Mitchell estate.

Maintanis had claimed that he was robbed of his automobile near Lake Bluff about the time of the Mitchell robbery. He was arrested on foot in Highland Park. Yesterday Police Chief Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest was informed by a man, who said he was a policeman at Stickney, that Maintanis' car had been found in Stickney.

WATSON-DAVIS DEALS IN SUGAR STOCKS TOLD

Paid for Securities with Notes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—How two United States senators, without putting up any actual cash made handsome paper profits in the stock of sugar companies operated by Bror G. Dahlberg of Chicago, and with the profits bought more stock, which is now almost valueless, was told the senate lobby committee today by John Holland, the committee's chief investigator.

The two senators are James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican floor leader in the senate, and James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, former secretary of labor.

Holland's testimony as to their dealings in the Dahlberg companies' stock went into the records as the result of an inquiry begun last February, when Holland started to trace rumors that an unnamed senator had received $100,000 for lobbying for a high sugar tariff during the framing of the tariff act. At that time Senator Davis appeared before the lobby committee to deny that he had ever received money for sugar lobbying while secretary of labor.

Finds No Lobby Evidence.

Holland today told the committee that he had found no evidence that Senator Davis had lobbied for a high sugar tariff.

What he did find, Holland said, was that many political celebrities had been induced to buy stock in the Dahlberg sugar companies. Not all of them got the same favorable terms that Senators Watson and Davis did.

Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, and Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] paid large sums of cash for their Dahlberg stock.

They lost through the depreciation of the stock. Senators Watson and Davis also saw their handsome paper profits disappear, having taken them in more stock.

Hears of $10,000 Gift.

Holland told the committee that he had heard from one of Dahlberg's vice presidents that Dahlberg had ordered $10,000 lent to Davis but could find no evidence that the money ever was sent.

Detailing the Watson transactions, the investigator said that in May, 1928, Senator Watson accepted an offer by Dahlberg to sell him 125 shares of common stock and 125 shares of preferred stock in each of two companies, the Southern Sugar company and the Southern Coast company. For the stock, then worth about $25,000, Senator Watson gave two notes for $12,500 each. The notes were for one year, bore no interest, and were made out to Almar & Co., a Dahlberg holding corporation.

Dahlberg Writes Watson.

In a letter to Watson, explaining the transaction, Dahlberg said:

"It may be understood that these notes are not to be negotiated but will be held by myself—Almar & Co. being one of my individual companies—and it may be further understood that if, at any time prior to the maturity of the notes, you desire to do so, you have the option of canceling either one or both of the deals, or any part thereof that you may wish."

Before the year expired, Holland testified, Senator Watson's notes were canceled and his stock was transferred into shares of the Dahlberg Corporation of America. Without having had to put up any cash, the senator, said Holland, "got a profit of 250 shares or a paper profit of stock then of a value of $7,905."

Some More Correspondence.

There was more to the complicated story. Exhibits of correspondence made it appear that Senator Watson in 1929 actually had 500 shares of the Dahlberg stock.

From the journal of Almar & Co. Holland copied the following letter, written on April 14, 1929, by Dahlberg to H. H. Roberts, one of Dahlberg's associates:

"James E. Watson, as you know, did a lot of work for us in connection with the Missouri rate case. The arrangement we had with him was on a contingent basis, with the understanding, however, that if no settlement was effected we would pay him a little something to cover his traveling expenses.

"In settlement of this please have issued to Mr. James E. Watson two certificates for 250 shares each of Dahlberg Corporation of America common stock. "The special account can get this stock from Almar & Co. at a price of $10 a share, and Almar & Co. can take a special account note for $5,000, the note bearing 7 per cent interest to cover the transaction."

The Davis Deals.

The testimony concerning Senator Davis' purchase was much the same. Senator Davis, said Holland, had bought 225 shares of preferred stock and 500 shares of common in the Southern Sugar company, valued at $22,500, and gave the same sort of note that Senator Watson did. Fifteen months later the then secretary of labor, said Holland, turned over his stock for a paper profit of $8,497, which also presumably went the way of the Indiana senator's.

When Dahlberg suggested the transaction to Davis, Holland said, he referred to it as a special deal, "just 'tween us."

Holland said that he had heard the talk of a $10,000 gift to Davis from S. S. Eveland, a vice president in one of the Dahlberg Sugar companies. Eveland told him, he said, that he had heard Dahlberg order the $10,000 sent to Davis but did not know if it ever was sent and the investigator told the committee he could find no evidence that the Pennsylvania senator ever had received the money.

Senator Davis in addition to his note transactions with the Dahlberg companies also purchased with checks and drafts $24,775 worth of common and preferred stock of the Celotex company of which Dahlberg was president, Holland testified.

Questioned About Lobbying.

Holland was closely questioned about whether Dahlberg or Davis engaged in lobbying.

Holland said Dahlberg's agent in Washington, Dan C. Goodwin, had interviewed members of the senate and cabinet in connection with the tariff bill and mentioned seeing Davis.

"There was nothing to indicate what transpired," he added.

Two or three instances of correspondence between Davis and Dahlberg also were noted by the witness.

Dahlberg, Holland said, had been "active with respect to a sugar tariff as far back as 1927."

Senator Watson, when informed of Holland's testimony, said:

"Early in 1928 I gave my note for some stock in one of Dahlberg's companies. "The stock is of no account and worth nothing, and neither is my note. Therefore the score is nothing to nothing in this game. This was purely a private business transaction and had no reference to legislation, past, present, or future."

The investigation will be continued tomorrow.

Dahlberg Denies He Made $10,000 Present to Davis

John Holland, investigator for the senate lobby committee, garbled his account of the stock transactions between Brur G. Dahlberg and United States Senators James B. Watson and James J. Davis in testimony before the lobby committee yesterday, Dahlberg declared in a statement here last night.

Dahlberg, president of the Celotex company, manufacturers of a wall board derived from sugar cane, and former president of the Southern Sugar company and the South Coast Sugar company, now in receivership, was interviewed in his office in the Palmolive building. He denied that he had ever authorized his bank to pay $10,000 cash to Senator Davis, as Holland said he was told by S. S. Eveland, former vice president of the Dahlberg corporation.

Calls Report Falsehood.

"For reasons best known to himself, Mr. Eveland spread a report that I had paid out $100,000 to certain unnamed senators to obtain a high duty on sugar prior to passage of the Smoot-Hawley tariff," Mr. Dahlberg said. "I paid no money to any senator. The statement attributed to Eveland that I ordered my bank, in his presence, to send $10,000 to Senator Davis is a falsehood."

Dahlberg denied there was anything unusual in his permitting Senators Davis and Watson to acquire stock in his companies, giving in payment non-interest bearing notes, cancellable at will. He had extended the same privileges to many purchasers of his stocks in the boom days of 1929, he said.

"I sold thousands of shares of stock under that arrangement, as many other companies did," he averred. "I also approached every congressman I could reach on behalf of a high sugar tariff. The Cuban cane growers were working for a lower duty and the domestic producers, myself among them, were naturally working for a higher duty."

Explains Link with Davis.

Dahlberg admitted sending his personal representative, Dan C. Goodwin, to see Senator Davis regarding the tariff when Davis was secretary of labor. He granted that Davis might have been the only cabinet officer Goodwin approached, as Investigator Holland asserted in his testimony.

"The reason for Goodwin's visit to Mr. Davis was quite simple," Dahlberg said. "I was preparing a paper to be read before a sugar institute showing the benefits to accrue from a higher tariff. I instructed Goodwin to secure statistics from the department of labor showing that the higher tariff would increase employment on the cane plantations and in the sugar refineries."

"The Dahlberg companies had nothing to conceal in any of these transactions," he asserted. "We opened our books and records to Mr. Holland and offered him every facility, as I think he himself will concede. This, of itself, should be sufficient evidence that there was nothing irregular."

RECEIVE 7 BIDS TO COMPLETE FINE ARTS BLDG.

Seven bids for the completion and restoration of the Fine Arts building in Jackson park were opened yesterday in the office of the South Park board. The low bidder was the R. C. Wieboldt company, offering to do the work for $3,183,200 in 14 months.

The general contract will not be let, however, until a number of separate items for which bids were ubmitted by the seven bidders have been tabulated. These items are included in the general contract, but if the difference proves to be considerable, they might be let separately from the remainder of the contract.

The other bidders, their figures and the time they would require to do the work are: W. E. O'Neil Construction company, $2,479,352, 12 months; McLennan Construction company, $2,517,006, 10 months; R. S. Blome company, $2,526,946.75, 14 months; B-W Construction company, $2,575,000 13 months; Michuda Bros. Construction company, $2,767,000, 13 months, and G. Kehl Sons, $2,859,500, 15 months.

The exterior of the building, which will house the Museum of Science and Industry, has cost approximately $3,250,000. The original building, built for the World's Fair of 1893, was designed by Charles B. Atwood, architect, and considered a masterpiece. It is being rebuilt in stone under the supervision of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, architects, with funds of a $5,000,000 bond issue.

INSURANCE COLLECTOR ROBBED.

Henry J. Doss, 8245 Eberhart avenue, a collector for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, reported to the police that he had been robbed of $350 by an armed man last night in a passageway at 8100 Ogleby avenue. Of the money, $343 belonged to the company.

IT TAKES 2 COPS TO KEEP UP WITH THIS MENDICANT

Business has been pretty good recently for Joe Taylor. He is a beggar. Several days ago he was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and paid his fine of $100 from the money in his pockets.

Last night he was arrested again at Adams and Canal streets by Policeman Frank Brunell, who called for a patrol wagon. While he was waiting for it Joe Taylor began to run. He kept running until he bumped into Policeman Frank Kuciver at Madison and Canal streets and was recaptured.

Again Taylor made a break for freedom as Policeman Brunell called again for a wagon. This time the chase led west in Madison street to Jefferson street. There Brunell made a flying tackle and took the sprinting beggar to the ground. Once more, keeping a tight hold on the prisoner, the policeman called the Desplaines street station.

"Send a wagon," he said, "to—never mind, I've run all the way except two blocks and I can walk the rest of the way in with this fellow."

COUNTY DENIES FAIR AID.

Rhinelander, Wis., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—Although the Taylor county board voted 601 to support a county fair next year, the fair association will attempt to hold the fair without aid from the county.

DWIGHT H. GREEN CONSIDERED FOR U. S. ATTORNEY

Due for Job if Johnson Goes on Bench.

Dwight H. Green, prosecutor of gangsters and grafting politicians for income tax dodging, is slated to succeed George E. Q. Johnson as United States district attorney if the latter is appointed to the federal bench.

DWIGHT GREEN.

In confirming reports that Mr. Green is a prospect for the position, Senator Otis F. Glenn yesterday said that he was being "strongly considered." Senator Glenn said he had made no recommendations for the vacancy on the federal district bench in Chicago, but he revealed that Mr. Johnson had been under consideration for several months.

The senator said he probably would make a recommendation to the President on the judgeship question before congress convenes on Dec. 7. He denied published reports that a recess appointment was in prospect and that he was to indorse Mr. Johnson, a Deneen Republican, in fulfillment of an agreement with former Senator Deneen.

Want Immediate Appointment.

However, supporters of Mr. Johnson's candidacy for the judgeship are said to be insistent on his immediate appointment. They fear, it is said, that if he is obliged to wait until his second term as district attorney expires, more than three years hence, there may be a new administration and the chance for the judgeship lost. President Hoover, it is reported, wants Mr. Johnson to complete his term as district attorney before making him a judge.

Appointment of Mr. Johnson to the bench and of Mr. Green as district attorney, politicians say, would strengthen the cause of Senator Glenn, who is a candidate for reelection in 1932, and compensate for any dissatisfaction on the part of the senator's political associates. Both Mr. Johnson and Mr. Green have distinguished themselves in the government's income tax campaign and Mr. Green is not a Deneen man. Both appointments, if made, Senator Glenn stated, would be nonpolitical and strictly on their merits.

Independent in Politics.

Prosecutor Green is independent in politics and is on the pay roll of the treasury department as Chicago representative of the general counsel of the bureau of internal revenue. He became a special assistant United States attorney without pay, so that he could go before the grand jury with income tax cases.

The belief that Mr. Johnson is soon to be made a judge was strengthened by Senator Glenn's assertion that Mr. Green was already under consideration for district attorney. Prosecutor Green conferred with the senator yesterday in the latter's law office at 1 La Salle street. Senator Glenn left at noon for St. Louis, where he was to speak on waterways.

Prosecutor Only 34 Years Old.

Mr. Green would be one of the youngest federal district attorneys in the country. Although he is only 34 years old, he has been practicing law since his graduation at the University of Chicago law school in 1922. He had previously studied at Wabash college and at Leland Stanford university. He served in the world war as an aviation instructor at Mather field, Sacramento, Cal.

Following his graduation he practiced law in Chicago until 1926, when he went to Washington and served a year in the office of the revenue bureau's general counsel. He returned to Chicago as solicitor for the revenue bureau in the spring of 1927.

He did most of the work in preparing and prosecuting the income tax cases against Al and Ralph Capone, Frank Nitti, Sam Guzik, Terry Druggan, Frankie Lake, State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, County Assessor Gene G. Oliver, and others.

DECIDE TO LEAVE 2½ INCH BLADE IN MAN'S BRAIN

Doctors Say Operation Would Not Help.

Linus Larson, 10.12 Avenue M, who has carried a knife blade embedded in his brain for 30 years, will continue to do so for the remainder of his life, physicians at the County hospital decided yesterday. They called off previous plans for an operation to remove the blade after a consultation at which it was agreed that Larson's age, 59, would be a strong factor against its success.

LINUS LARSON.

The blade, two and a half inches long, is in the left frontal lobe, one of the so-called "silent areas" of the brain. Its only effect on Larson's health has been that on occasions since he received the injury in a saloon fight as a young man he has been subject occasionally to sudden spells of unconsciousness, sometimes lasting for several days.

Would Not Be Benefit.

"The chances of improvement are too slight to warrant an operation," said Dr. Karl Meyer, chief of staff of the hospital. "An operation would probably not relieve the fibrosis which is present, thereby not affecting the epilepsy. There would also be a possibility of meningitis if the area were manipulated."

The fibrosis to which Dr. Meyer referred is the scar tissue which has encysted the blade in the last 30 years. He believes scar tissue, and not the blade itself, to be responsible for Larson's fits of unconsciousness.

How Blade Was Discovered.

The presence of the blade in Larson's brain was discovered last week when he reported at the hospital for treatment and Dr. George Scupham of the hospital staff had an X-ray photograph taken. Larson then told that he had received a black eye 30 years ago in a fight, but did not think at the time that the injury was serious.

When Dr. Meyer saw the X-ray plate, however, he recalled that Larson had applied for treatment at the hospital 15 years ago. An X-ray was taken at that time, and when Larson was told of his condition he fled from the hospital, Dr. Meyer said. The old X-ray plate was found and corresponded almost exactly to the recent photograph.

200 FLEE PRISON CAMP; LURED TO WILDS BY HOAX

(Copyright; 1931; By the New York Herald Tribune.)

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Nov. 23. —A thrilling story of the mass escape of 200 convicts from the forestry camps in French Guiana has just been reported from Cayenne.

A rumor that an American company constructing a railway in the interior of Dutch Guiana required labor spread through the penal camps. The men built rafts of bamboo logs and floated or paddled across the Maroni river to the Dutch frontier, where they crossed fever infested swamps and struggled through forests.

After days of privations they reached a village where they discovered the story was a hoax. The men, weary and dispirited, surrendered to the Dutch authorities or struggled back to the camp. The ringleaders were punished by solitary confinement on Devil's Isle.

Bang! Bang! Hunter Drys Shotgun Shells in Oven

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—A hot oven is no fit place to dry out a belt of shot gun shells, but Al Kahler, insurance man, experimented before he realized it. Returning home from duck hunting, Kahler disarmed, disrobed and tossed everything into the oven to dry. Within a few moments the shells dried and began to explode. Kahler and other members of the family took refuge in the basement and escaped unharmed. Considerable damage was done to the stove.

Steal Emergency Supplies from Lindbergh's Locker

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The theft of emergency rations, two sweaters, a tool kit and several other articles of flying equipment to the value of $375 belonging to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was discovered today at the Newark airport. The flier had placed them in a steel locker there when he and Mrs. Lindbergh returned from the Orient a fortnight ago.

Thieves Beat Customers to Mr. Horner's Turkeys

Fred Horner, owner of a butcher shop at 7140 Grand avenue, opened his establishment yesterday to discover that during the week-end thieves had stolen 4,725 pounds of turkeys which he had purchased for the Thanksgiving rush. They also got 300 pounds of butter and four tubes of lard, he told police.

Delicious Baked Goodies

for Thanksgiving home enjoyment

EVEN the fame of the finest coffee in the world—Henrici's—is not more widespread than the renown of Henrici's marvelous baked goodies.

To thousands of Chicagoans, old and young, Thanksgiving would not be Thanksgiving were the table devoid of a selection of the delicious plum puddings, cakes, torten, pies, cookies, marzipan, and other delightful confections of Henrici's inspired pastry cooks.

PLUM PUDDINGS in fancy crocks
Old English plum pudding, almost bursting with richness, and secretly flavored. Individual size, packed plain, 20c each; 6 to 16 portions, in fancy crocks, 75c to $2.

MINCE PIES with wonderful flaky crusts
Deep-dish filled with Henrici's own marvelous mincemeat, flavored with the spirit of hospitality. The choice of connoisseurs for generations, 75c.

LAYER CAKES—A very wide selection
All kinds and all delicious. Choose your favorite and take it home overfresh. From 75c to $1.00.

PUMPKIN PIES of generous content

TORTEN—As only Henrici's makes them
Exquisite in texture and flavor, fresh from the oven—fascinating selection to choose from. $2.00 and up.

DARK FRUIT CAKES in fancy metal containers
Made to Henrici's own priceless recipe—regal in richness, superbly flavored. Flattering gifts. $1.25 to $6.25.

DAINTY MARZIPAN in many pleasing fancies
Charming and seductive representations of fruits and vegetables—sweet and delectable. $1.50 pound.

COFFEE CAKES—Renowned for generations

Also a wide variety of fancy cakes, cookies in decorated metal boxes, and other pastries.

Many customers make their selections at the baked goods counter after luncheon, dinner, or supper. If this is not convenient for you, telephone DEArborn 1800, indicating the approximate time when you will call, and your favorite cake will be ready for you, hot from the oven, exhaling its fragrant aroma.

WOMEN RALLY BEHIND GOLDEN CARD TOURNEY

Leaders of City's Clubs Push Relief Plan.

BY CHARLES TRUE ADAMS.

Yesterday Tribune Tower became momentarily a social and club center of Chicago when Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, chairman of the women's division of the Joint Emergency Relief fund, met with Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations; Mrs. Charles G. Goodwin, financial director of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, and other prominent club women from various sections of the city.

The purpose of this meeting was to put all the strength of the club women of Chicago behind a final drive in behalf of the Golden Card tournament. Great as has been the response to date, these women have pledged themselves to treble it.

Four weeks ago I was asked by THE TRIBUNE if I believed that bridge players would care to do something toward alleviating the prevalent distress. It was a brand new idea to me. I considered it a good one.

Huge Army of Bridge Players.

Bridge players unquestionably constitute a larger class than the followers of any other game. Devotees of every other sport but bridge have contributed to relief funds through attendance at football games, boxing matches, tennis tournaments, and a variety of similar affairs. Bridge players, greatest of all these classes, have not yet come to the front.

The realization came to us that if we were interested in the game in Chicagoland would back up a Golden Card tournament to the amount of just $2 a table, the amount so raised would feed and carry hundreds of undernourished school children through the entire year, but also make a sizable contribution to the relief of those who are out of work through no fault of their own.

Bridge players this is your opportunity! For $2 a piece you can do a tremendous lot toward relieving the almost pressing needs of charity today, and in addition you will have the enjoyment of playing in the greatest and most spectacular of all card tournaments.

Club Leaders to Meet.

Next Friday the presidents of every women's organization cooperating with the Joint Emergency Relief fund, as well as numerous independent groups, will meet Mrs. Cudahy, Mrs. Hardy and Mrs. Goodwin at Tribune Tower, with the purpose of finding the full power of their organization behind the unorganized bridge players of Chicagoland who are already showing a willingness to give.

We do not wait for club action. I know of no more independent group of people than bridge players. I do not believe that bridge players need to be told. Organize your own party for the Golden Card Tournament on the night of Dec. 3, whether it is one table or 100 tables. Do your part in this great work! Play at your club or in your neighborhood hotel or play in your own home.

Fill the Hour, Dec. 3 the Date.

Precisely at 8:15 p. m. on Thursday, Dec. 3, thousands of bridge players in Chicago will sit down to bridge tables at the same moment, play the same hands, and fifty per cent of them will win the prized Golden Cards. A smaller but nevertheless a considerable number of players will be invited to participate in the final tournament to be held on Dec. 15.

The Golden Card tournament is the last appeal to bridge players as a way to help the needy. It would be safe, indeed, if bridge players should ask the sportsmanship and willingness to respond properly.

There is nothing difficult about the Golden Card tournament. There are no complicated rules. All you have to do is to organize your table or table and send $2 to THE TRIBUNE for each person playing. THE TRIBUNE will do the rest. You will be sent all necessary equipment, including instructions. In addition to this I will speak on the air over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station, at 8:15 on the night of Dec. 3 and will explain in detail, just before you sit down, the simple rules of the play and the scoring.

Leaders Invited to Meeting.

Mrs. Earl G. Whitaker, Rogers Park Woman's club.

Since many of the clubs mentioned will not be holding executive meetings before the date of the Golden Card Tournament, Mrs. Cudahy requests that the presidents themselves organize parties among their members.

I am confident that on the night of Dec. 3 practically every bridge player in Chicagoland will answer "I am here."

CHEMISTS ANNOUNCE NEW GASOLINE FOR AIRCRAFT AND CARS

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The research chemists of the Stanavo specification board of the Standard Oil company announced today the discovery of a new motor fuel for aircraft and automobiles which is noninflamable at ordinary temperatures and which is highly combustible at lower operating temperatures than ordinary gasoline. The discovery will lessen fire hazard in airplane crashes and will eliminate harmful adulteration of high test fuels with anti-knock ingredients, it was predicted by the physicists of the laboratories.

While the previous tests showed that the fuel can be used in ordinary motors with some difficulty, the testers said, a new method of fuel injection is advisable if full efficiency is to be gained. A large supply of the new safety fuel is being prepared for further tests by the board. It is manufactured by the hydrogenation process and has a flash point of 107 degrees Fahrenheit as compared with a practical point of inflammability of ordinary gasoline that is instantaneous.

LOST BALLOONIST APPEARS OUT OF CANADIAN WILDS

Tells Story of Battle with Elements.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Blown across Lake Erie and into the wilds of Ontario in a balloon Milford Vanik, 25, of Cleveland, fought his way through swamp and forest after landing in a tree top, to Dean Lake, Ontario, which he reached this morning.

Vanik took off from Cleveland at 8:30 Thursday night in a try for a pilot's license, and was not heard from again until today. It had been feared he had been forced down in Lake Erie by a storm which raged in his path, and search was made of its surface.

Arriving here on his way back to Cleveland Vanik told of being buffeted by the storm, of being swallowed up by fog, and a desperate fight to avoid being swamped on Lake Huron when the balloon settled to the surface of the wind tossed water.

"I left Cleveland at 8:30 in the evening with the wind blowing toward the northwest at ten miles per hour," Vanik said. "In ten minutes I was over Edgewater Park and out over Lake Erie. I kept my location until I passed over Sarnia at 12:30 a. m. Friday. That was the last time I saw land until I came down six hours later.

Engulfed by Fog.

"After passing Sarnia which I recognized by the lake traffic, I was above the clouds at 1,000 feet. Fog closed in about me and I had absolutely no conception of direction or speed. Then it started to rain and finally it changed into snow. It was the most terrible blizzard I ever was in.

"Ice formed on the basket. The bag became so heavy it was brought low and I continually lost ballast in an effort to keep above the clouds. I came down to 1,500 feet and the snow and ice which had formed on the bag fell off. The balloon shot up to 10,000 feet. From then on it was like that. Five runs costing me ten bags of ballast."

Vanik said after hours of buffeting about in the blizzard, he came down through a 3,000 foot strata of clouds about 6:30 Friday morning and found water everywhere, then came his frantic efforts to reach land.

Waves Roar Beneath Him.

"As I came down through the clouds I heard a roar below me. I thought it was a train, but when I got below the clouds I found it was waves roaring on the surface of the lake. I could see no land, nothing but water.

"I saw a little island and let out my drag rope to cut down my speed which was about 35 miles per hour. The rope dragging in the water, pulled the bag down with a slap on the surface and bounced it back up into the air like a rubber ball.

"Fearing it would be wrecked, I cut the drag rope and the balloon shot up to 15,000 feet in nothing flat."

Vanik then came down through the clouds and saw an area of islands, water and peninsulas, in northern Georgian Bay.

Flies Over Wilderness.

"I threw out my two remaining bags of ballast in an effort to get as far inland as possible. I kept losing altitude over the country that was the most God-forsaken I have ever seen. The basket struck a tree and then others until about 20 were knocked over like tenpins. Finally the bag hung upon a tree with the basket about six feet from the ground. I cut the basket loose with my knife.

I spent all of Friday there and slept that night in the basket. It was cold. Along about 3 o'clock in the morning I heard something outside. I looked out and saw what I first thought was a police dog. I called, thinking its master would be near. It turned toward me and I saw it was a wolf.

"The next day I walked and walked. Night came on. I struggled along in the darkness and into the next day. Sunday, sometimes through swamps and slashings. Then below me I saw a road. I struggled down to it and fell exhausted. A farmer picked me up and took me to his home at Patton, near Blind River. I stayed there overnight, wired my mother this morning and am now on my way home."

Vanik, though suffering from scratches and bruises and a wrenched leg, said he felt fine and had suffered no serious ill effects.

Vitamin D, the Life Saver, Also Poisonous, Scientist Reveals

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Pure vitamin D is a poison as well as a life-saver.

This discovery was explained today as one result of the "isolation" of a crystal which is pure vitamin D, announced last week by Prof. Adolf Windaus.

Isolation means that the vitamin has been separated completely from all the other substances in which it ordinarily exists. Prof. Windaus has a fragment of it in absolutely pure form. He refused today to discuss his discovery, which required four years of research, but he named as spokesman Prof. Carl Oppenheimer, a Berlin editor of scientific publications.

A Cure and a Poison.

"The physiological effects of the vitamin thus isolated," said Prof. Oppenheimer, "are the same as those of sunshine."

"Three-billionths of a gram of the crystal is sufficient to relieve rickets, the diet disorder which is caused by vitamin D deficiency. But one fifty-thousandth part of a gram is poisonous."

"It remained questionable hitherto whether the poisonous effects of vitamin D were derived from the vitamin, due to too high a dose, or whether they came from some other substance that was merely mixed with the vitamin. Now everything is clear."

How Crystal Was Obtained.

The pure crystal was obtained by use of certain rays of "artificial sunshine." It began several years ago when the scientific world sat up and took notice at the discovery that either artificial or natural ultra-violet rays of light acted upon cholesterol to produce vitamin D. Cholesterol is a substance related to rare alcohols and is distributed widely in growing things.

Prof. Windaus, however, learned that it was not the cholesterol that changed into vitamin D. The vitamin came from another substance, ergosterol, which always accompanied the presence of cholesterol.

Next he found that certain wave lengths of ultra-violet transform about 50 per cent of ergosterol into vitamin D, and that the remaining 50 per cent, which is not vitamin, is easily removable.

Reach Earth in Sunlight.

A striking feature is that the wave lengths making this 50 per-cent conversion are those which naturally reach the earth in sunlight. They are the ultra-violet rays down the 2,900 angstrom units, this unit being the scientific measuring rod for light impulses. Both artificial light and the sun produce ultra-violet rays much shorter and more powerful than the 2,900 kind, but those from the sun are filtered out by the atmosphere before reaching the earth's surface.

When the vitamin thus created by light has the useless half removed, part of the remaining vitamin crystallizes of its own accord. The remainder of the vitamin can be crystallized by treatment with a chemical anhydride of citraconic acid. This process appears to remove some sort of byproduct which serves to prevent full crystallization.

The vitamin crystals absorb ultra-violet light most strongly at 2,650 angstroms. This means that the vitamin has a special affinity for ultra-violet rays of that specially high power.

Prince, Who Once Refused Crown, Faces Loss of Leg

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Surgeons at the Anglo-American hospital here today deferred amputation of a leg of Prince Nemaleddine Hussein, well known explorer and big game hunter, awaiting the arrival of Princess Nimet, who is hurrying back from Europe. The prince refused the throne of Egypt on the death of his father, Sultan Hussein, in 1917.

COUNCIL GROUP DODGES STAND ON TAX FUNDING

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The nineteen members of the city council committee on efficiency and reorganization sidestepped an expression of their view on the proposed funding of the 1930 or the 1931 taxes yesterday afternoon. Last week this same committee approved of the plan "in principle."

ALD. BARNET HODES.

The members have had a subcommittee investigating taxes since May 6. This subcommittee, headed by Ald. Barnet Hodes, reported its findings on the funding plan a month ago. This recommendation as amended yesterday, is a compromise between the one recommended by the Chicago Real Estate board and the governor's tax conference.

Two Plans Proposed.

The real estate board advocates the funding of the 1930 taxes over a period of twenty years, except the state's part. The governor's tax conference recommends that the 1930 taxes for the state, schools, bonds and interest be paid as a first installment of those taxes and the remainder—estimated at 45 per cent—be paid in five equal annual installments, with interest at 6 per cent.

The Hodes subcommittee recommended the issuance of bonds for the 1930 taxes, except the taxes for the state and for bonds and interest.

The reason the committee on efficiency refused to commit itself on the compromise plan which it drafted yesterday is because the council finance committee is considering the entire program of the governor's tax conference, with a view of recommending to the city council an expression of opinion. The finance committee has another session on this subject next Friday. The efficiency committee decided to attempt to have a joint meeting of the two committees at that time.

Moves for Acceptance.

Ald. Hodes made a motion yesterday that the committee approve the plan submitted by his subcommittee. Ald. Waller, as a substitute, moved that consideration of the report be deferred and a joint meeting with the finance committee be sought. On that later motion the vote was a tie. Aldermen Healy, Rowan, Kovarik, Morris, Waller, Hoellen, and Williston voted for the Waller motion. Against it voted Aldermen Schrieber, Hodes, Konkowski, Rostenkowski, Robinson, Orlikoski, and Quinn.

Chairman Cronson broke the tie by voting against the Waller motion. Then Ald. Hodes moved to report the recommendations of his subcommittee to the council, but defer action on it there, and in the meantime ask a joint session with the finance committee. That motion was adopted without a record roll call.

From that action the attitude of the committee on funding is hazy. It was not specifically stated whether the recommendations of the subcommittee have the approval of the entire committee.

TEACHERS' LAWYERS ASK PASSAGE OF BILLS IN ASSEMBLY

Attorneys representing Chicago public school teachers, at a meeting last night, recommended the passage of several bills by the general assembly.

Among these were three empowering insurance companies and other Illinois corporations to purchase tax anticipation warrants as investments; another to prevent tax objectors from filing their objections until their protested taxes have been paid, and one to legalize the existence of the Crane Junior college.

The attorneys also approved a measure to compel the treasurer of the board of education to validate salary checks not paid, so that they will bear interest, and one to allow issuance of bonds, outside of Chicago, to raise funds for salaries, the bond issues not to exceed the amount of delinquent school taxes.

Among those present were Thurlow G. Essington, Allan J. Carter, I. T. Greenacre, and Ald. Wiley Mills.

HOLD MEETING TONIGHT FOR TAX PROTESTS

A mass meeting of protest against increased taxes will be held tonight at the Hotel Sherman. The meeting is sponsored by the Federation of American Business. James E. Bennett will preside.

John Spargo of Bennington, Vt., will address the meeting on "Communism, Socialism or Americanism," and D. N. Lightfoot of Springfield, Mo., will talk on "Taxes and Prosperity."

Sponsors of the meeting call attention to the fact that the national government is spending at the rate of two billions of dollars a year more than it is receiving from the prevailing taxes, and that direct or indirect taxes now cost the average family more than $535 each year as compared to $150 in 1913. The sponsors also announced that the meeting is called to take steps to safeguard the United States against giving a dole to the unemployed, which proved disastrous in England.

150 TEACHERS IN JAIL; PLANNED 'PAYLESS' PARADE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Approximately 150 school teachers, men and women who planned a march to Mexico City as a protest against not having been paid for months, were in jail in the penitentiary at San Luis Potosi today, and protesting telegrams were showered upon President Ortiz Rubio, Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, and Narciso Bassols, minister of education.

Word received here said the teachers are being held incommunicado by the state government at San Luis Potosi as a result of their announcement that they intended to march the 300 miles to Mexico City to demand their pay.

County to Make Belated Salary Payments Today

Cook county employes will get their pay today for the first half of October, and at the same time pension checks will be mailed by the county to 600 mothers and 1,800 orphans supported under the mothers' pension act. The money for the payrolls and pension payments was obtained by borrowing $325,000 from the fund in which state payments to the county for hard road improvements are placed, and by the use of $185,000 in gasoline tax collections recently turned over to the county. This will be the last payday before the end of the fiscal year, Dec. 1, officials said, which means that county employes will finish the fiscal year with their salaries a month and a half in arrears.

LAWYER RENEWS TAX ATTACK ON TRUST ESTATES

A stipulation as to the manner in which $4,000,000,000 contained in trust estates administered by Cook county banks is assessed for personal property taxes was suggested yesterday by Attorney Morris Schaeffer as a means of ending the controversy before County Judge Jarecki regarding production of the state auditor's records of such estates.

MORRIS SCHAEFFER.

Attorney Schaeffer, who represents some 2,000 taxpayers seeking to have the 1928 and 1929 assessments declared invalid, has sought to force State Auditor Nelson to produce in court the reports made to him annually by banks on the trust estates under their administration.

Through these reports he hoped to show that in spite of their existence being a matter of public record the assessors had failed to list the estates at any figure approximating their real value, thus placing an inequitable burden on real estate taxpayers.

Yesterday he suggested that the banks and the board of assessors stipulate that trust estates have been assessed at approximately one-ninth of their real value. That is less than a third of the 37 per cent of the real value of real estate which is the valuation for assessment purposes.

The banks had joined with County Attorney Hayden N. Bell, who represents the assessors, in objecting to production of the auditor's records. They asserted that their reports were privileged and were not available for assessment purposes. The banks made an added objection that disclosure of some of the trust estates might embarrass clients who established them.

Attorney Schaeffer said yesterday that he had no wish to have the details of individual estates. He did ask, however, that any stipulation arrived at list the aggregate of trust estates administered by the Chicago Title and Trust company and eight large loop banks, and the sums at which those estates were assessed for personal property taxes.

Attorney Bell said that he could not agree to the stipulation without first consulting the members of the board of assessors.

INDUSTRIALISTS ASK NEW YORK TO REDUCE TAX

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The manufacturers of New York state, already laboring under a burden of taxes which has driven a number of them to move their plants elsewhere, will leave the state in far greater number if their taxes are increased, James R. Knapp, counsel for the associated industries of New York state, warned the New York state commission for revision of the tax laws today.

He pointed out that the taxes imposed upon manufacturers in this state are now considerable higher than those imposed in any of the ten chief industrial states east of the Mississippi and urged that instead of an increase in taxes that the industrialists and corporations be granted lower levies.

Mr. Knapp was only one of a dozen representatives of various industries who appeared before the commission and argued against various tax increases the commission is known to be considering. Opposition was expressed to an increase in the gasoline tax to four cents a gallon, to a tax on cosmetics and toilet articles, to a tax on tobacco tax, to taxes on soft drinks and to various other items.

SENATORS TALK OF WORK, THEN CALL IT A DAY

Income and Sales Taxes Are Discussed.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The state senate almost started work this afternoon. It talked about work all the time it was in session, agreeing emphatically that something—no one knew just what—had to be done, but when it decided to go ahead in any way the discovery was made that a quorum wasn't present, so all gave up and went to the hotels until tomorrow.

Convening peaceably at twilight, the "house of lords" immediately broke out in loud language over a resolution, proceeding in good faith, he said, by Senator Victor P. Michel [Rep., Peoria], calling for a sine die adjournment. It was silly, said Mr. Michel, to prolong the life of a session that won't going anywhere.

"I want to vote for it right now and save the state about $100,000," he yelled. "I'll even throw in my $50 for incidentals."

Rejoinders were heard around the chamber, the one distinguishable voice being that of Harold C. Kessinger [Rep., Aurora].

Refers to Income Tax.

"I shouldn't be surprised if we end up with your resolution," he said to Michel, "but we've got to do something first." The alternatives, he intimated, are to pass the income tax, some other replacement tax, or, as the Woodul bill provides, a general sales tax.

"And it's may idea," Kessinger stated, "that a general sales tax might not be a bad idea—in lieu of all other taxes."

"O, no!" a voice declared.

"O, yes!" replied the Aurorian. "If it's high enough. Here you see 204 men [the assembly membership] moving along without leaders, but we ought to try and pass something before we quit. One thing we can do is pass my bill providing for a 10 per cent wage cut for all state employés and a cut of 10 per cent for ourselves."

"And I'll vote for that," Michel stated in.

Courtney Has His Say.

The minority leader, Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago, had the next say.

"We can assume," he declared, "that the program of the governor's tax conference won't be adopted en toto, but it's up to us to do something. Kessinger seems to think that the income tax bill will pass. Maybe it will, but if it does, it won't be because the citizens of the state want it. It will be because the representatives of the smaller districts want it.

"Inasmuch as we're not getting anywhere, why not appoint a small committee—three Republicans and two Democrats, if you will—to sit down and call in the tax conference members and try to get going. I think we should learn of the plans they rejected, not just those they recommend. I don't want to come down here every day until April 1 for $50.

Then Try Something Else.

"Let's consider the bills before us first," urged Andrew S. Cuthbertson [Rep., Bunker Hill]. "Then we can try something else."

The next suggestion was from Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago], who proposed that all state department heads be called in and their pay rolls cut by considering the duties of each employé minutely.

"O, well," countered Adelbert H. Roberts [Rep., Chicago], "I can't think of a single senator who didn't appear before the appropriations committee on some department appropriation or other and urge it."

"I move," said Senator Cuthbertson, "that the senate meet as the revenue committee tomorrow morning to consider all bills." This motion passed.

"It would be the best thing in the world if we would adjourn for ten years," murmured Michel, "and that goes for congress, too. We've done nothing here, but I'm offering you something concrete."

JAILED AS GUN TOTER.

Sets $45,000 Bail for Trio Held in Counterfeit Case

Willis Nelson, Henry LeClaire and George Wilson were held in bonds of $15,000 each by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday on charges of counterfeiting. The three were arrested last week by United States Secret Service agents under Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, who raided their apartment at 940 Argyle street and discovered an elaborate counterfeiting outfit concealed under a false mantel over a fireplace. The defendants pleaded that they had no attorneys and a hearing on the case was continued until Nov. 30.

IGOE CALLS ON TAX SESSION FOR SOME TAX BILLS

Proposes Joint Body to Start Action.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Leaders in the Illinois house of representatives tonight began to put pressure behind a plan to get some action on taxation and financial relief, a task for which the special session was convened some three weeks ago, and which thus far have got nowhere.

Minority Leader Michael L. Igoe came forward with a plan for a joint committee of both houses to lay out a definite program of legislation for this purpose. He took the subject up with Speaker Shanahan and spokesmen for the Republican side of the house and found the idea favorably received.

Then he sought to present it to a group of senate leaders but found that chamber in the process of recessing for the day. He was able to take the plan up with Senator Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago, minority leader of the upper house, who agreed to support the movement.

Senate Wants Action.

If is expected the senate will welcome the plan, for its walls resounded during a late afternoon meeting with demands for definite action. Igoe intends to present the subject in the senate tomorrow and probably will present a resolution to create the joint committee before the house recesses Wednesday.

As a first step he has called a caucus of Democratic house members for tomorrow morning, and it is possible that a Republican meeting will be held durihg the day.

Sentiment in favor of a better organized effort to consider the governor's tax conference program and other proposed legislation was crystallized when members arriving for the opening of the fourth week of the special session found the records showed 263 bills before the two chambers with absolutely no action taken upon any of them except those of a comparatively minor nature.

House Hears Experts.

The plan for this week has been to continue with hearings on the major proposals, and the house went ahead through a late afternoon and an evening session listening to speakers called by Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of the executive committee of the governor's conference. John O. Rees of the Cook county joint commission on real estate valuation, and Attorney Hayden Bell, for years an expert in tax legislation, were the speakers.

Attorney Bell made a particularly favorable impression with his insistences that Chicago itself is sick of tax fixing and other abuses of the present tax system, and that the solution to the problem lies in the replacement of the present boards of eight members by a single assessor selected through "representative government in the form of the little legislature, the county board."

The house, upon motion of Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Chicago Republican, voted to invite several Chicagoans to speak on Wednesday, including County Judge Jarecki, President Wheelan of the Cook county board, and Chairman John E. Conroy and Chief Appraiser Charles E. Fox of the board of assessors.

School Board Talks Today.

A large part of tomorrow probably will be given up to the special program of the Savage-Myers majority of the Chicago school board. This decision was the result of the arrival of a delegation here today that reminded onlookers of an invasion by the old city hall machine. The arrivals included Trustees Savage, English, Hemingway and Blatchford, Attorneys T. V. Sullivan and Frank Righeimer, and a number of labor leaders, such as Patrick F. Sullivan, Michael Kelly, and heads of several unions of school board employés. The school delegation is expected to total 125 tomorrow.

Representatives of the Chicago Real Estate board here say they may have 89 more bills to introduce, either this or next week, but it is believed such a move would be fruitless because of the irritation of many members over the already gloomy outlook for real accomplishment.

How scant the prospect is for real action this week is shown by scrutiny of the new official synopsis and digest and the calendars of the two houses.

All of the 32 bills proposed by the governor's tax conference with one exception are still under consideration by each of the houses as a whole and have not even reached first reading. In the senate they are before the revenue committee, which was enlarged to include the complete membership of the chamber, and in the house they are before the committee of the whole. The one exception is a downstate proposal to validate certain tax levy ordinances adopted before the expiration of the ten days' publication required by law.

In the senate the miscellaneous bills, making up a total of 71 presented there, are still before the revenue committee, but in the house the miscellany which brought its total of bills up to 197 are, with few exceptions, either before the committee of the whole or are held on Speaker Shanahan's table until he determines whether they come within the scope of the special session.

They're Too Good for The Money!

That's what one person remarked as he looked in Hartman's 99c Window.

And that's why Chicago mobbed us yesterday . . . to revel in the greatest values seen hereabouts in many a long day.

Fully half our items were sold out . . . a fact we view with greatest satisfaction, for it proves Chicago knows that Hartman's 99c Day is the smash value event of the month.

SEIZE $300,000 IN HOLIDAY RUM ON SHIP, HOLD 60

U. S. Agents Find 2 Stills, 10,000 Gals. of Alky.

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Federal government agencies struck two hard blows at as many sources of New York City's holiday liquor supply today.

A shipment of imported liquor valued at from $300,000 to $350,000 was seized by customs agents aboard the tanker Raritan Sun on the south Brooklyn water front during the early morning hour, the crew of sixty being arrested and the tanker, reputedly worth $750,000, was confiscated.

Raid Newark Building.

A few hours later prohibition enforcement agents raided a building in Newark, and seized what they declared to be the largest distillery found in this region since prohibition went into effect. Ten thousand gallons of freshly distilled alcohol were found in the place and two 50,000 gallon stills—both in full operation.

The distillery was said to be capable of producing 60,000 gallons of finished alcohol from molasses daily. Pipe lines had been improvised to carry the alcohol from storage tanks within the building to tank cars on a railroad siding. Thanks to the sounding of a siren as the dry agents invaded the distillery, the entire working crew escaped, some of them leaping through windows while dry agents were grabbing at their coattails.

The raid on the tanker was a remarkable bit of undercover work, especially in view of the report that an unnamed special agent succeeded in signing up as a member of the vessel's crew and was aboard it when his plans were consummated at dawn in a surprise raid from land and shore by seventy-five federal agents.

Admit Owning Vessel.

The ship is owned by the Sun Oil company of New York and Philadelphia. It is a 533 ton all steel, motor propelled vessel, built for the Sun Oil company at Chester, Pa., in 1930. It is 189 feet long with a beam of thirty-one feet and dept of 11.5. Philadelphia is its home port, and it has been engaged in the carriage of bulk petroleum between its home port and New York.

According to federal authorities, the officials of the oil company admitted ownership of the boat, but disclaimed all knowledge of its illegal use. It left New York for Philadelphia Friday and, according to authorities, met a rum ship out in the rum line, taking on its cargo of liquor, which amounted to from 4,000 to 5,000 cases.

CORONER SEEKS TO TEST DRUGGAN MACHINE GUNS

Following the discovery of two submachine guns in the apartment of Terry Druggan, public enemy and gangster, at 7064 Greenview avenue, Coroner Frank J. Walsh announced yesterday that he will appear before Judge Michael Feinberg today and ask that the guns be turned over to him for ballistics tests.

The guns were found when Bernard Horowitz, receiver for the West Central State bank, made an inventory of Druggan's furniture. The guns were found concealed in a closet. The receiver took over the gangster's belongings because Druggan had obtained $17,000 in unsecured loans from the West Central bank. The furniture has been valued at $20,000 and Druggan's loans will be repaid in full, it was stated to Judge Feinberg, who has been endeavoring to find assets with which to pay depositors.

Coroner Walsh said the guns would be examined and bullets fired from them compared with bullets found after murders had been committed, apparently by machine guns. This comparison will be made in the case of the St. Valentine's day massacre. Druggan was a suspect for a time in the murders.

AVIATION NOTES

Cruising at a speed of 162 miles an hour, Walter Braxnell, pilot on Universal division of American Airways, yesterday flew from St. Louis to Chicago in 92 minutes, clipping 8 minutes off of the previous record for the distance of 254 miles, established by Robert Jewell in March, 1930. Braxnell was flying one of the new 9-passenger Pilgrim planes, Hornet powered, recently placed in service on the line with 5 passengers and 200 pounds of mail.

New officers of Aviation Post of the American Legion will be elected today at a luncheon meeting in the Midland club, 172 West Adams street.

Robert J. Rentz, terminal manager for American Airways at Chicago airport, last night addressed the Chicago Aero Philatelic society at 104 North Clark street.

Loop pedestrians at noon yesterday saw William B. Stout's midget sky-car plane flying beside a tri-motor Stinson airliner operated by Century Air lines, the two extreme in aircraft. The sky-car seats two persons and the air-liner ten.

Capone Ally Back in U. S.; Move Begun to Deport Him

Dominick Roberto, Capone lieutenant in Chicago Heights, who fled to Italy in 1928 after being indicted on a booze charge, has reentered the United States, according to word received yesterday. Assistant United States Attorney Eugene A. Tappy announced that he would take immediate steps toward Roberto's deportation.

The booze indictment is no longer effective because the disappearance of witnesses and evidence, it is said. When Tappy heard that Roberto had arrived at Ellis island, he obtained a new indictment against him on a perjury charge, on the ground that he falsified his naturalization papers.

AIRMAN CHARGES TURKS TORTURED HIM FOR CRASH

Rich British Planter Tells Harrowing Story.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The harrowing experiences of a wealthy English planter who tried to hang up a new record for a flight from England to Australia were related today by Alfred Leclair. He alleges that Turkish police imprisoned and tortured him for four months.

Leclair signed an affidavit certifying to the truth of the story, but has made no protest to the foreign office as far as is known. He has returned to London after recovering his health in Alexandretta, Syria.

Plane Crashes in Wires.

Leclair said he was forced off his course over the Taurus mountains. When the plane's oiling system failed he attempted to glide into an open space near the Turkish town of Tarsus, but his ship caught on telegraph wires in landing and crashed. He alleged he was immediately surrounded and arrested for murder. The police charged he had knocked down a telegraph pole and killed a child.

"I was thrown into prison, where the food consisted of bread and water so meager that two prisoners murdered each other in a knife fight over a drink," the flyer said.

A lawyer, Leclair said, charged $500 to defend him. He was allowed to procure bail of $300, which he was forced to obtain from a money lender at 1,000 per cent interest. He was also charged with landing at Tarsus without a permit, which he stated the Turks regarded as a criminal offense. He was sentenced to pay the parents of the child $1,700, ordered to prison for one year and was compelled to pay $300 for damages done when his plane crashed.

Robbed and Beaten.

"I was allowed bail pending an appeal and went to Mersina determined to escape," Leclair said. "I agreed to pay boatmen $150 to smuggle me to Syria, but I was beaten and robbed of the $150 while waiting to swim to the boat by a gang leader whom I later identified as the commissioner of police."

Leclair stated he returned to Tarsus and paid $100 for his freedom. While awaiting a hearing on the appeal, he was again tossed into a cell for residing in the country illegally, paying another $100 to gain his freedom.

"I then negotiated with smugglers and was taken across the Syrian frontier on horseback for a fee of $150," the flyer concluded.

ENDS HER LIFE IN RIVER.

Mrs Amitha Arnold, 54 years old, 9708 North Ridgeway avenue, ended her life yesterday by leaping into the north branch of the Chicago river near the Kinzie street bridge. She had a nervous breakdown recently, her husband told police.

Grand Jury Questions Two More Officials.

While the grand jury yesterday continued its investigation of the Bain banks, questioning two witnesses, preparations were completed for a renewal today of the hearing in Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg's court, which has supplied voluminous evidence concerning the operations of Banker John Bain and his family.

NINA RUSTAY.

Information is to be disclosed today concerning John Bain's personal correspondence shortly before the twelve banks of which he was the organizer closed, it was reported. This evidence is to be given by Miss Nina Rutsay, stenographer to the banker, who was questioned at length yesterday by Judge Feinberg.

Find Shorthand Notes.

The originals of the letters which Miss Rutsay took down in shorthand have not been found. But the young woman's shorthand records were discovered by the judge and the receiver for John Bain, Inc., some time ago. Miss Rutsay yesterday read from her shorthand notes to Judge Feinberg for a period of several hours. The information thus revealed was kept a secret by the judge, but is expected to be made public at the hearing today.

The grand jurors yesterday kept Edward C. Barry, vice president of the closed West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, in the grand jury room for several hours. He was questioned at length concerning the methods by which officers and directors of the bank obtained loans, and in particular as to whether the board of directors knew of these loans. The law requires the entire board of directors must approve such loans before they may legally be granted.

The directors and officials of the West Englewood bank borrowed $589,000 before the bank failed. Directors and officials of the twelve Bain banks borrowed more than $4,500,000 up to June 9, when the chain crashed.

Another Director Questioned.

Carl Hornung, another director of the bank and one of the few directors of the bank who signed immunity waivers, was also a witness for a short time. Miss Anna Eunson, personal secretary to John Bain; Dr. Walter Buhlig, Bain's physician and a director of the West Englewood bank, who obtained a large loan; and Ernest Sinclair, who was an employé of John Bain, Inc., had been summoned but were not questioned. They will be questioned today. Fred A. Kerbs, former trust officer of the bank, was another who was called but not questioned.

State's Attorney Swanson called a meeting of the 34 auditors, six assistant state's attorneys, and two investigators who have been working on the closed bank's situation, and urged that they speed up their work as much as possible. The November grand jury has little more than a week to wind up its investigation, it was pointed out.

The rumor that John Bain had resigned as south park commissioner was revived yesterday in political circles. President Edward J. Kelly of the south park board and the other commissioners said they had received no notice of the reported resignation. Bain is at present in the German Evangelical Deaconness hospital, where a minor operation has been performed upon him, and a second operation will be performed soon.

Judge Feinberg announced that he will have his physician, Dr. Louis Brown, examine Bain this week and determine how soon the banker may make a court appearance. The judge declared he had "10,000 questions to ask Mr. Bain."

Seeks to Recover Funds.

Probate Judge Henry Horner yesterday revealed that a fund of $250,000 under the control of the Probate court is in about 45 closed banks. The $250,000 belongs to approximately 10,000 minors, insane persons and incompetent persons whose money is cared for by the Probate court. The judge announced that he would go before Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan today with a petition in a test case by which he hopes to have the funds of wards of the Probate court declared a prior claim upon the assets of the closed banks. This would mean that such funds would be paid back to the Probate court before the funds of ordinary depositors.

Other bank developments yesterday included the following:

1. Judge Joseph Burke of the Circuit court ruled that fraud was practiced by Dr. Sigmund Mann, 5146 West 25th street, when he signed over $7,500 in mortgages to two relatives two days after the Cicero Trust and Savings bank closed. Dr. Mann owed the bank $3,700 on an unsecured note. Dr. Mann was given until Friday to pay $500 on his debt as an evidence of good faith and was warned by the court that unless the balance was forthcoming immediately he would be held to the grand jury.

2. Thomas J. O'Connor, real estate dealer of Calumet City, was appointed receiver for the Calumet City State bank by State Auditor Nelson. The bank was closed on Nov. 6 with resources of $469,552 and deposits of $393,730.

3. An information was filed at Woodstock, Ill., by State's Attorney S. S. Lumley of McHenry county, against M. J. Kent, real estate dealer, charging him with spreading derogatory comments concerning the West McHenry State bank, which is regarded as a strong institution. Kent will be arraigned today.

EXPECT SUPREME COURT'S RULING ON O'BRIEN SOON

The United States Supreme court is expected to announce on Nov. 30 whether it will review the income tax case of State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, dispatches from Washington stated yesterday. O'Brien, who was sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary and fined $6,000, filed his petition for a writ of certiorari a month ago and it was submitted to the court for action yesterday.

LAWRENCE O'BRIEN.

The petition for a review claims that the conviction of O'Brien for willful failure to file returns and for willful attempts to evade and defeat his taxes for the same years and on the same set of facts constitutes double jeopardy. Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals upheld this theory in dissenting from the court's verdict when it affirmed the O'Brien conviction.

The politician, whose income of almost a million dollars for 1926, 1927 and 1928 was derived in the main from contracts with the sanitary district, is alleged to owe the government more than $80,000.

MEXICAN FLYER REPORTED DEAD TURNS UP ALIVE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Arnulfo Cortes, Mexican aviator, turned up today to deny published reports of his death before his superiors at the aviation field here.

Newspapers were informed yesterday by telephone that Cortes had been killed in an airplane crash in the mountains at Rio Frio.

RALPH CAPONE REBUFFED AGAIN BY HIGH COURT

The United States Supreme court yesterday refused for the second time to review the conviction of Ralph J. Capone for income tax fraud. Capone went to Leavenworth penitentiary last month and is serving his three year sentence.

The mittimus for the gangster's imprisonment was issued here when the Supreme court first declined to review the conviction. Capone's attorney, George N. Murdock, filed another petition for a writ of certiorari, contending that certain points of law in the case should be reviewed.

TWIN-VOICE
[TWO DYNAMIC SPEAKERS]
RADIO!
The greatest advancement since the superheterodyne

COME in and hear the Receiver that for the first time in history has given really lifelike tone to Radio!

Gulbransen now offers you TWIN-VOICE—the radio with two balanced dynamic speakers—a radio able to really cover the entire tonal range, from piccolo to bass viol, with utter fidelity!

Here is Radio so nearly perfect in tone that it makes any set you may have—any set you may be planning to buy—at once semi-obsolete for anyone who has a good musical ear.

Gone entirely are the "voice-in-a-barrel" and the "tinny" high notes of older receivers. Gone is the exasperating inability to catch the niceties of shading which has made all radio unsatisfying to truly musical listeners.

Gulbransen, famous for a quarter of a century as a creator of fine musical instruments, has made the Radio a musical instrument.

Ultra-Modern in Every Detail

This great, new 10-tube GULBRANSEN TWIN-VOICE RADIO includes the very latest Vari-mu and Pentode tubes—screen-grid tubes—visual tuning meter—automatic and manual volume control and power-quiet switch. It is super-selective in getting distant stations. It is refreshingly free from "blasting," fading, cross-talk and tube noises.

Today, right now if you possibly can, go to the Gulbransen dealer nearest your home and ask to hear the great new Twin-Voice radio. Compare it with any or all radios you have ever known. You are sure to say, as we say—GULBRANSEN TWIN-VOICE is the greatest advance since the superheterodyne.

LEAGUE SEEKING AID OF U. S. TO BOYCOTT JAPAN

Administration Fails to Divulge Stand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—There were strong evidences today that the league of nations council at Paris is bringing increasing pressure upon the United States in an attempt to persuade this country to agree to join in an economic blockade against Japan in event such a step is decided upon by the league powers.

Thus far the United States, it was asserted today, at the state department, has not committed itself either to Japan or to the league regarding the attitude it would take on the question of participating in an economic blockade as a peace move. Before the United States could invoke an economic blockade congressional approval would be necessary.

Whether President Hoover is considering asking congress to agree to concerted action through economic sanctions was not made known today. It was apparent in state department circles, however, that considerable consideration has been given by American officials to the question of applying sanctions.

Dawes Is Quoted.

That some hint of economic sanctions is appearing in the Paris negotiations was accepted here as evident today when "league quarters" were quoted in press reports as stating that Ambassador Dawes had made it plain the United States would not participate in such a step. Gen. Dawes, now representing the United States during the peace negotiations at Paris, was quoted as saying "If the league wishes to apply economic sanctions to get the Japanese to withdraw, very well; but America will not participate."

State department officials denied that such a statement had been made by Ambassador Dawes. It was asserted in this connection that this country had no intention of showing its hand at this time. Only a few days ago the state department denied just as flatly that it had informed Japan the United States would not invoke sanctions.

Stimson Is Silent.

Although Secretary Stimson maintained silence on the Manchurian situation today there were many indications that the Hoover administration is flirting with the idea of going so far as to try to entangle this country with the league powers in the use of economic force in the Manchurian situation. In event congress were asked to act, a long drawn out controversy almost certainly would be provoked.

JAPANESE ARMY MARCHES SOUTH TOWARD CHINA

Ordered to Suppress Bandit Horde.

quoting Japanese news dispatches recounting the activities of bandits in the region of Chinchow. The Japanese reports alleged that these bandits constituted a menace to Japanese interests.

Japanese reports in the last few days also have alleged that 50,000 Chinese troops under Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian governor, were massing at Chinchow preparatory to an attack on Mukden.

"From past experience," Dr. Sze remarked acutely, referring to these reports, "a message of this nature from a Japanese source, directly or indirectly, indicates that military activities in the regions concerned are under contemplation by the Japanese army."

Charges Japan Directs Bandits.

If you have a good small scale map of Manchuria, note a black line representing a railroad running between Mukden and Peiping by way of Chinchow. A little west of Mukden the railroad makes an almost right angle turn south. Right in the elbow of this kink is situated the town of Hsinmin. Well, it was just there that a force of Chinese bandits, equipped and directed by Japan, Dr. Sze charges in his note to the league tonight, made an attack on the city yesterday morning.

This attack, which the Chinese claim is the first move in a general Japanese offensive toward the Great Wall separating China proper from Manchuria, was finally beaten off by Chinese police, Dr. Sze said. A search of the field of battle, he continued, disclosed that the bandits left hand grenades and mortar shells behind them, clearly indicating that they had been supplied by the Japanese. The note adds that two bombs were found on the premises of the Japanese consulate.

League Draws Up New Plan.

Tonight's sensational developments were preceded earlier today by another fruitless attempt by the league to draw up a formula to solve the far eastern problem. The twelve neutral members of the council at a secret meeting drew up a new proposal, containing a preamble and four points. The preamble, which was couched in the language of the platonic resolution of Sept. 30, reminds the Japanese of their moral obligation under this resolution to withdraw their troops at the earliest possible moment consistent with security, but provides no time limit for the evacuation.

The first point of the resolution deals with an "armistice." It recommends that instructions be sent to the Japanese and Chinese commanders to cease hostilities and generally refrain from warlike provocations.

The second point provides that the two parties to the dispute should continue to keep the council informed about developments.

The third point provides that the other governments should do the same.

Provides for Investigation.

The fifth point deals with a committee to investigate the Manchurian situation. It will be called a "committee of study."

The formula for this committee follows the Japanese idea pretty faithfully, only instead of having an express mandate for investigating all of China as well as Manchuria, as the recent Japanese proposal provided, the committee would be instructed to investigate Manchuria, and to include China if they think it advisable. As demanded by the Japanese, the committee would have no power to investigate troop movements or to interfere otherwise with the war, nor to intervene in any direct negotiations between Tokio and Nanking that might be opened.

The Chinese reaction to such a proposal was voiced emphatically by Dr. Sze. In a flatfooted memorandum to the league he said:

"An inquiry without at the same time providing for immediate cessation of hostilities and the withdrawal of Japanese forces becomes a mere device to condone and perpetuate for a more or less indefinite period the unjustifiable occupation of China's territory by an aggressor who has already virtually attained his unlawful object while these discussions have been going on.

Refuses to Consider Plan.

"In the circumstances you will readily see it is quite impossible for me to consider the proposal in question until the basis above mentioned has been adequately laid down."

In case the league tries too hard to ram a resolution down their throats, the Chinese say they will invoke other articles of the covenant. For the moment their thoughts are hinging on article 11, which obliges the council to guarantee the territorial integrity of parties to a dispute, but their attitude generally is that if the league cannot carry out the provisions of one article, there is no reason to hope they will do better with another.

TSITSIHAR, Manchuria, Nov. 20.—[By courier to Harbin.]—[Delayed.]—Five days ago, when Gen. Ma Chan-shan, the last remaining Chinese authority in Manchuria, was interviewed here, he declared his intention to hold out until death, but hoped the league of nations would act to prevent a further advance of the Japanese army.

Today Gen. Ma's army has retreated and scattered to the mountainous regions adjacent to the Siberian frontier. In place of the Chinese general acting as governor of Heilungkiang province, Gen. Jiro Tamon, commander of the second division of the Japanese army, is now the sole authority in the vast north Manchurian area, which is equivalent to the territory of two or three large states in the American union.

Calls League "Tiring."

When asked his opinion regarding the league, Gen. Tamon laughingly replied:

"It is very tiring. It does not understand the conditions in Manchuria."

Gen. Tamon's headquarters were established in the Tsitsihar office of the South Manchuria railway, only a short distance from the Chinese governor's former headquarters, which are now vacant. The Japanese army, now increased to 5,000 men, is quartered in the Chinese barracks on the outskirts of Tsitsihar. Gen. Tamon described the barracks as being "very dirty."

Japanese Troops to Stay.

Regarding his future plans, Gen. Tamon said orders have been received from Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander in chief, to send back to Mukden one regiment of infantry and one battalion of artillery. The rest of the troops will stay in Tsitsihar, which is in the soviet zone of influence, until traffic has been restored on the Taonan-Anganchi railway and the political situation has been stabilized in north Manchuria. Supplies for the winter have been ordered.

Gen. Tamon gave detailed descriptions of the Sino-Japanese military activities, beginning with the incidents near the Nonni river bridge early in the present month. He said the Japanese troops which were sent to guard the men repairing the bridge totaled only 1,800 and were unable to advance against Gen. Ma's force of 10,000 infantry men and 3,000 cavalry men.

Gen. Tamon at that time had headquarters at Changchun, but when the situation was realized by the Japanese, he immediately ordered more troops from Mukden, Port Arthur and Ceres, raising the Japanese force to 5,000.

When the bridge was repaired and the Japanese were ready to move, Gen. Tamon continued, a final ultimatum was issued to Gen. Ma ordering him to evacuate Tsitsihar as well as the railway area. Gen. Ma replied in an ambiguous manner, Gen. Tamon declared, meanwhile telegraphing Nanking and Peiping his intention to hold out to the last.

At this point in the interview Gen. Tamon was asked regarding reports pertaining to the Chinese being given assistance by the soviets. The Japanese general denied the report that Russian bodies had been found in Chinese uniforms. He said he had found no evidence of Russian participation except that the Chinese gunfire was more accurate than usual, leading to the suspicion that the Chinese gunners had been Russian trained.

Charges Japanese Were Burned.

Gen. Tamon said 72 were killed in the Nonni river battle, 96 were wounded, and 31 missing. He placed the Chinese casualties at 700 killed and wounded.

He told of one incident in which an officer and 21 soldiers guarding Japanese commissary supplies concealed in a Chinese farmyard and entirely surrounded by haystacks, were surrounded by 500 of Gen. Ma's cavalry. The haystacks were burned and all the Japanese were burned to death except one, who escaped to tell the story.

Gen. Tamon claimed the Chinese troops began their retreat shortly after they learned of the arrival of Japanese reinforcements, which cut down the Chinese superiority to about two Chinese to one Japanese. However, the Chinese continued fighting, he said, and attempted cavalry flank attacks to cover their retirement until the Chinese Eastern railway tracks had been crossed, when the Chinese retreat apparently became demoralized.

Says Anganchi Was Undamaged.

The retreating Chinese troops, as well as the advancing Japanese, he declared, avoided the Anganchi station and the adjoining town, which was not damaged, although the population was badly scared and shops were closed. The Japanese troops, he said, crossed the Chinese Eastern tracks well east of Anganchi station in two columns.

BUILDING GIVEN AS SHELTER FOR NEEDY WOMEN

The Chicago Orphan asylum building at 5120 South Parkway, which has been occupied by the same organization for thirty-three years, changed hands yesterday. It was presented to the Women's Municipal shelter and will house 150 homeless and dependent women.

According to an announcement of Edward H. Swift, president of the orphanage board of trustees, and Mrs. H. H. Howells, president of the women's board of managers, the Chicago Orphan asylum will lose none of its usefulness. It will be moved into smaller quarters at 4911 Lake Park avenue, where a receiving home, an office, and a hospital for convalescent children will be maintained.

The orphans are to be boarded in private homes, as is the custom now, and will be visited frequently by the organization's trained workers. Nearly 150 are being cared for in this manner now. It was felt by the directors, it was explained, that the larger building could be used to better advantage for adults.

MAC DONALD SEES INDIAN LEADERS; SEEKS HARMONY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Final efforts are being made by Prime Minister MacDonald to secure an agreement at the Indian round table conference before its final adjournment which must take place by the end of this week or the beginning of next. He began a series of conferences this afternoon. The first was with Aga Khan, leader of the Moslems, who lunched at 10 Downing street.

AGA KHAN.
[Acme Photo.]

Later came Ujjal Singh, the Sikh leader, and then Sir Taj Bahadur Sapru, prominent Hindu, and finally Dr. Ambedkar, representative of the "untouchables." Tomorrow will be Mahatma Gandhi's turn. He will be followed by Sir Akbar Hydari, prime minister of Hyderabad, India's greatest independent states.

It is understood the prime minister's present plan is to try first to secure a last minute agreement among the Indians regarding their communal quarrels. Failing in that, he will adjourn the conference, telling them to try to reach an agreement before spring, when the government's bill for the future government of India will be introduced in parliament.

GERMAN CRISIS COUNCIL STIRS UP INTERNAL ROW

Labor, Employers, Farmers Split on Cure.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—Despite the pleas of President von Hindenburg, Germany's economic advisory council failed in its efforts to establish an understanding between labor, employers and farmers. President von Hindenburg sent the council home today, thanking it for its labors.

Immediately after the closing ceremony, the Socialist party leaders called on Chancellor Bruening to warn him against the "general principles adopted by the council which spell trouble and unrest in Germany if adopted."

"Must Avoid Inflation."

The council, which labored 28 days, agrees that Germany must avoid inflation, but that she must try to bring her prices down to the level of the 26 countries which have abandoned the gold standard to remain able to compete with them. Wage cuts, changes in labor, tariff reduction, rents reduction, freight curtailment and trusts were recommended by the experts.

The council also placed stress on the "alteration of the money policy of the Reichsbank which is to take place after the question of reparations has been settled and a new agreement on Germany's foreign indebtedness has been reached with her creditors."

Unable to wait until the reparations angle is straightened out, Chancellor Bruening has started work on the new emergency decrees based on the committee's recommendations, but since the farmer's representatives and labor unions protested against the conclusion drawn by the council, the chancellor will again make use of his dictatorial power to enforce laws to provide funds for the government's needs to carry on.

Protest High Wheat Prices.

The Socialists in their protests point out that the price of wheat in Germany is three times as high as in any other country and until it is back to normal the workers will not accept new wage cuts.

According to the afternoon press, the council's lengthy document set forth generalities about what should be done but neglected to say how. The meetings of the body brought the resignations of three agricultural members.

TIME TO LIVE GROWS SHORTER

Beatrice Fox holding turkey as Mary Chytry gets ready to take the first step in preparation for a Thanksgiving dinner.

The wholesale prices of turkeys dropped two cents a pound in Chicago yesterday and wholesalers expressed the opinion that housewives preparing for their Thanksgiving dinners would be able to purchase the best turkeys in the market at a retail price of 40 cents a pound.

Wholesale prices ranged from 30 cents a pound for Northern No. 1 young toms, the best grade of turkey, to a cent or two less for southern grown stock. The medium grade turkeys were selling at 40 cents a pound retail, yesterday, while the high quality birds were retailing for 43 cents. It was explained that it would take a day or two for the reduction in wholesale prices to affect the retail market.

The drop in wholesale prices was laid to the mild weather. A cold snap would have forced prices up rather than down, experienced buyers said.

Other fowl stayed yesterday at the prevailing price per pound, according to C. L. Pier, produce reporter for the Chicago office of the United States department of agriculture. He indicated this meant that chickens for roasting and fancy ducks probably would retail for about 28 cents a pound, with geese two to three cents less than that.

Vice War May Explain Roadhouse Attack.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—One man was killed and five other persons wounded early this morning when six armed bandits held up the Old Colonial Tea house just across the District of Columbia line in Bladensburg, Md. One of the wounded was a woman, Mrs. Verne Edwards, 24 years old.

The dead man is Grover Amick of Washington, a gas station employe. Charles Levitt, proprietor of the roadhouse, was shot through the chest, and Thomas Simone, said to be one of the gunmen, was wounded in both legs. The other wounded persons were Norman Garrey of Baltimore, shot in the back and arm, and John J. Bartlett of Washington, whose right knee was shattered. All are in a Washington hospital.

Proprietor Is Killed.

The shooting occurred shortly before 3 o'clock this morning, when five of the bandits entered the roadhouse and demanded that Levitt give them all the money he had in the place. When only $325 was forthcoming one of the bandits accused Levitt of "holding out" and opened fire, shooting Levitt through the chest.

Witnesses declared that the other gunmen became alarmed and opened fire at random. When the smoke cleared away Amick was found dead, with two bullets in his back. Simone, who had apparently tried to get out through a window, was found in the yard, with wounds in both legs. He is being guarded at the hospital by four policemen.

According to police, three of the bandits escaped in an automobile left in the care of an accomplice in the yard. Two others fled afoot, after twice outdistancing Maryland policemen.

May Be Vice Ring War.

Two men were later arrested in Philadelphia and held for questioning after Lawrence Dayton, Bladensburg bailiff, had traced a phone call received at the roadhouse just after the robbery to a Philadelphia address.

Maryland police believe the gunmen's visit to the roadhouse may have had some connection with a vice ring war which they claim is now in progress between Washington and Baltimore gangsters.

NEBRASKAN REFUSES TO WORK HIS FARM, DIES LEAVING $6,200

Wayne, Neb., Nov. 22.—(AP)—August Mueller, 70, who refused to farm his land and saw it produce bumper crops of weeds year after year, was found dead in his small home seven miles southeast of here late yesterday. Mueller always had money and owned 200 acres of land entirely free of debt.

During the world war Mueller was required to farm the land, but since the war the farm has been idle. He had refused to rent the land.

Yesterday Mueller's guardian, Henry Ley of Wayne, was notified that Mueller had not been seen for several days. With County Attorney H. D. Addison and Dr. L. W. Jamison, Ley went to the Mueller farm house, broke open the door and found Mueller's body on a bed of hay and straw. Apparently he had died of natural causes.

More than $4,000 in cash and Liberty bonds were found hidden in the house. Mueller had more than $2,500 in banks.

U. S. INCOME TAX PAYMENTS SHOW HEAVY DECREASE

Deficit of Government Is Now 800 Millions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The severity with which the present depression has cut into personal business was illustrated today in detailed figures from the internal revenue bureau which showed collections of taxes on personal incomes during the first four months of the current fiscal year, July to October inclusive, totaled but $129,145,800, a drop of $100,000,000 or slightly more than 50 per cent as compared with the same months of last year. The deficit totaled about 800 millions, indicating a probable two and a half billion deficit for the fiscal year ending next June.

Corporation Taxes Fall.

Income taxes paid by corporations also showed severe shrinkage during the same comparable periods, the total for the four months of the current fiscal year being $210,095,300, a decrease of $113,978,600 as compared with the first four months of last year. In both instances the taxes for the current fiscal year were levied against incomes received in the calendar year 1930, and for the corresponding fiscal year on incomes earned in the calendar year 1929.

The report showed that all internal revenue collections for the first four months of the current fiscal year totaled but $297,500,300, a decrease of $214,000,000 as compared with the previous year.

Tobacco Tax Holds Up.

The tobacco tax collections continued to stand up well, however, receipts amounting to $146,294,200, a decline of $15,013,600. The cigar tax amounted to $6,706,600, a decline of 1,267,350; cigaret tax $116,617,400, a drop of $14,104,200; snuff $2,427,700, an increase of $70,200, and manufactured tobacco $20,501,500, an increase of 307,650.

During October taxes were paid on the withdrawal of 2,956,374,500 cigarets, a decrease of 1,890,755,000 from the same month of 1930. Cigar production, according to tax payments, amounted to 534,370,700 pieces, a drop of 73,000,000; manufactured tobacco 2,001,750 pounds, an increase of 1,-19,000 pounds, and snuff 2,642,300 pounds, a decrease of 66,000 pounds.

Miss Tillie Becker, 28 years old, 5703 Eastern avenue, who, according to her lawyer, is an heiress, was granted a jury trial yesterday when she was arraigned before Judge Frank M. Padden. The trial was set for Nov. 9. Miss Becker was arrested on Sunday night when her automobile collided with one owned by Police Capt. John P. Ryan at Broadway and Bryn Mawr avenue. After she failed to stop, Capt. Ryan said he chased the automobile for several blocks and arrested her on charges of leaving the scene of an accident.

Boy Throws Cartridge in Bonfire; May Lose an Eye

Robinson, Ill., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—A 5 year old Palestine youth may lose the sight of his left eye as a result of an experiment he conducted yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The youth, Guy Eugene Harris, son of W. and Mrs. Henry Harris of Palestine, built a fire in the back yard and then placed twenty rifle cartridges in the blaze thinking it would be interesting to see how far it would go. It went into his face through lower lid and into eye.

RETAIL DRY GOODS MEN FOR BOND ISSUE, NOT INCREASED TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The federal treasury deficit, even though it may amount to two and a half billions by June 30, 1932, should be met by further bond issues and not by a tax increase applicable to the year 1931, the taxation committee of the National Retail Dry Goods association declared today through its chairman, Carlos B. Clark of Detroit.

"From '20 to '29, 1930, there has been a retirement of the public debt from surplus revenue alone and entirely beyond legal sinking fund requirements, of $3,459,000,000," said Mr. Clark. "This means that individual and corporate taxpayers in the last 10 years have paid off that amount of the public debt, which in reality belongs to the taxpayers of subsequent years to pay. Because of this payment taxpayers of the same period have benefited by a reduction in interest charges of about $634,000,000, with the result that the net amount of their contribution has been $2,775,000,000 in excess of legal debt reduction requirements.

"Nothing could be unfairer than to have exacted from these taxpayers so much of an addition to their legal burden as this extra retirement of the public debt has entailed, and then, in addition, require them to liquidate by taxes which they could pay this year and next year the deficits of 1931 and 1932 under existing business conditions."

HELD ON AURORA RUM CHARGE.

Charles Berry, 823 College avenue, Aurora, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $1,500 by Commissioner Walker yesterday on a charge of violation of the prohibition law. Berry waived examination.

AUTO DRIVEN BY SOCIETY WOMAN STRIKES CHILD

Six Chicagoans Die in Day's Crashes.

An automobile driven by Mrs. Lawrence W. Scudder, 930 North Hawthorne place, Lake Forest, a society leader, struck William O'Donnell, 4 years old, as he was playing in the street in front of his home at 696 Forest avenue in the suburb yesterday. Mrs. Scudder took the boy, who suffered a broken leg and a skull fracture, to the Alice Home hospital. Police said the accident was unavoidable.

Six Chicagoans died yesterday as a result of automobile accidents. Four of the deaths were recorded in Cook county, raising the 1931 toll to 1,148. The county victims:

Mrs. Mary Keeley, 55 years old, 2737 North Sayre avenue. Died at the Belmont hospital from injuries suffered Sunday when the automobile in which she was riding collided with another at Oak Park and Belmont avenues. The driver of the second car was Charles Davis, 3645 Commonwealth avenue.

James C. Hayes, 28 years old, 6810 South May street. Died at the Auburn Park hospital from a skull fracture sustained when his small sedan skidded into a street car at 76th street and Ashland avenue Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Willy, 45 years old, cook at the Techny Mission home. Died at St. Francis hospital, Evanston, from internal injuries received Nov. 21 when she was run down in Waukegan road near the mission. The driver was Joseph Kinkelman, 1319 Touhy avenue.

Mrs. Eva Kettman, 68 years old, 5821 South Mozart street. Died in the Englewood hospital from injuries sustained Nov. 20 when she was run down at 59th street and Damen avenue. Louis Scaramuzzo, 5247 South Sawyer avenue, was the driver.

Chicago Woman Killed.

Mrs. Catherine Baumeister, 68 years old, 1540 East 67th place, died in the Woodlawn hospital of injuries she suffered Thursday in an automobile accident in St. Charles. Mrs. Olga Jayme, 47 years old, a daughter with whom she lived, was the driver of the car in which both were riding. She is in a serious condition at the hospital.

Michael Schmidt of Chicago was instantly killed and Joseph Sanski, also of Chicago, was critically injured when the automobile in which they were riding collided with another car on the Ogden avenue road at an intersection in Westmont. Sanski is in the Hinsdale sanitarium.

Motorcycle Policeman Anthony Montonas, 33 years old, 900 Park drive, Kenilworth, suffered fractures of his left shoulder and left leg last night when a motorist without warning turned in front of him at Sheridan road and Kenilworth avenue, Kenilworth. Montonas was taken to the Evanston hospital. Charles A. Hart, 35 years old, of Springfield, Mo., driver of the car, was taken to the station for questioning.

New York, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The liner Manhattan of the United States lines, the largest merchant ship ever built in this country, will be launched at Camden, N. J., on Dec. 5. The ship is 705 feet long and has a gross displacement of 30,000 tons.

2 WOUNDED IN GUN FIGHT WITH BANK ROBBERS

A 7 year old schoolgirl and a grocer, age 40, were shot as innocent bystanders in a gun battle yesterday between police and five bandits after the latter had invaded the Western Springs State bank, 907 Burlington street, Western Springs, and stolen between $8,000 and $10,000.

The girl, Betty Jane Whitehill, 3836 Johnson avenue, Western Springs, and six other children, all kindergarten pupils, were crossing the street a block from the bank in charge of Miss Grace Cummings, teacher, when the firing opened. Betty was struck in the right leg. The other victim, John Henrickson, was grazed on the forehead by a bullet in front of his store.

When the bandits appeared at the bank four entered, carrying newspaper wrapped revolvers. Inside they tore off the wrappings. President H. A. Parks, five employes and two patrons were herded into a vault. Meanwhile the lookout, armed with a shotgun, halted three pedestrians outside, forced them into a doorway and stood guard. The act was seen by Miss Grace Meyers, switchboard operator in the village hall across the street. She flashed a light alarm on top of the hall, which was seen by Police Chief Clarence Berg.

Berg responded on the run. The lookout sighted him and fired two charges from his shotgun, pellets of which hit the girl and the grocer. His confederates, hearing the shots, scooped up the loot and ran out, firing at Chief Berg. The latter was joined by William Nieman, who emptied his revolver at the robbers. The bandits piled into their car, fired several more shots and escaped toward Chicago.

Happy St. Paul Girl Loses 30 Pounds of FAT

Young Lady Sings Praises for New Battle Creek Treatment. Reduced Hips 4 Inches; Bust 4 Inches; and Now Wears Dresses 4 Sizes Smaller.

If you are handicapped with excessive weight, indigestion, dizziness and other tortures that plague fat folks—wouldn't it make you happy beyond description to have an experience like this pretty St. Paul girl? Don't say it can't be done, for such reports are constantly pouring into the headquarters of Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, the safe and natural way to take off excess poundage by cleansing wastes from the intestines and removing retained moisture from fatty tissues. Read the most miraculous story of Miss Elenora Miller, 2955 Summitt Ave., St. Paul, Minn., who states:

"I was so pleased to lose so much weight and I feel so good, I just had to write about it. My indigestion and pains in the back that had me almost always worn out, are now forgotten. But what makes me so happy is the fact that foods that do not clog the system and turn to fat. An almost endless choice of correct combinations of those foods you probably like best furnished free. I actually lost 30 pounds in 4 weeks. I reduced from 192 to 162. Best of all, I lost 4 inches from the bust, and 4 inches in the hips. I wear 38 size dresses, instead of 42. Every woman wants to look young, and she will if she keeps excess fat away. I am still taking Bonkora, as it is the only thing I took that brought such wonderful results."

You may not want to lose 30 pounds. But if you have excess fat you can lose it in the famous "3 easy stages," as shown in this picture. For the next week, before meals, take a little Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, in half a glass of water. No need to starve. Eat as much as you want. The big secret is selecting for each meal the proper combination of Simply get a bottle of Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, at Walgreen's today —unhealthy fat will quickly disappear, and with it bloat, gas, and other stomach ills. "The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

SENATOR ROBINSON TALKS LIKE A STATESMAN.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas has been thinking about taxes. In so doing he stands apart from many of his colleagues in both houses.

Mr. Robinson is opposed to any increase in surtaxes or any sharp increase in any of the government's levies. His reasoning is straightforward. He sees the country in the grip of depression caused in large part by excessive taxation. He sees a great deal of suffering and discontent arising from unemployment. He knows that the remedy for unemployment is employment and that private industry is the only source of employment in sufficient quantity to put an end to the depression.

He knows that additional tax burdens must result in diminished confidence on the part of business management and diminished funds for private investment.

"Such increases in taxation as are found necessary," Senator Robinson said, "should be imposed with due regard to the principle that the best way to secure laborers in their employment is to promote confidence by rejecting measures likely to discourage investments in productive enterprise."

The demagogues will not like this doctrine. They prefer to regard taxation as the whip with which to scourge the more prosperous in punishment for their success. The assumption, though unstated, is that the punishment of wealth will redound to the benefit of the less wealthy. What is taken in surtaxes from A, so the argument runs, will be given to B, who needs it, and so all will be well.

Senator Robinson sees the weakness in this argument. The money taken from A does not go directly to B. It goes into the treasury and eventually it is spent for political objectives of little or no benefit to B. Meanwhile the treasury is in possession of money which under other circumstances must have been spent directly for goods or invested in some form. If spent for goods the money would have provided employment for some men. If invested in productive enterprise it must provide employment. If the government adopts a policy of higher taxation it cannot fail to delay or prevent the recovery.

Congress in its forthcoming session faces a clear choice. It can cater to the human craving for a scapegoat by imposing punitive taxes which will postpone the upswing indefinitely; or it can contribute to the recovery by relieving productive industry of additional tax burdens. The demagogues will talk loud, long and plausibly. It is fortunate that Senator Robinson will be on hand to puncture their balloon with the blade of common sense. When the hot air has been let out, the argument for tax increases must collapse.

MR. WOODCOCK SUSPENDS AN AGENT.

Amos Woodcock, director of federal prohibition, has suspended Henry Dierks, the federal agent who killed a Colorado youth. Milford Smith, the boy, had procured a few ounces of wine and he and his girl intended to toast their approaching wedding day. Dierks found him in possession of the wine in a restaurant and killed him by beating him. Mr. Woodcock says the agent used "brute force and no brains," but, even in suspending him, added: "The criminal responsibility of Dierks is slight, if any. Of course, he did not intend to kill Smith, and the law gives an officer the right to use the necessary force in making an arrest."

Dierks has been removed to the protection of the federal court in Colorado, out of the jurisdiction of the state courts, and the United States district attorney will defend him against the state prosecutor. This protection, it is indicated, will be thrown about him notwithstanding his suspension.

Mr. Woodcock seems to relieve himself of responsibility for the brutality of the agent, but, in fact, the government is there to sustain it. The agent had a record which would have disqualified him for any service not wanting brute force without brains. It did not disqualify for the service Mr. Woodcock supervises. Character is not a point investigated. The government is indifferent to the probabilities of conduct in its agents. It is, furthermore, indifferent to the consequences.

Mr. Woodcock himself offers the key to the situation. "The law gives an officer the right." That has been the indulgence granted all the shooters and sluggers in prohibition enforcement. They know that the government stands back of them when they use brutality instead of brains. The department of justice steps between them and the state prosecutor. They are removed from the state courts. The United States district attorney is their lawyer. A federal jury is selected to hear the case.

This is both indulgence and encouragement. If an agent uses his gun, as a firearm or a club, instead of his brains, common sense or common humanity, the government will bring him off free if it possibly can regardless of the turpitude of his offense. What other consequences would Mr. Woodcock expect than such as attended Volstead enforcement in this instance in Colorado?

MAYOR WALKER CHANGES THE SUBJECT.

Mayor Jimmie Walker of New York is in California, or closing in on it, to befriend Tom Mooney, who with W. K. Billings is in the San Quentin prison. The two were convicted of bombing the preparedness parade in 1916, but are regarded here and there in the United States and elsewhere as the victims of a capitalistic judiciary. Gov. Rolph, a friend of Mr. Walker, receives him with open arms and has set Dec. 1 for a hearing.

Mr. Walker appears in California as Mr. and not as Mayor Walker. He is for the present a lawyer yielding to the pleas of Mooney's mother, sister, and counsel. New York reports that he has received more complimentary messages on this than on any other occasion in his official career and he seems indeed to be a very bright boy.

The Hofstadter legislative committee is at work in New York and safety deposit boxes are popping open. Discovered opulence reveals how fidelity and energy have been rewarded in unexpected places under a benevolent government which has kept a kindly eye on deserving and hard working boys. It is apparent that Tammany is still a good thing for the proper sort. At this moment Mr. Walker decides to do a good turn for humanity at the other end of the country. He lays aside the trappings and authority of office and becomes plain Jimmie Walker, attorney at law, interested in his fellow man out in California. He is to become a good deed shining in a sordid world. What a rebuke to the persons who may have done wrong in New York, if such there be. Mr. Walker will compensate for it in California. He is a man of large heart, but not dumb.

EQUAL AT LAST.

Gilbert Frankau, an English novelist, B team rating but well satisfied with himself, was sued by a firm of fashionable dressmakers, French, for a bill his second wife, now divorced, had run up on him. Mrs. Frankau, before she ceased to be such, put $1,325 on Mr. Frankau's tab for gowns. She didn't pay and he refused to. Hence the suit in the English courts, where once there was a decision that a husband was responsible for mischief his wife did and the analogy was to a parrot, or was it a monkey? If a man kept one, he was responsible for what it did.

Need it be remarked that times have changed? Justice McCardie, a bachelor, ruled in the Frankau case that a husband is not responsible for the debts his wife contracts. At last, even in England, ladies are people. The wife is on equal footing with the husband. She is responsible for her bills if she contracts them on her own. They cannot be collected from her husband if he enters the transaction only as her husband. If the wife has an allowance, that is her limit. The husband is entitled to the privilege of safeguarding his funds against extravagance he does not himself undertake. He is not to be ruined by changing fashions and the desire of his wife to do more than clothe herself modestly.

The judge, although a bachelor, or because a bachelor, conceded that a lady had a natural background for her desire to be so dressed as to attract men and force women to admire the way in which she did it. It was, he admitted, a paramount interest and of consequence to the vital statistics of the nation. Nevertheless the husband retained a discretion as to what he should spend to make his wife attractive to other men. Thus law vindicates its common sense and also releases women to full, or almost full, stature as human beings.

The complete fight for equal rights will be won by the women when they have been released from all possibility of getting damages in a suit for breach of promise to marry and of getting alimony. It has been a long fight, but woman, who was once a monkey in English law, is now a responsible debtor, and that's victory.

PUBLIC BOOKKEEPING IN ILLINOIS.

The national industrial conference board has sent accountants into the state to investigate their financial condition with a view to discovering where the taxes paid to support the state and local governments come from and for what purposes the money is spent. This is what the report of the board has to say about the difficulties encountered in making its study in Illinois:

"The taxpayer of Illinois who seeks to ascertain what is paid out for public purposes by all the various organs of government in the state and where the money that is being spent comes from will discover that he has undertaken a difficult and discouraging task, that few of these fiscal agencies have published statistical records that cover a series of years, and that the available records are often inaccurate, usually incomplete and generally so arranged that it is difficult for him to make the comparisons he desires.

"The officials who have assembled the records seem in too many cases to have had no proper appreciation of their importance or significance and to have made no effort to verify the figures submitted to the collecting agency. Frequently the classifications of the data are faulty and meaningless; obvious defects in the statements continue from year to year, while the careless method of assembling and presenting the data often results in inaccuracy of the figures printed and renders them practically valueless for the purposes of scientific investigation."

Editorial of the Day

DISPOSING OF PUBLIC ENEMIES.

[Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.]

It was in April, 1930, that the Chicago Crime commission announced its list of public enemies, which eventually included a total of 51 names. While effective action, in the main, had to be left to the federal government, through prosecutions for violations of the income tax law, the local anti-crime forces in Chicago are at least to be credited with an important part in the development of a public demand for action. Lately the reorganized police, under the Cermak administration, also have been credited with some vigorous action against the criminal element.

At any rate, 20 months after the announcement of the commission's list of public enemies, a recapitulation shows that 41 gang leaders of the sinister type are either in prison under sentences, in jail awaiting trials, or dead at the hands of rival gangsters. It is true, of course, that no more than the surface has been scratched in Chicago, and that any slackening in the effort might mean that new gang leaders would arise to replace the old. However, a beginning has been made which offers a concrete demonstration to the other cities of the country.

OUR HERO!

Ah, how often it is in the history of the world that when a great crisis arises there arises also the man who can meet that crisis face to face and save suffering humanity from whatever awful fate awaits it! Max, our favorite bootlegger, called up yesterday and broke the news. When he said, "This is Max," we told him no, firmly and positively. We've decided to wait until we get to England next summer (if and when) before buying anything in the way of cocktails or light wine or beer.

"But lissen," insisted Max.

"No use," sez we; "we're not in the market."

"But you got me all wrong," said Max. "I'm off the stuff, too—for a while. Anyhow, this week's Thanksgivin', hain't it?"

We grudgingly admitted that this week's Thanksgiving. But what of it? What have we got to give thanks about? We intimated as much to Max.

"That's where I come in," said Max. "Guess what I am now?"

"Prisoner No. 754459 in the Leavenworth penitentiary," hazarded we.

"Not on yer life," said Max cheerfully. "I'm a pie legger. Whadda yuh know about that?"

"A what?"

"A pie legger; you know, a mince pie legger."

"Gosh!" said we.

"Sure," said Max. "Hain't you been readin' about the federal jedge right here in Illinoy what says that mince pie—you know, real mince pie with a kick to it—is in the same class as any other kinda hootch? Go around with a mince pie this week and some John Law is liable to shoot you full of holes."

"Well, well!" said we.

"Sure," went on Max. "I'm tellin' yuh! Lissen! I'm a pie legger now, a mince pie legger. The little woman cooks 'em down in our cellar. And does she load 'em? Oh, boy! All right, I can sell you the real old fashioned mince pie, real imported brandy 'n' everything. Can sell you single pies or in case lots, a dozen to the case. Yuh know my number, an' when you make up yer mind give me a ring. Don't forget Maxie the Demon Pie Legger. S'long."

We're thinking it over. Real old fashioned mince pie. Not mince pie with sarsaparilla poured in it, or buttermilk, or lemon soda, but brandy. And it's forbidden by law. And up jumps a pie legger, Maxie, the Man of the Hour. Let's see, now, what is Max's number?

DEFIANCE.

People talk about me,
I don't care!
I'll make my lips redder,
I'll dye my hair.
I will wear dresses
Up to my knees,
I will smoke and let them say
Just what they please.

It would be a pity
If they ran out of words,
They might see the sky by chance
Or hear the birds.
They might find kind things to say
And that wouldn't do.
They'd soon tire and find another
Soul to look through.

People talk about me.
I don't care!
I'll stretch a clothes line through my yard
And hang my sins there.
Then I will spray them
With coal-dust and ink,
Lest they be cleaner
Than people think.

P. S. McDonald.

IN TOSSING his latest likker bomb into the air Mr. Raskob says there were 88,530 contributors to the campaign fund in the last national election. If Mr. Raskob says so we're going to believe it, but from what we heard about the Democratic war chest in 1928 some of the 88,530 must have thrown in suspender buttons and used street car transfers when the hat came around.

WE READ A LITTLE ITEM in yesterday's papers concerning Mr. Alphonse Capone asking the warden of our county bastile to permit him to act as host to the other boarders of the institution on Thanksgiving day. We wonder if Mr. Capone will take the part of Santa Claus at Christmas time in the jail and appear as Uncle Sam on the Fourth of July? But when Mr. Capone began his visit at our county hoosegow wasn't there something said about his going from there to a large government sequestration plant out in Kansas? If he is still with us in 1933 he can play Father Dearborn at the pageant of Chicago which will be held during our great world's fair.

ZERO WEATHER is drifting this way. We're not saying you should and we're not saying you shouldn't. But anyhow you'd better get 'em out and keep 'em handy.

A WOMAN who lives in the isolated wilderness far up in the northern part of Idaho told the state game warden who visited her home last summer that the ambition of her life was to come down from the woods some day and see her first talking picture show. How happy that lady should be! She's never seen a talking picture. The trails to her ranch are snowed under nine months each year; no autos, no movies, and probably no radio to vex her sweet and gentle existence. Yet the first thing she is going to do when she finally gets to a big town is to hunt up a squawkie. Ah, how true it is we never know when we are well off! Next thing she'll be asking for somebody to send her the funnies out of the Sunday papers.

IT MUST BE GREAT to be rich and give lovely dinners and wear fine clothes and beautiful jewelry and all that, but having bandits hop around waving pistols every few minutes must get awfully tiresome.

TOOTH STRUCTURE.

THE experimental laboratories continue their combat over the question as to what is the principle in foods which prevents the teeth from decaying. Or, to state it differently, when teeth are of poor quality and decay readily, what is wrong with the diet?

Dr. C. E. Bloch makes a contribution to the subject out of Danish experiences. In Denmark there is considerable of an eye trouble called xerophthalmia. Dr. Bloch says this eye disease is the chief cause of acquired blindness in his country. It is an ulceration of the cornea which develops in people, and especially in children, who have lived too long on a diet that is poor in vitamin A. One of the easiest nutrition experiments to do with rats is to feed them on a diet deficient in vitamin A until they develop these ulcers of the eyes, and then to change the diet and cure them.

The foods that are rich in vitamin A are wheat oil, corn oil, and other vegetable oils, including olive oil; carrots, and many rich vegetables and cereals.

Dr. Bloch studied the teeth of a large number of Danish children who had suffered or were suffering from xerophthalmia. He came to the conclusion that deficiency of the diet in vitamin A had nothing to do with tooth decay. As to vitamin B, he was of the same opinion. Likewise as to vitamin C. He did not investigate the effects of vitamin C deficiency on the gums, but limited his studies to the structure of the teeth themselves. He thought some investigators had been misled because the teeth of certain lower animals do not behave just as do those of human beings.

He supported the views of Mellanby that to have good teeth a person must eat a diet that contains enough minerals and that the necessary vitamin was D. This is the vitamin that is found in cod liver oil and in some other fish fats, and in viosterol and radiated foods. It is the vitamin that is produced by exposure to sunlight of good quality.

The time when children especially need this vitamin and the necessary minerals in the diet, as well as sunshine, is when the teeth are in process of formation below the borders of the gums. It is true, he says, that children with rickets and tetany are not especially prone to tooth decay, but that does not prove that vitamin D is not essential to good tooth structure.

EPILEPSY AND FLU.

H. A. H. writes: In 1918, during the severe influenza epidemic, while a physician for the state epilepsy colony, I had 135 cases of influenza among 400 epileptics. Some of these epileptics had 100 attacks daily and others 10 to 12 daily, and still others two or less monthly. Regardless of the number of convulsions or their severity, none afflicted with influenza had a convulsion during the attack of influenza, nor did they have any for two months afterwards.

I realized then it was the fever induced by the invading germ that was the beneficial agent and not the germ itself. From my own experience there is no doubt in my mind that the fever produced by the malarial organism is the agent causing the remissions in paresis. In fact, the therapeutic fever brought on by diathermy has caused remissions in paresis equal to that produced by the malarial organism. Hot baths, steam baths, and hot air baths induce therapeutic fever, but this rarely lasts more than an hour. I feel there is a great field for therapeutic fever among the insane and epileptic hospitals.

REPLY.

Yours is the only report that I have seen that patients in an epileptic colony had no convulsions during attacks of influenza.

LEAKING HEART.

A. P. writes: Has a person with a leaking heart valve any chance of being restored to health and of being able to work?

REPLY.

Most people with leaking heart valves are in good health and are able to work. A great many who have had breaks in compensation that has disabled them from work have been able to build up compensation until they were able to go back to work.

INHERITANCE UNDER WILL.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A mother willed her three sons each a farm, deeds and titles to be given them one year after her death. Now the youngest son died before the year was up. Can his widow hold the farm on which she lives? She has no children. Can the two older sons take her farm and give her only a widow's share or one-third? W. F.

In general where the beneficiary dies before the death of the testator the gift to him lapses. The widow of the beneficiary would take nothing. We could advise to better advantage if the wording of the will were before us.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NO LIABILITY HERE.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Recently two motor cars collided in front of my house. One car driven by a 19 year old boy, with his parents' permission, crashed through my store front. The other car, according to the police, was a stolen car and was abandoned by the driver after the accident. I would like to know if the boy's father or owner of the car is liable for the damage done to my house. The father carries no insurance. F. G.

The father would not be liable on the bare facts stated. Even the boy would not be liable, unless you could prove that he was in some way to blame.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PERMIT DENIED.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—Am writing to you to see if something can't be done to put a stop to the enlarging of a garbage incinerator in our neighborhood. It is bad enough to have a small plant of this sort operating in a district where people live and close to the heart of the city, but in the last week the owner has contracted to have the incinerator enlarged so that more garbage can be burned. Please see what can be done. C. F. B.

You are advised that this department has refused to issue a permit for an addition to a garbage incinerator plant at the address stated for the reason that the premises are less than the required distance from a commercial zone. JOHN E. ERICKSON,
Commissioner of Buildings.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 24, 1915.

LONDON.—Dispatches indicate that Italian and other troops already are on their way through Albania to aid the Serbians and that a Russian army of 360,000 has been gathered to attack Bulgaria. The fighting in Serbia has assumed a vicious character northeast of Pristina and north of Monastir. The Serbians have assumed the offensive and it is asserted the Bulgarians are falling back. The German accounts still claim progress and report the capture of thousands of Serbian prisoners. The French admit a defeat by the Bulgars on the Rajac river.

CHICAGO.—Miss Carolyn Wilson, with a prison record behind her, came to Chicago to begin life all over again. The prison record was made in Berlin, where she was arrested as a spy, entombed in a German cell, and held in solitary for six days. She was a TRIBUNE war correspondent and, despite her imprisonment, she gives the German officials credit for fairness.

WASHINGTON.—Mrs. Walter Farwell of Chicago, THE TRIBUNE'S war correspondent, who became lost in the Balkans last week, has been located at Monastir, Serbia, by United States Consul Kehl at Saloniki. Mr. Kehl sent the following telegram: "Mrs. Farwell at Monastir; reports herself safe and well."

LONDON.—Fighting of the most sanguinary character marks the fight between the Austrians and Italians in the vicinity of Goritz and on the border of the Doberdo plateau. Bayonet fighting is becoming a daily occurrence. The Italians claim to have repulsed Austrian counter-attacks and to have captured some prisoners. The Austrians aver that every effort of the Italians to advance has failed.

SPRINGFIELD.—Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, secretary of the state board of health, wrote Coroner Peter Hoffman of Cook county for a transcript of the evidence at the inquest over the body of the Bollinger baby who was allowed to die because of supposed irremediable deformities. Dr. Drake states that he will study the facts with a view to a possible revocation of the license to practice in Illinois of Dr. H. J. Haiselden, the Chicago surgeon who permitted the baby to die.

NOVEMBER 24, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Former Congressman William Lorimer began suit in Circuit court for $100,000 damages against the Chicago Record-Herald and Herman H. Kohlsaat, its publisher. The action was the result of an editorial in the Record-Herald on Nov. 22 in which Mr. Lorimer was referred to in a derogatory manner, his method of acquiring wealth being brought into question.

CHICAGO.—Dr. Frank Crane and Dr. Jenkin Lloyd Jones are in a heated controversy over Thanksgiving services arranged by Dr. Crane to be held in McVicker's theater on Thanksgiving day. It arises from the action of Dr. Crane and trustees of the People's church in breaking a twenty year old precedent for the holding of union Thanksgiving services.

COLON.—The British cruiser Tribune, the French cruiser Suchet and the United States cruiser Marietta have arrived here to protect the interests of their nations as the result of the insurgents' attack on the government of Panama in which the Liberals claim to have defeated Gen. Alban, commander of the government forces. From official sources it is reported that the guard of United States marines now on shore will return on board the Machias as soon as a local police force is established.

CHICAGO.—With the object of arousing local interest in the movement to obtain for Ireland national independence, John E. Redmond, Patrick A. McHugh, and Thomas O'Donnell, three Irish leaders in the British house of commons, arrived in Chicago, where they will remain a week. Among those who gathered to greet the Irishmen at the train were Col. John F. Finerty, Maj. L. R. Buckley, P. J. Reynolds, M. F. Fanning, J. T. Walsh, P. Coonly, William Gavin, and P. S. O'Ryan.

NOVEMBER 24, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Witnesses for the defense in the trial of Charles J. Guiteau testified today. The Rev. H. N. Burton of Kalamazoo, Mich., who heard Guiteau lecture in 1877, did not think he was irresponsible at that time, although he was peculiar. Dr. John A. Rice of Merton, Wis., believed Guiteau was insane. Other witnesses were examined to prove the insanity of various members of the Guiteau family. The assassin joked at many of the remarks of the witnesses and some of the auditors laughed at his jokes, which seemed to please the scoundrel amazingly. He made the usual number of interruptions and speeches. A friend of President Garfield said today with a touch of emotion: "The scandals of the Guiteau trial almost equal the horror of his crime."

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Friends of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln indignantly deny that she is suffering from want or neglect as was stated in a New York dispatch quoting her physician, Dr. Sayre. On the contrary, her friends say, she is amply provided for. Mrs. Lincoln's idiosyncrasies are thoroughly understood here, but the press and the general public, out of respect and esteem for her and her lamented husband, have shielded her as much as possible from publicity. When President Lincoln's estate was settled by Judge David Davis and Mrs. Lincoln's property was turned over, Jacob Bunn received $60,000 in government bonds belonging to Mrs. Lincoln. These were purchased with what remained after her debts were paid out of the appropriation of $75,000 made by congress after President Lincoln's assassination. These bonds are still held in trust for Mrs. Lincoln and from them she has derived an annual income of $3,600 in addition to her annual pension of $3,000.

MR. BRYAN AS SALESMAN.

Geneva, Ill., Nov. 19.—I cannot recall having ever been in agreement with the late Mr. William Jennings Bryan's views on either politics, evolution, or real estate values, yet I regret greatly the injustice which I believe has been done to his memory in the article in last Wednesday's TRIBUNE, "Florida Losers Recall Lure of Bryan's Tongue." Ballyhoo his utterances in behalf of Coral Gables may now prove to have been; but of the epidemic hindsight of the present day were to lead us to slay all those who by over-roseate prognostication have been guilty of economic ballyhoo during the last six years, we would mow a very wide swath through our public officials, financiers, and captains of industry.

Most of the people who knew Mr. Bryan were convinced of his integrity and his sincerity, however strongly they may have dissented from his views. He was, of course, badly wrong about the immediate future of Florida real estate and about the intrinsic value of most of it. Yet he was not more wrong, perhaps, than were the many prominent and presumably foresighted people who were during the boom heavy investors in Florida lands. The presence then in the same field of endeavor of so many men of prominence, unquestioned probity and proverbial business acumen should serve to exonerate Mr. Bryan from the implications carried by the term ballyhoo—since the example of wealthy and reputable men has always carried more weight in financial enterprises than all the glittering phrases an orator of even Mr. Bryan's dimensions might muster.

Mr. Bryan loved Florida, its sunshine, its white beaches, and azure sea, its palms and fruits and rioting flowers. Doubtless he had some experience of mosquitoes, perhaps had heard of hurricanes [there were none of much intensity during his day] and knew something about profits; but to him these were minor things beside those that he really valued. Strangely enough, in this day of deflation, Mr. Bryan's climate and sea, his palms and flowers are still there, and working. Upon that any economist may stake what shreds of his reputation remain from the stock market boom.

GEORGE N. CARSON.

SARDINE SPECIALS.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The 8 o'clock elevated train from Loyola station has been most appropriately christened the "Sardine Special." Formerly there was only one, but now any express train after 8 o'clock comes under that category. Not even standing room, no air and a combination of odors of stale tobacco, onions, and often last night's gin. It's a wonder there isn't more fainting than there is. Now, due to the depression and the scarcity of labor, the elevated has reduced their guards to one for two cars, and if it is your misfortune to draw a car without a guard great care must be taken not to get caught in the doors which are operated by a man two cars away. This proved rather hazardous the other evening when it was necessary to carry out a young lady who had fainted. M. S.

A USE FOR THE ELECTRIC CHAIR.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—I simply want to voice my protest against the class of public library book borrowers who insert their inane comments into certain passages of the writings that they must applaud or condemn. For instance, I have just finished reading "Confessions of an Actor" by John Barrymore. Some ass put a penciled interrogation mark after every statement in the book that aroused his or her skepticism.

It is a shame that some medium cannot be perfected that will satisfy such persons' itch for expression in a manner less obnoxious to others.

PAUL BRADFORD.

EXPLOITATION.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—All this yapping about the exploiting of one man by another makes very weary any man of American blood and American ideals. What does your correspondent, Mr. Carl R. O'Brine, mean by "exploiting"? He certainly must know that ever since the days of Adam the employment of one man by another not only has been in vogue but, so far as the United States is concerned, such general schemes of employment logically has resulted in our being able to declare that the American workingman is better paid, better housed, better treated, and gets more enjoyment out of life than does any other workingman in the world.

His statement that millions of people [in the United States, of course] are "walking the streets, begging for a 1 cent piece to get a crust of bread for some half starved child" is the rankest kind of rot and it is a pity that it is not possible to put a muzzle on people who persist in emitting such stuff.

The day never will come when people will not be working for other people for wages, and the very ones who are bellyaching about the capitalistic system, if they had any sympathy with the idea of saving and accumulating, would do some of what they call "exploiting" and would get very hot under the collar if any one should try to prevent their doing it.

Of course, if Mr. O'Brine's idea of the perfect state is peasant life in Russia, he is not amenable to reason and no time should be wasted on him.

F. W. RANSOM.

KENTUCKY MANNERS.

Lackey, Ky., Nov. 20.—I am not in the habit of taking things very seriously, but I cannot let the letter of Mr. Ben Gathem which appeared in THE TRIBUNE of Nov. 18 go unchallenged. I am of the opinion this Great Chicagoan has never been in Kentucky and hardly knows that it is a part of those good old United States, or he wouldn't make such statements. In the first place, if you are not well known it is almost impossible to sell them anything. On the other hand, if you are known to be a friend you are treated like a king, given the best they have to eat, the best bed in the house and invited to stay as long as you like. But if you are a nosy pigeon or an investigating committee spending good money to persecute honest, law abiding citizens that are trying hard to make a living and mind their own business, then they don't hang, nor do they give a trial to have them turned loose after a jury has decided they are guilty, but they are shot and not from the back either.

A KENTUCKIAN.

ABOUT BANKS.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Ex-officials of closed banks are appointed receivers of other closed banks; others are indicted [but not tried], attorneys appointed to represent the receivers of closed banks are found to owe money to other closed banks, and they are still attorneys for the receivers; politicians are appointed as receivers and receivers' attorneys and they are linked with other politicians that are disclosed as owing huge sums to closed banks; officials of the City State bank were indicted a long time ago, the bank was closed over two years ago, but they haven't been tried yet; the state's attorney, we thought, was supposed to do the investigating of criminal acts of officials of closed banks, but it seems that a certain judge is the only one doing it. The state auditor was supposed to be in charge of the examiners of the banks, but who really examined the assets and liabilities of these closed banks? How can the examiners account for one certain bank having loaned to its own officers and directors more than its combined capital and surplus? HERMAN BRAND.

FOR ALMA MATER AND FREEDOM

[Providence Bulletin.]

Does Low Price mean "Cheapness" to you?

ONE of the biggest hurdles we have to overcome in our business is the exceedingly low price of our cars.

It is the American habit of mind to look upon price as an index to quality, even more than as an index to value.

Hudson and Essex cars are priced low, remarkably low for their size, power, construction and equipment, simply because the efficiency of Hudson manufacture enables it.

Selective Free Wheeling—Hudson and Essex drivers can "select" to free wheel or not, according to the road. On the straightaway and rolling highways you can enjoy the floating speed and gas-economy of free wheeling. Descending steep grades where you need the engine's extra braking power, a convenient control near the clutch lever throws the motor into conventional gear—instantly—without clashing. An optional feature

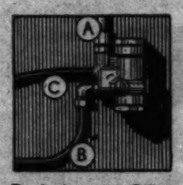
Startix, the Automatic Self-Starter—a new safety feature—available at slight extra cost—makes Hudson and Essex motors stall-proof. Should you stall your motor on hills or in traffic, Startix restarts it —instantly and automatically. Operated by the ignition lock, Startix starts your motor the moment you turn the switch, and keeps it going as long as the ignition is "on"

The company is an independent—mobile, manageable, quickly adaptable to changing needs and opportunities—it has no deadwood to carry, no cost burdens to absorb for the mistakes of affiliated units.

Hudson and Essex cars are all built in one large factory, which means a saving in invested capital and production costs and makes for closer control of manufacture.

This factory is perhaps the most modernly equipped in America; even Hudson and Essex bodies are built there; it has greater production capacity per foot of floor space than any other plant in the industry.

The men guiding the company have been with it virtually since its beginning twenty-three years ago; its officers, department heads and principal distributors are its controlling owners.



Duoflo Automatic Oiling System—another exclusive Hudson and Essex development. An oversize aviation type pump forces two simultaneous streams of oil (A and B) to the front and rear of the engine, drenching every bearing in a continuous spray of fresh oil. Oil returns (C) to pump from a series of cooling baffles which reduce its temperature 45°, keeping it from thinning out with heat and reducing oil consumption

Free to pioneer, to progress, to initiate and innovate improvements in engineering and production Hudson admittedly paces the industry; it has to its credit more than sixty important "first's" in the honor roll of contributions to present-day automobile building art.

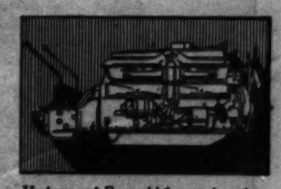
Aluminum Pistons are tested and proved features in both Hudson and Essex cars. Many other popularly priced cars still utilize the earlier type cast iron pistons, although in notable cases their producers recognize the superiority of aluminum pistons by incorporating them in their more expensive cars

If you think that low price in a motor car necessarily means cheapness you owe it to yourself to correct this impression by examining Hudson and Essex cars now on view in our showrooms.

Improved welding practice makes every Hudson and Essex body a single unit of rattle-proof steel from one windshield pillar around the body to the opposite windshield pillar; and panels of silencing material, forming a body within a body, eliminate creaks, drumming and other body noises and operating sounds

You will find these cars rich and distinguished in every factor that makes for satisfied and proud ownership, and typically advanced in engineering and structural features that you will not find generally available in other cars for another year or more.

Go see the Hudson and Essex—measure their worth and value by any yardstick you choose before you think of the low price—then you'll have a real basis of comparison.



Hudson and Essex high-speed engines are the highest compression power units in use today, operating on standard fuels. The eight-cylinder Hudson "Greater Eight" develops 87 horsepower at 3600 r. p. m.; the Essex "Super Six," 60 horsepower at 3300 r. p. m. So efficient is Hudson and Essex engine design, owners may use ordinary gasoline without annoyance from engine knock

Then you'll see why it pays the average owner to emulate the example of the rest of the industry when out of experience it says: "Watch Hudson!" Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit, Michigan.

SLASH RED TAPE, SPEED SEAWAY, GLENN TO U. S.

Declares Boats Should Be Running in 1932.

gish. I watched them tearing down a market in Washington. They had twenty men at work, and it took six months to demolish the building. In Chicago it would have been done in a week and a new building would be up in less time than Washington took to knock down the old one."

Senator Glenn spoke of the difficulties Illinois had in getting congress to take over a waterway on which the state and the Chicago sanitary district has spent $90,000,000 of its own money. Although congress found no trouble in appropriating millions for Boulder dam to give drinking water to Los Angeles.

"The whole development of the lakes to the gulf waterway system," he said, "now depends upon one little link 60 miles long. All the millions so far spent are not effectual until the link connects Chicago with St. Louis, Nashville, Pittsburgh, Omaha, and New Orleans.

Go to Congress on Bended Knee.

"Illinois spent $20,000,000 of its own money and the sanitary district seventy millions towards the development of a link to serve 23 to 26 states. When we went to congress offering to give the nation nearly 100 million dollars' worth of work we had to go on bended knees. Never was a gift horse looked in the mouth like that one.

"Finally they agreed to take the $90,000,000 gift, but stipulated that Illinois must build the bridges across that federal canal. It's remarkable that the states here tonight were not unanimous for taking over the canal.

"Congress had given California 165 millions for Boulder dam to give drinking water to Los Angeles and the movie stars of Hollywood. That was all right. But to accept 90 millions from Illinois, well, some senators said their conscience wouldn't permit it, because ten miles west of Chicago the waterway cuts across a water shed. Yet a few weeks before they had voted with Senator Hiram Johnson to carry water across a mountain range and divert it into the Pacific for Los Angeles.

Parity in Transportation.

"And all we in the valley are asking is that the government speed up the finish on a job, which will open the great lakes to the gulf of Mexico by way of the Mississippi and give midcontinent economic parity in transportation. All we ask is that the government use as much speed as any ordinary private enterprise would."

Arthur J. Weaver, former governor of Nebraska, dwelling on the economy of speedily bringing into use projects almost completed, said:

"America will go along as never before when the Mississippi and Missouri valleys have an outlet by water to the great lakes."

The keynote of the discussion over the Illinois waterway was struck in a telegram from Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor of THE TRIBUNE, which was read at the morning session by Secretary Lachlan MacLeay. It urged a speeding up.

Message from Col. McCormick.

"A little concrete, a little steel, a small amount of dredging and boats will pass from New Orleans to New York," said the McCormick message.

Col. McCormick's telegram, which started off the day's activities on a speed-up policy on the Illinois waterway, on which the state has already spent $20,000,000 of its own money and the sanitary district of Chicago some $70,000,000, said a private enterprise would have no trouble finishing the job next year. The telegram follows:

"Cargo boats are now running from the Atlantic ocean to Chicago and from the Gulf of Mexico to Peoria. The artificial channel between Chicago and Peoria, which has cost a hundred and ten million dollars and has been thirty-nine years building, is 97 per cent completed.

Needs but a Little Speed.

"The official program, which overlooks unemployment and the value to commerce of an early completion in the sole interest of smooth running of the actual construction, does not contemplate finishing this great work until 1933. I am sure that if it were a matter of private enterprise it would not be found difficult to finish it by next spring and that in view of the number of unemployed workmen and the great need for stimulating commerce even the government can speed up its machinery and finish the work early next year.

"Bear in mind that as soon as the canal is open for travel there will be created a demand for tugs, for barges, for docks, for warehouses and an opportunity to locate new factories which will act as a pulmotor upon our present not fortunate economic condition. I am sure there is no project mentioned for government action which will do as much for the United States and especially for the states bordering the Mississippi and St. Lawrence watershed as the almost immediate removal of the small barrier which prevents their full use."

After the delegates had signified their approval of faster action, the subject was taken up at a luncheon of the Illinois members. Col. T. C. Weeks, district engineer, in upholding adherence to the set program of the army engineers to finish in May, 1933, argued that the bridges would be an obstacle to the opening of navigation next year if the channel were finished ahead of time.

Bridges Need Machinery.

He said a serious situation is made by the fact that 18 or 20 sanitary district bridges still need operating machinery. The cost is figured at $5,000,000. The delegates prepared to move on Springfield with a request that the special session call be broadened so that a bond issue for the work may be passed. Sanitary district officials have pointed out that the bridges have 18 foot clearance and would permit barge traffic, anyway, although they might interefere with tugboats.

Discussion also arose on the matter of taking $200,000 of money now available from the Santa Fé and Illinois Central railroads and using it for the construction of a waterway terminal on the 21 acre site owned by the state at the junction of the Chicago river with the sanitary canal. The site is already equipped with a million bushel grain elevator owned by the state, and the roads, as part of the settlement of the "90 foot strip" cases involving old Illinois and Michigan canal lands, are to pay $200,000 for the building of terminal facilities.

43 Street Beggars Get Fines; All Go to Jail

Judge Francis Borrelli yesterday fined forty-three men, arrested as street beggars, $100 each and sentenced them to work out their fines in the Bridewell. Twenty-two others, who said they were nonresidents, were ordered to leave Chicago at once.

Positive Proof of FORD ECONOMY

This impressive army of Ford cars is only part of the total purchase by the City of Detroit

City of Detroit buys 137 new FORD cars
Hundreds now in use prove low cost of operation

THESE 137 new Ford cars represent one of the largest deliveries ever made to a municipality at one time. Twenty-one radio-equipped Ford scout cars were traded in on this purchase. They had been operated day and night for two years in heavy traffic and all kinds of weather.

Their individual records ranged from 78,434 miles to 143,723 miles, with a grand total of 2,283,097 miles. The operating cost of the 21 cars was 2.284 cents a mile — less than 2 1/3 cents. This cost included all fuel, oil, tires, repairs and every other item except depreciation and insurance.

Of 577 Ford cars in Detroit City service, the 300 in the Police Department traveled a total of 6,591,937 miles during the past fiscal year, at an average cost of 2.9 cents a mile. Many claims have been made on operating costs, but here in the carefully kept motor car records of the City of Detroit is positive, convincing proof of Ford economy.

In the column at the left, it is seen that 21 Ford scout cars averaged less than 2 1/3 cents a mile and 300 Ford cars in all branches of Detroit police work averaged 2.9 cents a mile!

Day and night, twenty-four hours a day, these Ford cars are in operation. Few branches of transportation demand such grueling service. The records show that low fuel and oil consumption is but one of the Ford's many economies. Ford materials, simplicity of design and accuracy in manufacturing provide unusual strength, stamina and freedom from replacements and repairs. The individual car buyer as well as the purchasing department of a city or a business cannot afford to ignore the proved economy of the Ford.

CHILDREN'S AID FACES CRISIS IN CLOTHING DRIVE

15,000 Orders from Poor Pupils Waiting.

The School Children's Aid, with a 44 year record of service to poor pupils, is pressing needs in its annual drive which closes on Thanksgiving day.

At the aid headquarters in the Dante school, at Desplaines street and Polk street, yesterday, Mrs. Alice McCorkle, the president, reached for a pile of shiny new shoes for one child, tossed a pair of blue serge knickers to a helper, and in between times related the story of the plight in which the organization finds itself. With more than 15,000 orders for clothing for destitute youngsters waiting to be filled, with only $10,000 in cash on hand and most of that owing for the stock that crowds every available inch of space, it looks like a bad winter for the needy children, she explained.

Aid Given Since 1887.

Ever since its founding in 1887 by Mrs. Murray F. Tuley, this group of workers has lent its effort toward obtaining clothing for the boys and girls who otherwise could not attend their classes. Never since that first winter has the calls for their help been so numerous nor their outlook less cheerful.

"It's always a desperate situation," said Mrs. McCorkle, with a wave of her hand at the overflow of requests for shoes, shirts, trousers, stockings, coats, and more shoes. "Here are some boys and two girls waiting to be fitted—and ordinarily we don't have children come here. These are extreme cases. Look at this——"

She snatched up a pair of ancient sandals just discarded by one of the girls, a child of 13. A hole larger than the entire ball of her foot let the daylight through. Another pair of high shoes left by a small boy had virtually no sole left, the gaping opening somewhat covered by a strip of thick red rubber, obviously cut from an automobile tire.

"Pretty ingeniously!" commented the woman who supervises each month the distribution of tens of thousands of pairs of shoes and other garments.

Family Lives in Barn.

Three principals from as many schools were in the room at the time, all waiting for the collection of clothing to be made for students in their own schools whose conditions needed immediate attention. A truant officer was selecting a dress, stockings, neat shoes and a sweater for a sister and brother she discovered yesterday, living with their family in a barn for which they paid $5 a month rent. Their clothing was in tatters.

During September the Aid society distributed 2,546 garments. In October the total swelled to 24,054. The present month probably will surpass that figure, but where the funds to accomplish the feat will come from remains to be proved.

There are no salaried officers in the organization, Mrs. McCorkle emphasized, the overhead including only a couple of clerks. Volunteer service not only provides for the filling of all requests and the wrapping and delivery of the clothing—all new articles—but sewing societies of clubs and church groups keep the cost down by putting together the garments cut at the school.

Funds Difficult to Get.

So important an adjunct of the city schools system has this work become through the years that the annual campaign for its support always is considered as virtually a part of the year's routine. This year, with funds difficult to obtain, the response has been exceedingly disappointing.

"In thirty-five years of experience here, one of our volunteer workers tells me," Mrs. McCorkle said, "there has never been a time when the need of shoes has been so pressing as it is at the moment. We get factory prices on the ones we buy, and they are good, sturdy shoes. But the demand for them, for children of all ages, is so far ahead of the supply or the prospect of help, that we are at our wits' end."

The School Children's Aid is a standing committee of the Chicago Woman's club. Most of the major clubs of Chicago are represented in its groups of workers. Donations of cash to help out this service may be mailed to the headquarters at the Dante school.

Dog Bites 2 Children and Woman; Is Killed

A large dog bit two children and a woman before being shot to death by police on the northwest side yesterday. It first attacked Mrs. Jane Williams, 2719 North Albany avenue, in front of her home. Later Gladys Wildewski, 7 years old, 2841 North Sacramento avenue, was bitten while playing in the 3000 block on George street. Half a block away the animal bit Joyce Singer, 4 years old, 3041 George street. The dog was shot by Policeman Joseph Ambrosini and Barney Orjikonski of the Shakespeare avenue station. The health department will make an examination for rabies.

KIPLING FIGHTS TAXES ON HOME, BUT TO NO AVAIL

HASTINGS, England.— (AP) —Rudyard Kipling has complained that his taxes are too high. In a protest to the assessment committee here the noted author declared the committee would be lucky to get $3,000 now for a $4,000 house built in 1924.

Furthermore, the river near his home at Burwash, his secretary said, swamped a tennis court and forced him to use planks to leave or enter the house. Other houses in the district are rated at a lower figure, he said.

The committee decided not to make any reductions, however.

MIND AND BODY OF PUPIL PROFIT BY LUNCH GIFTS

7,000 Are Receiving Aid Every Day Now.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4152 West Madison street.

Malnutrition among children in the city schools, as a result of the depression, has brought physical evils. City health department nurses who examine pupils report that undernourishment is causing defective eyesight, chronic headache and dizzy spells, as well as affecting the ability of the children to learn.

Periodic examinations on the weight and height of growing boys and girls reveals the same trend in the majority of the schools. It is especially noticeable in industrial districts and others where the depression is felt more keenly.

Gifts Provide Lunches.

Both the physical and mental well-being of pupils are ministered to in the free lunches distributed through the Hungry School Children's fund sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and made up by the contributions of its readers. Teachers report that youngsters placed on the free lunch lists who receive hot, nourishing meals each day, show a marked improvement both in spirits and in mental activity after a week of such service.

Physicians point out that proper nourishment of the needy children helps protect all children in the city from disease by increasing the resistance against disease and thus preventing outbreaks of epidemics.

Feed 7,000 Needy Children.

More than $23,000 already has been contributed by readers of this newspaper. Ten thousand dollars of this amount, which has been turned over to Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department of the board of education, is being utilized to purchase lunches daily for approximately 7,000 needy children. It is estimated that before the winter is over this number will have reached 15,000 a day.

Donations for this fund may be mailed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, at Tribune Tower, accompanied by the coupon printed herewith.

FATHER'S FIST INVOKES TALK; GIRL IS FOUND

Aaron Singer, 1403 North Maplewood avenue, confronted Sol Sopkin, 36 years old, 1532 South Kominsky avenue, in the detective bureau yesterday, and charged him with knowing the whereabouts of his 16-year-old daughter, Lillian Singer.

The girl was found once before in Sopkin's company after she had run away from home, Singer told police.

"I don't know anything about her," Sopkin asserted yesterday.

Singer led with his right and landed on Sopkin's nose. Sopkin went down in a heap and started talking before he got up.

"She is in an apartment at 1830 Fillmore street," he said.

Police found the girl there, took her to the juvenile home, and charged Sopkin with abduction and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

FINE MANAGER OF LAUNDRY FOR SMOKE OFFENSE

The failure of R. G. Johannsen, manager of the Premier Laundry company, 4501 Addison street, to appear in answer to a charge of repeated violations of the smoke abatement ordinance did not save him from a fine yesterday.

At the request of Assistant City Prosecutor T. J. Reinert, Municipal Judge John A. Sbarbaro held an ex parte hearing and entered a fine of $100 and costs against Johannsen.

Inspectors from the office of Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, testified that they found repeated violations at the laundry, and that warnings to abate the nuisance were apparently ignored.

The Kenwood school at 4953 Blackstone avenue and the Hammermill Paper company, whose steamer, "Tristan," was charged with violating the same ordinance, were on the list of nineteen smoke cases set for hearing today before Judge Sbarbaro. Other defendants were:

3 out of 4 gargle uselessly while sore throats get worse and colds hang on

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that can't kill germs unless used full strength. Even when diluted with two parts of water, Pepsodent Antiseptic kills germs in 10 seconds. Thus—goes 3 times as far as other antiseptics. Thus $1 worth does the work of $3 spent for ordinary kinds.

STOP gargling for a minute. Please answer this question: Do you add water to your mouth wash? 3 out of 4 do. Adding water robs most mouth antiseptics of power to kill germs. That's how millions fool themselves—but not their colds—and not the germs . . . nor bad breath.

If you dilute your antiseptic choose one that kills germs even when diluted. Otherwise you haven't any right even to hope for quick relief.

A new discovery—SAFE yet powerful

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic from 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 1 or even 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in your fight against colds!

New security against bad breath (Halitosis)

And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for colds you are doing double duty by also fighting bad breath. For Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use—95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs is still reduced by 80%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics.

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix such antiseptics with water is a waste of money. Contrariwise, Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend. Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size, the more for your money.

Combating a cold and checking bad breath are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you when you travel.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool a cold.

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and throat irritations. For at the same time it checks bad breath. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

Cold in Head	Canker Sores	Blisters
Throat Irritations	Mouth Irritations	Loose Dandruff
Voice Hoarseness	After Extractions	Checks Under-Arm Perspiration
Bad Breath	After Shaving	Tired, Aching Feet
Cold Sores	Minor Cuts

UP TO NATIONAL COMMITTEE TO ANSWER RASKOB

Democrats Decide Jan. 9 on Dry Law Stand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The stand to be taken by the Democratic party on the prohibition question during the approaching presidential election threatens to become the major topic of discussion at the next meeting of the Democratic national committee, now set for Jan 9.

In issuing a call for the committee gathering today Chairman John J. Raskob specified that the party attitude on prohibition will be considered at that time if the committee so desires.

The specific purpose of the January meeting, as set forth in the call is to fix the time and place of the next party national convention. In addition to this usual function, the committee will review the so-called victory campaign for raising funds to finance the activities of the party's national organization.

Coming on top of Chairman Raskob's action in sending out a wet-dry questionnaire to the 90,000 persons who contributed money to the expenses of the party's last presidential campaign, his inclusion of the prohibition question in the topics to be discussed caused surprise in party circles.

Made "Unfinished" Business.

The text of the call for the committee meeting did not state in terms that prohibition would be discussed, but it contained the statement that one of the purposes of the meeting would be "to take such action as the national committee may desire on the unfinished business originated at the meeting on March 8, 1931." That unfinished business was the effort to have the national committee go on record so as to align a party policy on the prohibition problem.

If the Raskob questionnaire to campaign contributors did not do so, the call for the committee meeting issued today shows that Chairman Raskob is determined, if he can, to make a definite stand as between prohibition and anti-prohibition.

The committee meeting will be preceded on the night before by the Jackson day banquet, a regular Democratic party annual function.

The only three speeches at the banquet, it was announced, will be delivered by James M. Cox of Ohio, John W. Davis of West Virginia, and Alfred E. Smith of New York, who were the Democratic candidates for President in 1920, 1924, and 1928, respectively.

Opponents Soon Heard.

Opposition to the latest move of Chairman Raskob developed swiftly among dry members of the party in congress today.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], leader in the senate and mentioned as a presidential possibility, asserted:

"I am still of the opinion that the paramount subjects to be considered by the congress relate to economic questions, such as agriculture, taxation, unemployment, the deficit in the treasury, and other related vital problems. I do not wish to submerge or obscure these by bringing forward social problems such as that pertaining to prohibition. In view of the present membership of both houses of the congress, no substantial change respecting prohibition may be expected."

Called Anti-Roosevelt.

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The so-called Raskob prohibition questionnaire sent out by the chairman of the Democratic national committee was seen here today as a deliberate attempt to split the support of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the party's leading presidential aspirant, by forcing the liquor issue as the dominating question of the campaign.

If he meets demands of the wets there is danger of his losing the support of the west and south where he now has his main strength. On the other hand, if he should show a leaning to the dry cause, he will find himself in an open break with the so-called Smith-Raskob element, which is insistent upon a "dripping wet" platform.

The adroitness of the Raskob demand for a referendum is seen in the fact that his questionnaire is being issued to more than 60,000 Democrats in the wet eastern states. More than two-thirds of those he addresses in his letter are admittedly wet. It is regarded as almost a foregone conclusion that the answer will be for a wet plank without reservation.

3 DEMOCRATS AND 1 G. O. P. IN CONGRESS RACE IN TEXAS TODAY

Austin, Tex., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Of the ten candidates for congress in the fourteenth congressional district, to succeed the late Harry M. Wurzbach, Republican, only four—three Democrats and one Republican—complied with the Texas law in filing petitions. The law provides 500 qualified voters must petition to get names of candidates upon the official ballot, according to notice wired today to the county judges of the eleven counties comprising the district by Mrs. A. N. McCallum, secretary of state.

The special election will be tomorrow. The four candidates who complied with the law in this respect are R. M. Kleberg of Corpus Christi, Carl Wright Johnson of San Antonio, and Judge Thomas B. Smiley of Karnes City, all Democrats; and Charles M. Anderson, Republican, of San Antonio.

Because there are three Democrats in the race, Anderson, the Republican, is looked upon as having an even break to win the election.

5 YEAR SEARCH FOR KILLER ENDS IN LOS ANGELES

A five year search for James [Socks] McDonough, ex-Chicago hoodlum, for the murder of Thomas Dire, ended late last night in Los Angeles, when three detectives trapped him in a bathtub of his hotel room. His grips were packed preparatory to a flight to Mexico.

Dire, described as the ne'er-do-well member of a respectable Oak Park family, was killed in a revolver duel May 17, 1926, in 43d street, west of the elevated structure. McDonough was named as his slayer. The gun fight occurred supposedly over a division of criminal spoils. Another theory involved a dispute over women.

Half a dozen times detectives trailed McDonough through the southwest, generally near the Mexican border. Only last March he was seized on a minor charge in Los Angeles, but skipped a $50 bond. The trail continued until last night. Then Policemen James, Flikas, and Keating broke into his room in the Padre hotel, Hollywood, and dragged him from a bath tub. He was held on a fugitive murder charge for Chicago authorities.

BOTH PRAISE AND CONDEMN RASKOB RUM REFERENDUM

Woman Dry Leader Calls It a Trick.

Opposition from women dry advocates and approval from men contributors to the Al Smith campaign of 1928 developed here yesterday regarding the prohibition questionnaire sent by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, to those who gave money for the Democratic cause.

"Chairman Raskob proposes a clever scheme to impose his own views on the Democratic party, without giving law enforcement a chance," said a statement by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the national W. C. T. U. "He has a new sort of referendum and a new and untried way of writing a party platform. He substitutes his own personal questionnaire for a party convention and the convention resolutions committee.

Only to Smith Supporters.

"In limiting the questionnaire to the contributors of the Democratic fund of 1928 he submits categorical questions to those who supported Smith running on a wet platform of his own private making; and he ignores the opinion of dry Democrats who rejected the wet candidate and most of whom did not contribute."

Of twenty Chicago contributors to the Smith fund, who were interviewed yesterday, none was opposed to the principal back of the questionnaire. Statements made by some of them on the questionnaire are as follows:

George F. Getz—"I'll be glad to answer Mr. Raskob. I believe one of the parties should take a clear cut position against prohibition."

Alfred S. Austrian—"Any government which spends two and one half billion dollars more than it receives is ready for a fall. The repeal of the Volstead act would solve the whole problem and leave every state free to determine the conduct of its members."

Thomas C. Dennehy, merchant—"I'm rather in favor of modification of the Volstead act and repeal of the 18th amendment, if possible. I think the Democrats should name a man who will not sidestep the prohibition issue."

Frederick H. Rawson—"I feel that one party or the other ought to come out clean cut on the issue of prohibition and I'd like to see the Democratic party do it."

Bostius Sullivan—"In general I am in favor of repeal, but at present I don't know just how important the issue is going to become."

Anthony J. Forschner—"In general I am in favor of repeal and I think the question is important enough for a definite position to be taken by the party and the candidate."

Robert F. Carr, school trustee—"I feel somewhat as Raskob does. It is a good idea to have a referendum on the matter and give the people an opportunity to express their views."

BANDITS ROB MERCHANT.

James Bonne, 3318 Thomas street, a commission merchant, was robbed of $80 by two bandits yesterday. The bandit car forced his truck to the curb near Harrison street and Marshfield avenue.

TWO ARE KILLED WHEN AIRPLANE RUNS INTO THEM

Latrobe, Pa., Nov. 24 [Tuesday.]—(AP)—Two men were killed and another was injured at the Latrobe airport early today, when a plane ran into them while Pilot Lou Strickler, Latrobe, was making a landing. The dead are, Robert Pescatore, 30, Latrobe; Philip Duffy, 30, Latrobe.

Allen Feather, 21, Latrobe, was removed to the Latrobe hospital. Physicians said his skull was fractured.

Airport attaches said the three men had driven to the field to see Strickler. The pilot said he did not know the men were on the field. The airport here has only minor lighting facilities.

Joe Roddy, Latrobe, who was with the three men, escaped injury by leaping from the path of the plane.

Rob Two School Teachers as They Drive In Garage

Two bandits held up Miss Marion Schadinger and Miss Elizabeth Dahlgren, school teachers, both of 8529 Drexel avenue, as they were driving their car into a garage in the rear of 8426 Drexel avenue, and robbed them of their coats and $7. The same robbers stopped Ralph B. Samson, investment broker, in the rear of his home at 8424 Ingleside avenue and took $6 and a $80 watch. A third victim was Dr. Leonard Manning, 8046 Drexel avenue, who lost $45 and a $145 watch and chain. He was halted at a private garage in the rear of 8409 Drexel avenue as he was starting on an emergency call.

SIX STUDENTS INJURED.

SALOON FITTIN FORFEIT, HIGHE COURT DECLAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—A new weapon was given federal government in enforcing prohibition law when the United States Supreme court today upheld forfeiture of the equipment [illegible] tings of a Montana saloon where intoxicating liquor had been sold without payment of internal revenue taxes.

The Supreme court asserted that the seized articles, being the fixtures and equipment of a room in which tax-unpaid intoxicating liquors were dispensed were incident to the sales and so were related to the evasion at which the statute was directed, as to be clearly embraced both within the purpose an dthe words."

Overrules Lower Court.

The case arose when the government filed a libel demanding forfeiture of a bar, back bar and other saloon fittings seized by federal prohibition agents. It was contended that at the time of the seizure one Samuel Lewis had possessed the property, paid liquor on the place for the purpose of selling it.

Edward Ryan of Butte, Mont., intervened, asserting that he owned the fittings which, he claimed, were designed for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor or intended for use in violation of the dry laws. Evidence at the trial showed that the place concerned was nominally a soft drink parlor, but was actually a speakeasy.

The government won in the district court, but was reversed in the Circuit Court of Appeals, which held that forfeiture was limited to chattels seized in places where raw materials are manufactured into taxable articles in violation of the internal revenue statutes.

Gambler Must Answer.

The operator of gambling devices in violation of a state law pleaded the danger of self-incrimination in refusing to answer the questions of a United States internal revenue agent, the Supreme court also held today.

The case was that of Harry Murdock of Nameoki, Ill., who, in 1927 and 1928, had deducted $12,000 from his income tax returns, alleging gambling protection. Summoned to disclose the recipients, Murdock refused to answer, the information on the ground that it might incriminate him under state law.

Brought to trial he was discharged by the court, the government then appealing.

"Investigations for federal purposes," declared Justice Butler in the decision reversing the lower court judgment, "may not be prevented in matters depending upon state law."

SALOON FITTINGS FORFEIT, HIGHEST COURT DECLARES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. The case arose when the federal government filed a libel demanding forfeiture of a bar, back bar, and other saloon fittings seized by federal prohibition agents. It was charged that at the time of the seizure a man named Lewis had possessed tax unpaid liquor on the place for the purpose of selling it.

Samuel Ryan of Butte, Mont., intervened, asserting that he owned the things which, he claimed, were not designed for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor or intended for use in violation of the dry laws. Evidence at the trial showed that the place concerned was nominally a soft drink parlor, but was actually a speakeasy.

The operator of gambling devices in violation of a state law cannot avoid the danger of self-incrimination in refusing to answer the questions of a United States internal revenue agent, the Supreme court also ruled.

The case was that of Harry Murdock of Nameoki, Ill., who, in 1927 and 1928, had deducted $12,000 from his income tax returns, allegedly for protection. Summoned to disclose the recipients, Murdock refused to give the information on the ground that it might incriminate him under Illinois law.

Brought to trial he was discharged by the court, the government thereupon appealing.

"Investigations for federal purposes," declared Justice Butler in the opinion reversing the lower court's judgment, "may not be prevented by policies depending upon state laws."

BROTHER-IN-LAW OF HOOVER GOES TO TRIAL TODAY

He Faces Charge of Rum Possession.

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Cornelius Van Ness Leavitt, President Hoover's brother-in-law, is scheduled for trial by olice Judge Charles Spencer tomorrow morning on a charge of violating the state prohibition enforcement law.

He was arrested Nov. 9 while holding a burlap bag containing 13 pints of liquor. The arrest was made in the rear of Cliff Dalley's neighborhood grocery store, and Leavitt told arresting officers Dalley had handed him the bag a moment before the arrest took place and had requested him to carry it off the premises as a favor.

On hearing Leavitt's explanation the officers who arrested Leavitt also took Dalley in custody, but the latter denied giving the bag of liquor to Leavitt. Dalley said he knew nothing about the liquor.

Leavitt and Dalley were booked jointly on a charge of possession under the Wright act, California prohibition law. Both entered pleas of not guilty and asked for separate trials. Dalley insisted on a trial by jury, while Leavitt demanded that Judge Spencer decide the case, in spite of the judge's reluctance, which took the form of advice from the bench last Monday that the defendant ought to prefer a jury hearing. Both Leavitt and Dalley are at liberty on $250 bonds apiece.

Leavitt pleaded guilty and paid a $25 fine for intoxication in November, 1930. Dalley was arrested last year when liquor was found on his premises, but the charges were later dismissed when the ownership could not be determined. Dalley's jury trial is set before Judge Spencer, Dec. 7.

WAR HERO SHOT 12 TIMES FACES RUM TRIAL TODAY

Iowan Given 4 Medals; Denies Bootlegging.

Knoxville, Ia., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Twelve years ago Henry Derringer's heroic war record made him the object of adulation of his entire town. Tomorrow, penniless and clothes almost in tatters, he will appear in Municipal court, defended by a volunteer attorney, to answer to the charge of bootlegging.

The interim has been filled with tragedy and adversity for the 39 year old veteran, his wife and two children. Arrested by city officers as he walked out of an alley with George Burt, who had four ounces of alleged alcohol in his pocket, Derringer was put in jail until friends signed his bond.

Four medals, awarded him by three governments for valorous action, and twelve wounds, are worth exactly $12.95 a month compensation in the eyes of the veterans' bureau, according to Derringer, who is a cripple and has been unable to work for seven years.

Just Dollar a Bullet.

"Just a dollar a bullet and 95 cents for the trinkets," said Derringer as he dug into an old valise and brought out the Medalle Militaire, the Croix de Guerre, and a Distinguished Service cross with a palm.

"I got a Belgian decoration, too," he said. "But I lost it. I got it for being the first American soldier to capture a German prisoner on Belgian soil."

Filled with patriotic fervor, Henry went to the border with Gen. Pershing to capture Pancho Villa. At the outbreak of the world war he publicly announced he was going to put a halter on the Kaiser and immediately enlisted. He was with the 117th infantry, 30th division, and in six weeks was in France.

Raked by German Machine Gun.

Derringer was given his D. S. C. while acting as a stretcher bearer at Estrees. He was raked by a German machine gun, but despite five bullet wounds in his leg, he shouldered his wounded buddie and brought him in. On his way back he saw a hospital blown up by a German bombardment. Infuriated, he returned to the lines and manned a rifle all afternoon.

It was necessary for his lieutenant to escort him back that evening and Derringer suffered terrible wounds in the back from a Boche hand grenade. After eighteen weeks in the hospital, he again returned to trenches.

Prior to this, however, Henry was given the Medalle Militaire when he and his buddie were on night patrol.

"We happened to see a machine gun nest that was giving the French hell, so we brought in the gun and five Germans and made the French a present of them," said Derringer.

War Over, He Goes Farming.

The war over, Henry came here with enough money to start farming, his greatest ambition. For four years he was one of the community's most respected and reliable citizens.

"I certainly was surprised when I got a $30 check each month from the government," said Derringer naively. "But when it stopped coming in 1921 I didn't pay any attention. I didn't need the money. I figured I'd let them have it till I did."

In 1924 he suffered a complete breakdown. The money he had saved went for medical attention. The farm had to be given up and his wife and children were reduced to destitution. Gaining admission to a veterans' hospital he underwent many operations and was unable to help his family. Part of the time he received no compensation, but finally the government allowed him nine dollars a month. His disrupted service record has prevented him from proving satisfactory service disability connection.

Spine and Thigh Infected.

Derringer has a serious infection of the spine and thigh. He finally left the government hospital and went to the state hospital at Iowa City.

"They fixed me up pretty good there," said Henry after he had been there for six months. Returning home, a cripple, he began hobbling around town selling peanuts and soap, being unable to do manual labor and unequipped to perform clerical jobs.

With all his hard luck Derringer's patriotism is heroic.

"It would be a fine thing for me to bootleg when I draw money from my government," he said. "I haven't got enough to keep body and soul together, but as long as they are giving me a little bit for my kids, I don't want to chance losing that.

"We overheard some fellow say where they had hidden some alcohol and George Burt and I went to swipe it. George found it. I never even saw it." Burt verifies this statement. He is being held on an illegal possession charge.

Seek to Identify Body Taken Out of Canal

Efforts were being made last night to identify the body of a man about 55 years old found floating in the drainage canal at Lockport yesterday morning. The body was clothed in garments of fairly good quality and all marks that might lead to identification had been destroyed. The pockets of the man's trousers were turned out, indicating that he might have been robbed and killed.

SECOND TRIAL IN KENTUCKY MINE KILLINGS OPENS

Radicalism Is an Issue in Latest Case.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mount Sterling, Ky., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Kentucky must face this week the issue of radicalism that has developed during the last year out of conditions in the eastern coal fields of the state, where unionism has so far been defeated by the mine owners, among whom are some of the great corporations of the country.

JUDGE HENRY R. PREWITT.

It seemed as though the whole county had moved here today, for the courthouse yard was filled with strangers, miners and farmers from the troublesome Cumberlands, called as witnesses in the trials of the union man which began this morning. Whole families moved over here for the trials will take several weeks. Women will take several weeks.

The miners are now convinced that here, if anywhere, they can get a fair trial. This is the chief result of the acquittal last week of Bill Burnett. The "Red" papers had been saying that he had been picked as a sacrifice and would be convicted by the rich blue grass farmers regardless of evidence. They were prepared to make a new Tom Mooney or Sacco-Vanzetti martyrdom out of it.

New Indictments Voted.

The eleven original indictments returned in Harlan county were quashed on motion of the state and new indictments were voted at once by the Montgomery county grand jury. Ten men were named in the indictments, charging willful murder of two deputy sheriffs and a commissary clerk on May 5 last and also charging a conspiracy to kill. Another count in the new indictments charges the defendants with assisting, counseling, encouraging and advising the killing.

The four chief defendants around whom this latter charge lies are William Hightower, president of the United Mine Workers of America local at Evarts; W. B. Jones, secretary of the same organization and later identified with the General Defense league, legal arm of the I. W. W.; Asa Cusick, former police chief in Evarts, and Al Benson, former assistant chief. The six other men are miners, who are accused of having fired the shots that killed the peace officers. They are Jim Reynolds, Floyd Murphy, F. M. Bratcher, Bill Turpin, Bill Hudson, and Otto Mills.

Former Senator Enters Case.

The defense, represented for the first time by John M. Robsion, former U. S. senator from Kentucky, who is retained by the United Mine Workers' national organization, moved for separate trials. This was granted and the commonwealth elected to try Jones first. He, it appears, was organizer as well as secretary of the United Mine Workers in this field, and much of the trouble centered around him.

JUDGE FISHER URGES PUBLIC TO SUPPORT POLICE IN CRIME WAR

Speaking before the Advertising post of the American Legion at the Hotel Sherman yesterday, Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court requested the public to back the police department and to have faith in the courts as the only method to cope with the criminal situation.

JUDGE FISHER.

Prohibition, political corruption, the method of handling convicts, lack of public interest, and the handling of newspaper stories are factors in the increase of crime, according to Judge Fisher. He said that there is an average of 15,000 men in state institutions in Illinois throughout the year and an average of 1,400 men in the Cook county jail.

"To keep the men locked up with nothing to do and to permit them to talk to hardened criminals can do nothing but turn out men worse than when they entered jail," Judge Fisher said.

"I have no objection to prohibition if it can be enforced. I am not interested in morals. The 'noble experiment' took a great industry out of the hands of the laws and the courts, yet we have not stopped the traffic. All we have done is to put booze sellers outside the law. As a result political corruption has followed."

Romance Shattered, Gives Diamond to Help Jobless

SOCIALISTS FIGHT TO RULE SPAIN; THREATEN REVOLT

Wage Struggle Against Dissolving Cortes.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Nov. 23.—Spanish socialism will have its way with the republic or it will resort again to a revolution.

Thus declared Largo Caballero, minister of labor in the present government and the undisputed leader of the Socialist union, today in asking his party's attitude toward the maneuvers of the conservative elements to dissolve the constituent cortes after the choice of a president early next month, when new elections will be called in the hope of blocking the march of the triumphant left.

"We want guarantees that the cortes will not be dissolved," Caballero said. "We want it understood that if any Republican faction came into power, dissolving the cortes and calling for new elections, we would consider ourselves betrayed and thus released from all our pledges. We would also consider such an action sufficient provocation for a new revolutionary movement. It would mean a civil war."

May Head Government.

Señor Caballero, known to the working man as "Don Paso," is the Socialists' strong man, and it is generally expected that either he or President Manuel Azana will head a concentration government when the republic gets down to a constitutional basis within the next two weeks.

His statement was a blast directed at Alejandro Lerroux, minister of foreign affairs, and his so-called radicals who represent those elements who are distinctly anxious to apply the brakes, and feel that the elections now would result in a Socialist victory. Lerroux and his followers have been thwarted at every turn by the Socialists, who have only one fourth of the seats, and their only hope is to appeal to the nation which they think is as disgusted as they are.

"When the constitution is finished this week," Caballero says, "the revolution will have only just begun. The mandate of this cortes is obviously not only to draft a constitution but also supporting legislation to make it effective. We have got to go on as we have to regional and church statutes, to agrarian reform and economic readjustment. The time for dissolution has not come. We will see to that."

Socialists Are Confident.

It looks very much, despite Lerroux's mutterings, as if the Socialists have assurances. Former President Alcala Zamora, whose election on Dec. 12 to the presidency seems sure, was forced on the government by Caballero himself. It is generally understood that the price Zamora paid was not only to renege on the constitutional revision campaign, which he announced when he quit the cabinet, but also to promise not to grant a dissolution of the cortes until the supplementary job was done, possibly two years from now.

No Fear of Defeat.

Caballero swears that behind socialism's tactics there is no fear of defeat at the elections if they are called now.

"On the contrary," he says, "we will emerge victors. The future is ours. The membership of the socialist union has risen from 400,000 to 1,000,000 in six months, and the membership of the Socialist party itself from 30,000 to 60,000."

The Socialists when they joined in the conspiracy against the monarchy, assuring it of its triumph, were promised a number of things, Caballero says, on which apparently some people are cooling off.

SUCH CHANGES COME UPON US SUBTLY

Few of us stop to consider how motoring habits have changed. To-day, women drive as much as do men . . . our wives and daughters spend as much time behind the wheels as we do. Yet so few of us think of giving them the accident insurance protection that we would not be without ourselves.

The Travelers offers a special accident policy for women. This policy covers every kind of accident—not only on the highway, but also in the home, where, strange as it may seem, the greatest number of accidents to women occur. The cost of this policy is trifling. Yet it pays for the crushing bills that even minor injuries can bring.

If an accident should occur, the policy will let you give your wife or daughter the kind of attention and care you want her to have, without financial sacrifice.

TEST 500 CARS; FIND 42% HAVE FAULTY BRAKES

71% Called Defective in Some Respects.

Five hundred automobiles went through the safety lane opened yesterday in Grant park by the Chicago motor club to test automobiles for mechanical defects free of charge. The passage between Soldiers' field and the Field museum is reserved for the tests.

Of the total cars examined 355 or 71 per cent were found to be mechanically defective in one or more ways. Only 145 automobiles or 29 per cent were found to be in perfect condition. The principal defect was faulty brakes. Approximately 42 per cent of the cars examined were found faulty in this respect. Defective wheel alignment was a stumbling block for 33 per cent of the motorists.

Many Have Imperfect Lights.

Imperfect lights were charged against 14 per cent of the cars. The principal lighting faults were faulty lenses, improper elevations and defective stop lights. Only 3 per cent of the cars found lacking in proper stop lights, 1.5 per cent proper bright lights, 1.5 proper tail light and 1.2 per cent proper parking lights.

Only 1 per cent of the rejected cars had defective steering gears and 0.6 of one per cent had faulty windshield wipers. Not a horn and not a rear view mirror was found to be defective.

Cars of fifty cars which had been given approval stickers had the defects adjusted and returned to secure approval. The examinations are being made under the direction of A. C. Bruns of the motor club. The lane will be operated all week.

Shows Interest of Motorists.

"The return of 10 per cent of the motorists who had faulty cars shows that motorists are interested in correcting defects which may result in accidents," Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club, said. "The correction of faulty brakes, wheel alignment and lights will do much to curb the county's mounting motor toll.

"The fact that approximately 71 per cent of the cars examined were found to be defective in one respect or another should provide reflection. The percentage would be borne out in an examination of every car in the Chicago area. Such defects are certainly contributory causes of serious and fatal accidents."

Padden Opens Campaign.

Judge Frank M. Padden of the traffic court yesterday announced he will start a campaign of heavy fines against motorists arrested for speeding who cannot exhibit recent proof of a brake test showing their cars to be in proper order in this respect. Motorists who cannot show their brakes to be in good condition will be fined more heavily than others.

"A motorist with defective brakes is a potential menace to life and limb," Judge Padden said. "A motorist with good brakes, although he may deserve punishment for speeding, is more easily able to prevent an accident and should be given more consideration than one who cannot."

WALSH URGES PLAN

Coroner Frank J. Walsh yesterday urged the adoption of legislation requiring periodic examination of all automobiles for defective equipment as the greatest single step toward curbing the county's mounting motor death toll.

"Periodic rigid inspection of all the automobiles in Cook county, similar to the California system, must be put into effect," Coroner Walsh said. "Until such a law is passed the death toll will mount yearly. When accidents occur the automobiles involved should be inspected in determining culpability."

The coroner suggested as further cures with highways, more grade separations, improvement of intersections and elevated highways.

Narrow Roads Function Better than Here.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Streets here laid out as early as 1704, narrow and not always straight, are serving automobile traffic more efficiently than many of Chicago's comparatively new thoroughfares because New Orleans is thoroughly sold on the value of one way traffic regulations.

This city, sometimes thought of as backward because it clings to its romantic past under the flags of France, Spain, England and the confederacy, is more advanced than Chicago in several respects in its handling of motor car congestion and accident problems.

There are seventy-five streets, with a total distance of approximately 250 miles, where traffic flows in one direction only. For most of this distance parking is prohibited on the left curb. The pavements on these one way drives for most part are narrow, from 25 to 28 feet wide.

Four Unobstructed Lanes.

A pair of such pavements gives four lanes free for moving traffic, two lanes in each direction. This is the equivalent of a 56 foot pavement with parking on both sides. Neither Jackson boulevard, Washington boulevard, South Michigan avenue nor Sheridan road has four lanes free for moving traffic.

Chicagoans know a little of the value of one way traffic regulations through their experience on the Warren and Washington boulevard combination between Garfield and Union parks. Cars can move faster and in greater volume than if each pavement were operated independently.

The system has not been extended in Chicago because the motoring public has not demanded it and because abutting property owners have objected to proposed installations. Both of these reasons will disappear with education, in the opinion of Walter M. Dufflourc, New Orleans deputy commissioner of public safety.

"Nine years ago," said Mr. Dufflourc, "New Orleans proposed its first one way traffic street, on St. Charles from Canal street to Lee circle. The merchants made a vigorous fight, contending that it would interfere with trade.

"After months of arguments the regulations were inaugurated temporarily. The benefit to traffic was so great, with no detriment to trade, that the system was extended through the business district with the exception of on the broad thoroughfares.

"The same experience was met in residential neighborhoods when the one way systems were extended out to the corporate limits. Today we receive petitions from property owners asking for the creation of additional one way drives to their districts.

"Here's a letter from the principal of a public school. A pupil was struck by an automobile there a few days ago. She urges that a one way system be established in place of the two way street past the school as a safety measure."

Driving Hazard Less.

New Orleans, for the first ten months of 1931, had eighty-two motor fatalities. This is about a tenth of Chicago's toll. In population, 455,702, and in number of automobiles, 78,140, New Orleans is about a sixth the size of Chicago. These figures would indicate that the driving hazard is 166 per cent greater in Chicago than in New Orleans.

Mr. Dufflourc believes that New Orleans' favorable comparison with Chicago is due in a large degree to the extensive one way traffic system here. Another factor of major significance, he said, is that New Orleans has an ordinance requiring a test of automobile brakes twice a year.

"It costs the owner of a car only a dollar a year to know that his brakes are in good condition and, perhaps more important, to be protected against other automobiles having poor brakes," said the deputy commissioner. "The ordinance is eight years old but only recently has it been vigorously enforced. The results of this enforcement are reflected in a decrease in accidents.

LINDY DICKERS TO LINK AIR MAIL LINE IN COLOMBIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 23.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here today to arrange with Scadta Air company officials for through service in conjunction with the Pan-American airways. The Scadta company is a German-Colombian corporation which carries mail and passengers in Colombia. There have been considerable stock purchases by the Pan-American company recently although the concession demands that the controlling directors be Colombians.

Col. Lindbergh's job is one of cooperation. He conferred with the Scadta company's vice president and founder, Dr. Peter Paul von Baner, an Austrian, who it is claimed owns 60 per cent of the stock. The president is a Colombian.

Col. Lindbergh's plan is to arrange a common schedule as well as to speed up the mails between the United States and the west coast of South America via Barranquilla and Buena Ventura. At present American mail is sent via Cristobal in the Canal zone.

Here is the fresh cigarette

Never parched, never toasted!

EVERYBODY recognizes now that the Camel Humidor Pack is the greatest cigarette advancement in years.

But everybody may not realize that it is important only because Camels are fresh and flavorful cigarettes to start with.

The tobaccos in Camels are the choicest money can buy—fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos expertly selected and expertly blended.

We never parch or toast these delicate sun-ripened tobaccos—on the contrary we exercise every care and precaution to safeguard the natural moisture which is infused with their mildness and flavor.

The air-sealed moisture-proof Camel Humidor Pack is a boon to Camel smokers because it insures that a fine and genuinely fresh cigarette comes to you in prime smoking condition.

If you seek relief from the harsh hot smoke of factory-stale dry-as-dust strong tobaccos, switch to fresh Camels for just one day—then leave them, if you can.

Perfect Hero, Lovely Girl, Thrill of War

Yellow Temper, She Pride for 375 Pages.

"The Rock and the River," by Ralph Connor. (Dodd-Mead.)

"The Rock and the River" is a tale of the Canadian border in the early part of the 19th century before and during the war of 1812. Rad Rory, as he is called, a Scottish-Highlander, which means

RALPH CONNOR.

[illegible] and the United States. He leaves his small town of Malbaie to go to Quebec. There he is thrown into the social whirl of the town; love, however, does he allow himself to desert his work. He meets the beautiful, wealthy and aristocratic Madelaine, with whom, of course, he falls desperately in love. The account of his military and patriotic activities and his love for the girl furnishes the material for this romance.

Rad Rory is as nearly perfect mortally and otherwise as it is possible for an author to make a character. The incredible hero's only fault is a quick temper, which the author leads us to believe is the necessary accompaniment to a spirited and brave man. The main reason for giving the lad a temper apparently is to keep the story moving. It is impossible to believe that the romance could go on for 375 pages without the complications that stem from this bad but, according to the author, really thoroughly irresistible temper.

Madelaine in her way is as impeccable as Rad Rory. Perhaps she has too much pride, but she, too, is a genteel girl and it is inconceivable that she shouldn't have this minor fault. Her pride and Rory's temper make these two brilliantly perfect youth seem somewhat more human, even though the presence of these flaws are only too obviously used to create suspense.

Madelaine is good and beautiful, sweet and loyal. In the face of terrible heartrending complications brought about by Rory's temper and bad letters, etc., her goodness triumphs. Even the wicked Hector, a poor, scheming and misled boy who takes devilish delight in the misunderstandings of the lovers, realizes the error of his ways and reforms before the end of the book.

Miss Christine, the good fairy of the story, is a noble, vivacious woman who sees to it that the lovers are reunited and that Rory recovers from his battle wounds. And so it goes with all the imagined characters. They are either thoroughly bad or thoroughly good and the bad ones either meet evil ends or see the light before the story ends.

The atmosphere of Quebec at the time of turmoil and intrigue and counter plots is admirably created. The figures of the governor and the colonial and other diplomatic or military men are no doubt authentic and they are interestingly and credibly pictured. The description of a meeting held in Albany presided over by Henry Clay is the most interesting episode in the book. The author ably handles in his romance the political and social situation in Canada and the United States.

Good morning!

From football hero to hijacker on the bounding main is the course laid out for Chester Morris in this yarn re: modern piracy.

There MAY be something the matter with me, she admitted coyly, but for some reason I found "Corsair" awfully dull. Why it should be, search the prisoner, for it certainly packs plenty of action that OUGHT to be suspenseful. What's wrong, I think, is that story and players fail to carry conviction, for the reason that the former is too-too and the latter merely act.

One of Mr. Webster's definitions of a corsair is "a Turk or Saracen authorized to harry Christian commerce." Mr. Morris is neither a Turk nor a Saracen, and the commerce he harries is a loud yell from being Christian—but that definition tells you all you need to know about the plot.

Allison Loyd, once known as Thelma Todd—she changed her name because a numerologist told her she'd better—is pretty and sarcastic as the girl in the case. Fred Kohler as "Big John" is a hell fire browed villain with a deep and ogreish voice. Mr. Morris, slim and diabolical, corsairs on his boat "The Corsair" with all his might and main—too much of both—and so on. Director, sound mixer, photographer, etc., did their best.. I guess.

William Gillette's old stage play of the civil war makes pretty fair screen entertainment. Just "pretty fair," because it's considerably overacted in spots and the direction shows no particular finesse. Costumes and sets are interesting and Mr. Dix does his best to give a sincere portrayal though hindered, I imagine, by circumstances over which he had no control.

You probably know that the story tells of what happens to a northern spy on duty behind the confederate lines. Danger besets him at every turn—and a sweet southern maiden steals his heart away.

See you soon.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

At any given moment of competition in a game, or in life, for that matter, one side is usually on the offensive and the other on the defensive. Occasionally a hand at contract bridge is so distributed that both partnerships take the offensive in the bidding. The result is usually disastrous for somebody. Witness yesterday's play-a-problem.

As the hand was played nothing disastrous occurred unless the winnins of a game by one partnership can be considered disastrous to the other. At least no one was set. The hand was:

♥—None
♦—3,2,7

WEST	EAST [Dealer]
♠—K,4	♠—3,2
♥—8,5,7,6,5	♥—K,J,10,4,2
♦—5,4	♦—A,K,Q,9,8

SOUTH
♥—A,Q,3
♦—10,3,2
♣—K,Q

East opened the bidding with one heart. South, holding 4½ high card tricks and 2 probable tricks in addition, made an attacking overcall of two spades. West, however, held 4 supporting tricks for East's heart bid. He held 1½ high card tricks and in addition two doubletons worth a supporting trick each since he held at least four hearts. Further, the five heart holding was worth one supporting trick. He, therefore, held ½ supporting trick more than necessary to raise his partner's bid from one heart to three.

North held 3 supporting tricks; ½ for the four spades and 2½ for the void hearts. Since it is only necessary to hold two supporting tricks to raise his partner's attacking overcall, North is more than justified in raising his partner to three spades.

East holds 4 high card tricks and in addition 4 low card tricks—8 probable tricks in all. East in fact would have been perfectly justified in opening the bid with a bid of two hearts and to my mind should have done so. Because of partner's strong heart support, East had no desire to show his diamonds and promptly bid four hearts.

This left South a little puzzled. Surely some of the bidding that had gone around the board was based on distribution and not on high cards. South and North were vulnerable. East and West were not. If South was right in his guess that North's raise was based on distribution and not high cards South foresaw a set of two or three if he bid four spades. Should he be doubled on the bid this would mean a set of from 600 to 1,000. A sacrifice hardly worth taking to stop East and West from making a game. On the other hand, South realized that if he was wrong and North did hold high cards, which would mean that West's raise was based almost entirely on distribution, then North and South could set the four heart bid. The wisest course seemed to be to pass.

South led the ♣ K which dummy took with the A. Dummy then led the ♦ 5 which East took with the Q, returning the ♦ A and the ♦ K, discarding the ♣ 4 from his dummy on the latter. Then he led the ♦ 9. South trumped with the ♥ 3 and dummy with the 5. Dummy now returned the ♣ 5 which East trumped with the ♥ 2. East then led the ♦ 6. South trumped with the ♥ Q, dummy discarded the ♠ K. South now led the ♥ A and then his ♠ Q which dummy trumped with the 7. Dummy now led the ♣ 6 which East trumped with the ♥ 10, leading back the ♠ 3 which dummy trumped with the 8. East then took in his ♥ J and K which gave him his bid and one odd.

Had South opened the ♠ A. East would have been held to four odd.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Opera Official Tells of Cuts in Salary at Last Season's End

Herbert M. Johnson, business manager of the Chicago Civic Opera company, issued a statement yesterday declaring that salary cuts, ranging up to 26 per cent, have been effected among the personnel of the company, including artists, the executive staff, the house staff and employes. The reductions began as early as last spring, he said. The formal statement follows:

"Salary cuts ranging as high as 26 per cent were made throughout the Chicago Civic Opera organization before the 1931 season opened. The reductions began as early as last spring, when new contracts were made with artists, and before the opening of the season they were extended to include the executive staff, the house staff and employes.

"Reductions were voluntary on the part of many members of the organization holding contracts which, in some cases, have as much as six months to run."

Rail Official's Daughter Weds Son of Educator

Miss Virginia Hamilton, 18 years old, daughter of Thomas B. Hamilton, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, 2920 Lake Shore drive, and Thornwell Jacobs, Jr., 21, son of the founder and president of Oglethorpe university, Atlanta, Ga., were married late yesterday afternoon at Plymouth, Ind.

The bride is a student at the Art Institute of Chicago. Mr. Jacobs is a former Culver Military academy student.

Both appeared yesterday at the Marshall county offices at Plymouth. They procured a marriage license from Miss Annabelle Lackey, assistant county clerk, and asked directions to a minister. Miss Lackey named the Rev. F. E. Kline of the Presbyterian church. They appeared at the clergyman's home a few minutes later and were married. They told him they wished to keep the wedding a secret and started for Culver, Ind.

Eastman and Harkness Quit N. Y. Opera Board

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—George Eastman, Rochester, N. Y., manufacturer, and Edward S. Harkness, financier and philanthropist, have resigned from the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera company. That was announced today. Press of other business was given as their reason, the same as that offered in the resignation, on Oct. 26, of Otto H. Kahn from the dual post of president and chairman of the same board. Rep. Robert Low Bacon and Clarence Dillon, senior partner of the banking firm of Dillon, Read & Co., will succeed Mr. Eastman and Mr. Harkness as Paul D. Cravath did Mr. Kahn.

Chicago Plans Thanksgiving Feast for Poor

Meals in Preparation for Needy Families.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

With more than the usual thoughtfulness for the needy and unfortunate, Chicago began making ready yesterday for the observance of Thanksgiving, 310 years after the Plymouth Pilgrims first observed the day.

The words of President Hoover, who asserted in his Thanksgiving proclamation that "the hardships of the past year should strengthen the courage of the people and quicken their sympathies for those less fortunate," seem to have found a place in the hearts of Chicagoans. Plans have been formulated for dinners for the unemployed, their families, and for men and women deprived of health and liberty.

There won't be the usual soup, bread, and coffee in many emergency shelters on Thanksgiving. Dinners with turkey, goose, roast pork, or beef with potatoes, other vegetables, pie, cake, and coffee, will grace the boards that haven't been festive in past months. In the jails and other city and county institutions those in authority are sparing no trouble to provide old fashioned Thanksgiving dinners for the inmates.

Among the shelters is the Trinity Gospel mission, 203 South Halsted street, founded three years ago by Edward De Vries, 2624 South Tripp avenue, a sergeant on the police force. The mission, supported by Chicago business men, will distribute 200 Thanksgiving baskets to families in its neighborhood tomorrow evening, and on Thursday will give a big dinner to 500 men. The dinners will include beef, pork, potatoes, corn, pie, cake, coffee, and bread.

Gifts of food and other supplies for children of the Mary Crane nursery school, Hull house, will be presented in a processional by the children who are in the demonstration school of the National College of Education, and by students at the college today. Thanksgiving hymns led by the college choir will be followed by a Thanksgiving message from President Edna Dean Baker. The pupils of the children's school at the college will hold their festival tomorrow morning.

More than 1,400 prisoners in the county jail will dine on a special dinner planned by Chef Walter Freeman. There will be roast chicken with rice dressing, green peas, cranberry sauce, turnips, sweet potatoes, pie, pickles, and coffee. The meal will be served in the little day rooms adjoining each cell, with fifty members of the Alimony club acting as waiters.

Al Capone, who was dining elsewhere last Thanksgiving, hopes to cheer his fellow diners in the jail on Thursday with cake or candy for the whole 1,400. Warden David Moneypenny said he would seek the approval of Sheriff Meyering before granting Capone permission to play benefactor.

Death in the electric chair will shadow Thanksgiving day in jail. One minute after midnight following Thanksgiving day, Frank Bell is scheduled to die for the murder of a café manager in a holdup.

The youngest prisoner to enjoy the Thanksgiving repast will be Varner Corry, 15 years old, who is under an 18 year prison sentence for killing a policeman. He is at the jail while his appeal is pending in the state Supreme court. There are 41 women prisoners in the women's ward.

At the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital 1,500 disabled war veterans are to receive as much turkey and trimmings as they can eat. Throughout the day they will be entertained at bedside and in the dining hall by professional and amateur singers.

Women Once Jeered Now Cheered, Says Genevieve F. Herrick

"Women in their pursuit of progress have gone from the era of jeers to the era of cheers," Genevieve Forbes Herrick of the Washington bureau of THE TRIBUNE, declared last night at the ninth anniversary dinner of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women, at the Blackstone hotel. Members of the federation of the organizations from three states attended.

"We still [illegible]e the woman angle," the newspaper woman asserted, "which I think is a dismaying thing. If women were [illegible] a parallel with men, there wouldn't be any such angle at all. It is appearing.

"There is no woman's bloc at Washington, unless it be in the Smithsonian Institution, where a sculptor has given the 33 statues of wives of the presidents the self-same features."

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE new play at the Blackstone, written by Philip Barry, who is rated as a major American dramatist, deals with a brief moment of lyric adultery in a mid-west college town, a concealed illegitimacy, sweet partings and Spartan farewells between the lovers, and a bit of abnormal child psychology. The solid, standard material of emotional drama is here, no doubt, but Mr. Barry has fluttered about it, in my opinion, like an interior decorator trying to hang up a few modernistic drapes in a Gothic cathedral.

"Tomorrow and Tomorrow" enjoys a reputation as one of the ten best plays of the past season in New York. I do not wish to question its right to a place upon the roll of honor, and the reasons why it was so premiated are apparent enough — its quality of strangeness, its quietly flickering moods, its studied and somewhat affected literary tone, its air of being out of the ordinary run of plays. I wish to testify only to the fact that it failed to fascinate or stir me; that I found it unpersuasive, slow, and finical of manner; and that not until the last act does it warm up into anything like a gripping situation. I had counted upon "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" to cause me to join the procession of cheerers for Philip Barry, because advance reports of its story had stimulated my imagination; but I have been disappointed, and cannot yet desert my place among the minority.

In a patchy arrangement of nine scenes, all with the same settings—the living room of a prosperous young couple in a mythical Indiana college town [shall we call it Lafayette or Bloomington?]—this story is told:

The pretty young wife of a flourishing trustee of the school is vaguely unhappy. She loves her husband, but she is, as the text says, "an artist without an art." She has the maternal instinct—but no baby. She is beginning to fear that there will never be a baby. Then along comes a visiting psychologist, as house guest for the summer term. The yearning wife and the explorer of emotions meet as kindred souls. End of Act I.

They love at first sight, but they pretend to be merely good friends until the professor is ready to depart. Then the summer moonlight gets them—or the laurels, about which Mr. Barry writes some musical phrases. They part, without making much of a fuss. They are really charming people, who know how to be heart broken without theatrical behavior. Then the family doctor comes to see the romantic lady, and after a picturesque fainting spell she tells her husband, who is writing to an orphanage regarding adoption, that she is going to have a baby of her own. End of Act II.

Eight years later her son, driven to attempt feats of horsemanship by his sporting dad, falls off his steed in a faint after taking a hurdle. He doesn't come out of the coma for days. His mother hears the real father's voice over the radio, as he is lecturing on the emotions at the University of Chicago, and telephones him to come to the aid of the apparently dying lad.

The professor arrives, discovers the truth about the child's parentage, diagnoses the illness as an case of hysterical coma from fright, cures it [off stage], wants to take the mother and child away with him, is sweetly refused, and goes away sadly. The mother waves him a true love farewell, and settles back to live up to the title—"Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow, creeps on its petty pace from day to day." End of act III and final curtain.

Zita Johann, a young actress of slightly exotic charm, plays the wife with winning honesty and a delicate romantic touch. Glenna Anders, as the psychologist, has Theater Guild sureness of touch, but he does not satisfy my idea of an expert on the endocrine glands in their relation to the emotions. Harvey Stephens is exactly right as the straightforward husband. The performance and staging of "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" have the distinction and authority that the auspices of Gilbert Miller always promise.

Hour of Its Debut Is Kept Mystery.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

CRANBERRY shortcake last night received the plaudits of the multitude—the multitude being the thousands of women, and in many cases their husbands and whole families, who came to THE TRIBUNE School of Cookery in the Coliseum.

If this was a forerunner to Thanksgiving, however, today's sessions will offer something even more substantial. The heart and soul of the Thanksgiving dinner, a roast turkey with chestnut dressing, will be prepared on the stage of the Coliseum either this afternoon or tonight.

Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, a nationally known food expert, who conducts the school in cooperation with Mary Meade, TRIBUNE home economics editor, has not revealed when she will do it. But she has announced that before the final session is over tonight, she will have dealt with a turkey in such a manner as to make every housewife's mouth water.

Today's two classes in cookery, the final ones THE TRIBUNE School of Cookery offers, will begin at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon and at 7:45 o'clock tonight, in the Coliseum, 1513 South Wabash avenue.

Women from throughout the city attended yesterday's classes, the first of them, Mrs. Mary O'Connell, 922 Crescent place, arriving a few minutes after 8 o'clock. Two hundred of the women remained in the auditorium at the end of the afternoon session, gaily talking and eating the suppers they had brought with them.

In order to while away the hours before the evening session would begin many of them took packages of cards from their pocketbooks and, using their laps as card tables, played bridge after their suppers were consumed.

They compared notes on what luck they had with Mrs. Chitwood's recipes. One of them said her husband liked data nut jumbos above all else. Another had tried one of Mary Meade's salad recipes prepared by Mrs. Chitwood, "and for once George ate salad."

The principal idea in cranberry shortcake is to make shortcake dough most gingerly—just as pie dough is made, with the tips of the fingers, barely crumbling together the flour and shortening.

"Now you add just enough cold water to stick the materials together, and knead as you knead French pastry," said Mrs. Chitwood, doing just that. "See, you lift the dough half way around, lift it up, then knead it down."

"Now bake your shortcake on a baking sheet," she said, "holding up a flat metal sheet. 'Make a good generous amount, because this shortcake won't last long. There will be calls for second helpings."

When the shortcake was done, she covered with a layer of cranberries, which had been cooked with sugar and water "until they popped open," a little grated orange peel, and a layer of whipped cream. Another layer of shortcake went on top, and then more cream, more cranberries, and a final layer of cream, put on in decorative motifs by a pastry tube.

After the children from the Ethel and Gertrude Morgan School of Dancing had sung and danced, and Verna Burke of the Columbia Broadcasting system had sung some "blues" songs, Paul Whiteman, dance orchestra leader, was introduced. He in turn introduced Jack Fulton, tenor, and "The King's Romancers," a trio from Whiteman's Edgewater Beach hotel orchestra.

Then the climax of the evening came with the singing of a group of Negro spirituals by the Mundy choristers and Jubilee singers. Dressed in black robes, with a red rose pinned on each robe, the men and women singers stood in massed formation on the stage and sang "Little David, Play on Your Harp," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," "Go Down Moses" and others followed. "Wade in De Water" was sung, with Helen Morgan singing the solo role, and "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" featured Amy Smith.

As the choristers neared the end of their program, Mr. Maxwell interrupted it and announced that the mother of James A. Mundy, the choral leader, was in the audience, and asked to present her to the audience. Amidst a volume of applause, the gray haired, 75 year old woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Mundy, of 5734 South Park way, walked across the stage, bowed, and seated herself on the platform while her son led another song.

The program was begun with community singing, led by Frank Bennett, assisted by his wife, Cathryn Bennett, at the piano. The awarding of prizes concluded the program. The grand prizes will be awarded tonight. More than 100 prizes will be given away this afternoon.

Among the features of this afternoon's program will be the song, "Old Man River." Its singer will be announced at his introduction. Benny Rubin, star of "Girl Crazy," now playing at the Garrick theater, and stars from W-G-N, Agatha Lewis and Lawrence Salerno, will take part in the afternoon program as well.

The woman who taught THE TRIBUNE cooking editor, Mary Meade, how to cook, was a member of last night's audience. Mrs. A. S. Thompson, of Beloit, Wis., the mother of Mary Meade, began her instructions when Mary was 4 years old, she said.

Ivan Albright Leads Society of Artists' Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE peculiar technique in painting of Ivan Le Lorraine Albright has come into its own in the Chicago Society of Artists' exhibition which opened with a formal reception last night in the Studio gallery, Diana Court building. This painting wit hthe romantic title, "Into the World Came a Soul Called Ida," has been seen before. It was shown at the Art institute a year ago. It caused a reaction then and it stirs up a similar flood of emotion today.

The picture is of a woman; she is leathery, knotted, gnarled, down with dropsy, but fighting to her last breath, a typical Ivan Albright character portrait. She was awarded the gold medal, token of greatest worth. One need not, however, agree with the jury.

The silver medal was given to a rather stunning composition by Davenport Griffeth, "Where Two or Three Are Gathered Together in My Name," a group of four figures sitting devoutly with heads bent in prayer. The bronze medal went to "Back Stage," by Franklin Van Court, a picture of some color and vivacity. "Old Stone Quarry," by Tunis Ponsen, and "Wisconsin Landscape," by Harold Schultz, were given honorable mention.

The Chicago Society of Artists is notoriously made up of painters who incline more than a little to modernism. The tendency is evidenced in the present show. It is a lively exhibit and well balanced. If we suffer on the one hand our feelings are soothed on the other. The sculpture is very fine. Edward Chassaing has a stunning "Young Guanaco," which looks like a kangaroo, marvelously handled, vital, vigorous, and alive. Elisabeth Haseltine shows again her charming "Baby Pegasus," and Viola Norman offers two portrait heads "Daughter of the South" and "Chinese Boy," both of them full of character, mobile and strongly done.

The paintings which soothe, and are therefore the pleasantest for this record, are "Bouquet," by Frances Foy; "White Tower," by Leonore Smith Jerrems; "Bear River Hotel," by Josephine L. Reichmann; "Kitchen Table," by Tressa Emerson Benson, and one or two others. This is not the last word, however. You had better make your own choices. The exhibit will continue to Dec. 15.

CHICAGO RELIEF FUND NOW $6,927,777 AS MORE CONTRIBUTE

Contributions for a total of $33,300 were added yesterday to the joint emergency relief fund of Cook county, carrying the grand total thus far achieved to $6,927,777.

Employees of the Bunte Candy company pledged $10,000 and employés of Mandel Brothers $8,500. Other large contributors were: National Broadcasting company and employés, $5,514; Fred Harvey and Harvey, Ind., $4,800; Bryden Brothers company, $2,743; Steele-Wedeles company, $2,500; employés of Dryden Rubber company, $2,256; employés of Jackson Brothers Goessel company, $1,743; Emil J. Paidor company, $2,100; Johnson and Smyth company, $1,200, and employés of Bezark & Co., $1,188.

Mayor Joseph Z. Klenha of Cicero yesterday appointed a committee to make a drive for the emergency fund in his suburb. Among the members are Joseph S. Kral, Frank Devlin, C. W. Chamberlain, James Vytiska, John Raleigh James Gable, Anton Maciejewski, the Rev. Stuart Pratt, and Maynard Fessenden.

High Road to Beauty the Fresh Air Route, Antoinette Declares

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we talked about deep breathing, about the beautiy tonic of the air wash, inside and out.

Talk about your vacuum cleaners and how they can clear up a weather beaten surface and give new life to a worn face! There's more magic in the ozone that you can have for the mere asking.

I'm trying to sell this fresh air route to beauty because I think at this particular moment of strained faces and wrinkled brows the feminine world needs it badly. There's no surer way to minimize one's troubles than to take them out into the open and air them.

Then, too, the time is ripe for the simpler beautifying potions and charms. If one cannot afford to go places this winter, one doesn't need to look the irritated sister. One can still go out for a good airing. It may sound like a mild substitute. Perhaps it is. But one doesn't know what a substitute it can be made until it is tried. In fact, this fall and winter could be devoted to catching up on those old health rules that have been more or less outlawed because of our recent opulent days.

They're talking all over the place about getting back to the farm as the stabilizing thing in economic life. We health and looks seekers could profitably do a bit of turning back, too. Back to some of the good old homely remedies for keeping young: fit and active. And if there is anything recorded that supersedes fresh air consumption in keeping blood and arteries young, no one knows its name.

Not for a moment do I minimize the importance of magic lotions of cosmetic nature that are within our reach today. Their psychological value alone is inestimable. But we have become extremists in their use, depending solely upon them for our physical needs and neglecting, meantime, the basic need of outdoor air, of outdoor play, of circulation stirring, of natural ways of tending the important eliminative functioning, of healthfully disposing of body poisons through active sweat glands. These are the back to nature ways recommended on today's program.

SOCIETY NOTES

Members of the committee in charge of the Vassar benefit tea dances met yesterday morning at Vassar house to make plans for the opening dance on Saturday, Dec. 5. Betty Frey is chairman of the group, which includes Elinor Durbin, Jane Rowe, Catherine Noyes, and Lillian Dudley.

The Vassar club of Chicago has changed the locale for its dinner next Tuesday for the college president, Dr. Henry N. McCracken, from the Fortnightly to the Blackstone. That afternoon the club will give a tea at Vassar House for Dr. McCracken to which the principals, faculties and students of 20 private schools in the city have been invited. Mrs. Percival Hart, president of the club and at whose residence, 4820 Kenwood avenue, Dr. McCracken will be a guest during his visit, Mrs. Clayton Seaman and Mrs. Frederick Merrifield will pour at the tea.

The Wesley Dixons returned yesterday from a month in the east. Mrs. Dixon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Silas H Strawn, who were in New York last week with the Dixons, stopped off in Washington en route home and will arrive here tomorrow.

Former Gov. Livingston Beekman of Rhode Island and Mrs. Beekman spent a few hours in the city Sunday en route to Santa Barbara where they will occupy the Arthur Meekers' residence for the winter.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover received Mrs. M. McKee Reisinger of Greenwich, Conn., granddaughter of President Benjamin Harrison, this afternoon in the White House. With Mrs. Reisinger were her two daughters, Miss Edmee Reisinger, a student at Mount Vernon seminary here, and little Mary Harrison Reisinger, named for her late grandmother, Mrs. James Robert McKee. Also in the little group was Mrs. Lewis N. Watson, granddaughter of Dr. John Newcomer, physician to President Harrison, who also is a cousin of Senator Frederick Walcott of Connecticut.

Mrs. Longworth, widow of the late speaker, has gone to her home in Cincinnati and will return to Washington early in December with her daughter, Paulina.

Valid Reasons May Explain Late Hours of the Modern Girl

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Please tell me something about late hours and the boy friend," pleads Grace, who, incidentally, voices a plea common to numbers of other young girls. And one of a matter of no small confusion in homes at the moment.

To be specific, Grace went to dinner one evening recently. Afterward they went to a business show in which the young man was interested. After the show the young escort volunteered to take the girl up to the tallest building tower for a night view of the big town. It was beautiful. Time slipped by quickly, and certainly in harmless entertainment.

Getting down on the street again the bus home was missed, causing a long delay for the next. To expedite matters, the escort suggested leaving the bus and finishing the last stage in a taxi.

"He is a gentleman," the girl reports. "He did not kiss me or show any signs at all that other boys do." As it was, the girl got home so late mother raised a terrific row, insisting that no decent beau would keep a girl out so long, and forbade the young woman to keep the football game date she had made with that escort.

No ages are betrayed in the recital. But we suppose, with reason, that the young woman is not of "independent" age.

Now, on this matter of late hours, parents must not forget that the current generation is ruled by certain forces not common to their youth. Transportation, for one thing; what other decent young women are permitted to do, for another. In the case of dancing parties, a later beginning hour is in vogue than was the mode "when we were young."

Also, and probably most important of all, should be the belief in the youngster's righteousness, so vitally needed today. Keeping that bond of confidence tightened between the older and the younger generation is vital. And this is not done by disbelieving the girl's story, nor by unjustly attacking the character of her escort. That's the sort of thing that drives girls into rebellious and sometimes regretfully wayward acts.

I'm not upholding late hours for young women. On the other hand, parents must use their heads, too, under the late hour circumstances modern youth may be subjected to. The old 10 o'clock rule some of us ancient ones were brought up on just isn't physically possible today. The idea, then, is to keep in touch with the trend of the young modern crowd and the circumstances governing your child's particular case—and guide her. Don't damn her.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Neglected.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have gone with a boy for two years. Not even a gift or card was sent to me on my birthday. Does he care?

"SWEET SUE."

He may care even though a birthday reminder would have been more assuring. Men have to be trained to remember things like birthdays and anniversaries.

THREE MEALS A DAY

From the Tribune Cook Book

BY MARY MEADE.

Food Talk.

I have often passed up good recipes because I felt the ingredients made the cost of the food prohibitive. Even now that food prices are so low there are certain things that seem a little too expensive to have every day. One of these is whipping cream. Most ice box desserts call for it, and while we all like to make things in the refrigerator trays because they are so festive and relieve us of last minute fuss, the fact remains that whipping-cream cuts into one's budget. Did you know that canned milk can be substituted for whipping cream and that it costs about one-fourth as much?

Any good brand of canned milk will whip. Here is how you do it: Canned milk for whipping is not diluted, and it whips better if it is scalded first. Place unopened can in a sauce pan, cover with water and allow to boil for five minutes. Then it is turned into a refrigerator tray and chilled to at least 50 degrees F. Or the milk may be scalded in the top of a double boiler, over water. Don't bother with the film that will form because it is very soft and will disappear in the whipping.

When the milk is chilled whip it just as you would ordinary whipping cream. Remember that cold is a factor in rapid whipping and if the beater and bowl are cold the process will be shortened appreciably.

Canned milk will not turn to butter no matter how much it is beaten, which is quite a point, I think. Also, if you should happen to forget it and it should freeze in the tray, no harm is done. Take it from the freezing unit and leave it in the refrigerator on a shelf until the ice disappears and it will whip perfectly.

While I'm on the subject of whipping cream, have you tried the new beaters that are like a plunger instead of the old rotary type? These new ones have a tall glass bottom and a metal top that fits tightly over it, into which the plunger is set. You put the cream in, replace the top and beat the cream with an up and down motion of the plunger. Personally, I find this motion much less tiring than the old one.

WHOLE WHEAT CRACKERS WITH HORSERADISH BUTTER.

Make horseradish butter by blending two tablespoons of horseradish with four tablespoons of butter. Spread on whole wheat crackers, it livens up a pot roast.

CRANBERRY MOUSSE.

2½ cups raw cranberries
1 cup canned milk
1¾ cups cold water
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¾ cup orange juice
1¼ cups sugar

Cook the cranberries in the water till they are soft. This should take less than 20 minutes. Press through a ricer, add the sugar and cook 10 minutes longer. Chill. Scald and chill the milk as directed above, whip it till stiff, and add the orange and lemon juice. Continue whipping till very stiff. Add chilled cranberry pulp. Pour into a refrigerator tray and freeze. This recipe serves six.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Chance to Aid Needy Mother.

"My husband deserted me, leaving me with four small children. We were recently put out of our home and I lost everything, including our clothing. Now we are in such need I wonder if you can help us. My children are girls, 5 and 3 years old and nine months. The boy is 2. They all need clothing, and I should like to have a bed for them, too. I will be so grateful for anything you can do for me.

"Mrs. L. O."

To be left with a brood of this size is no enviable fate for any woman. Can you relieve her mind and provide a little comfort for the children by giving the warm clothing they need?

Bright Sayings of the Children

My nephew, age 5, who goes to kindergarten and whose teacher makes him stand in the corner every time he talks or does something he should not do, came home from school the other day and said to his mother, "Mother, I wish they would make schools round, because then there wouldn't be any corners." WHEN YOUR DRAINBOARD IS "A SIGHT" USE CLOROX

STAINED by vegetables or fruit, darkened by water—perhaps even scorched from a hastily set down pan—the drainboard often is a sight!

But Clorox makes even the most time-scarred wooden drainboard immaculate, and tile and porcelain boards spotless. (Badly stained wooden drainboards may require several applications.)

What Clorox does for drainboards it will also do for enameled kitchenware, refrigerators and wooden shelves.

Because Clorox both cleanses and disinfects it provides a standard of cleanliness which every housekeeper appreciates. Directions are given on the label for the many important uses for Clorox in the kitchen, laundry and bathroom.

The choice of a connoisseur

Discover the owner of this watch and you will find her more than a person of property; you will find her a person of culture and discrimination...Discover the user of Pebeco Tooth Paste and you will find the same fine appreciative sense.

For it is a fact that Pebeco gains its users only from the thinking classes—rarely from people using tooth paste for the first time. Those who have had a primary schooling with the superficial type of tooth pastes are graduated to Pebeco. They come to realize that all the meaningless flavors and advertising claims in the world cannot help their teeth—that it is what is in the tooth paste that counts!

Of every tube of Pebeco, 40% is an ingredient (too costly for any other to use) vital in oral hygiene. Instantly its distinctive tang tells you it is really cleaning...thoroughly. Instantly your teeth will not only be clean but will feel clean. Instantly you will enjoy a remarkably cool mouth comfort.

Pebeco is the MOST EXPENSIVE tooth paste in the world to make. But its cost to you is no higher than that of the average dentifrice.

You played "follow the leader" long years ago as a child. But today you do your own thinking. Why not do it in this matter of a personal dentifrice?

WHEN YOU OVER-INDULGE

THERE are times when we all are tempted to take a holiday from the usual prudence.

Where is the person who wants to be discreet in diet every day in the year? It isn't human!

And it isn't necessary!

Your stomach won't be poisoned by every little indiscretion if you will just remember to give it the friendly aid of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It will sweeten the sour system and put things to rights.

Suppose you do overload your stomach with those things that bring on acidity? Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will neutralize many times its volume in acid. Just take two spoonfuls before and after such over-indulgence. It's a very simple way to prevent those miserable mornings which follow too much to eat and drink.

When you over-indulge—eating, drinking, smoking—don't suffer for hours! Nature will restore a proper alkaline balance in time, but Phillips' Milk of Magnesia acts immediately. A creamy, pleasant-tasting emulsion that sweetens the stomach, dispels that sour gas, and relieves the nausea and headache, and feeling of biliousness due to overdoing. (Phillips' mild laxative properties always help the bowels at such times.)

Make sure it's genuine. The signature of Chas. H. Phillips on the wrapper and bottle will tell you it's the real product endorsed by the medical profession. Less perfect preparations do not act the same.

For a Healthy Mouth.

Use Phillips' Milk of Magnesia as a mouthwash every evening before retiring. Use Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior tooth-paste, to keep the teeth clean and white.

The Bride's Boat

By Coralie Stanton and Heath Hosken

SYNOPSIS.

It was Kit Lesoure's twenty-sixth birthday. She'd worked four years as receptionist in a London family hotel and she felt herself in a groove. When an East African guest offers her a post as the Grand Africa hotel, Soydoret, Kenya, she gladly accepts. Theo Sable was there and Kit wanted him more than anything in the world. They'd been in love, but their engagement was broken because of his mother. Kit sails on the "Bride's Boat." Jose North is her cabin mate. Jess is going out to be married. Kit meets Lal Crowhurst, the biggest landowner about Soydoret and a most attractive bachelor. He invites her to lunch.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

THE PROMISE OF UNKNOWN LANDS.

Kit went up to B suite just before half-past one, so afraid of being early as to be almost late. She wore one of her plain tussore frocks, sleeveless, with belt and beret of dark red, a color that suited her extremely well. Following the example of the other women who knew, she had a large white silk scarf, folded cornerwise, around her shoulders and knotted in front, the sort of thing one puts on after playing tennis. It was a protection against the danger of the sun, even when it was not shining, in the devastating atmosphere of the Red sea, and oddly becoming into the bargain. They were having what was called a cool trip. Many hair raising tales were told to Kit, one of the captain having to turn the ship about and steam backwards for a time, to allow the prostrated passengers to breathe.

An Indian servant in snowy native dress stood at the door and bowed her in. She found the guests drinking cocktails in a saloon not really large, but looking so because it was so white and cool, with blocks of ice piled round, growing ferns in each corner.

Crowhurst came forward and made introductions. He looked slenderer in his navy reefer jacket over white flannel trousers. He greeted her with a pleasant casualness.

Mrs. Dunbar, the woman from Soydoret who had been so nice to her from the beginning, was there. The girl had discovered that she was an important person in the township, the wife of the district commissioner. Then there were two Frenchmen, neither very young, who turned out to be distinguished scientific men bound on an expedition in connection with tropical diseases. Also a party of four English, two men and two women, going out on pleasure and after game, it transpired. They had wealth and unassailable position written all over them, shabby, but perfectly groomed, and with charming manners. Finally the captain himself made his appearance, apologizing for being so late, unusually tall for a Frenchman, tanned and clean shaven, with the blue, far seeing eyes that belong to sailors of every race.

They went into the adjoining dining saloon, slightly smaller, cool, and white, too, with the table covered with an old fashioned damask cloth and decked with fresh flowers from the ship's cold chambers.

Kit found herself not far from her host, between one of the Englishmen and one of the French scientists, and opposite a good looking fair young man who joined them in the dining room and was obviously Crowhurst's private secretary.

She was soon enjoying every minute of it. Fortunately, she was able to take part in the bilingual conversation. The Frenchmen spoke English, but none too easily.

The meal was perfect, more definitely French than the menus served to the mixed nationalities in the dining saloon, simple, and suitable to the weather, in spite of luxuries.

Although supervised by a steward, it was served by two Indian servants. And when the coffee came it was brought by an almost coal black Moor in gorgeous embroidered garments.

Such coffee Kit had never tasted. She would have been slightly overpowered if she had not felt so happy, gay, taken out of herself. Everybody was so nice to her. The talk was so animated, so intelligent, so interesting. O, how glad she was she had taken the step and was venturing out into the unknown world!

Of course, the champagne might have had something to do with it, and the exquisitely fragrant cigaret out of a gold box that Crowhurst had leaned across his neighbor to pass to her, with his quizzical smile and a little nod that seemed to say, "I knew you were going to like it!"

She could not help smiling to herself as she thought of that other luncheon that was stamped on her mind—only a month ago, at the Gate House Hotel, when the housekeeper was in a bad temper and it was her birthday and the world seemed so absolutely out of joint. And then she had switched on her wireless and that delightful, persuasive woman's voice had spoken to her—to her out of millions! Know what you want—and go out and get it!

What a difference today! It had been Destiny. Somewhere in Kenya was Theo Sable. She was going to meet him. At this moment of exhilaration she felt certain of it. Her heart throbbed; her eyes glowed. She sank into a momentary trance of happiness. She forgot the people around her.

"Why do they call Mr. Crowhurst the Man in the Moon?" Kit asked Mrs. Dunbar later on in the day.

"Africa is a great place for nicknames," answered that quiet voiced lady of uncertain age with the shapely head of short iron gray hair, the pretty hazel eyes, and the firm closing, humorous mouth of a woman who keeps her own counsel. "For one thing, his estate near Soydoret is called Moon Fields."

"O, he lives near Soydoret?"

"Not often. Since we have been there he only came once, for a day or two, and that was now more than eighteen months ago."

"But don't you know him very well, Mrs. Dunbar? I thought you were old friends."

"Yes, we are that. My husband held a post in Nairobi before he got his present appointment. Lal Crowhurst has a house in the town and another very large estate out Nyeri way, not far from the foot of Mount Kenya."

Kit turned her big, frank blue green eyes full on her companion. They were alone in the ladies' waiting room. There was something she had to get off her chest.

"Mrs. Prince was so silly yesterday, I thought. She was hinting at all sorts of unpleasant things about Mr. Crowhurst. It was she who called him the Man in the Moon. She said he was dangerous. And then Miss North heard some gossip from Dr. Cardew—about his being mixed up in scandals. I mean, it was nothing definite; only people do seem to be so nasty and spiteful. I know you're not like that, Mrs. Dunbar, so I thought I'd ask you straight out."

"You say your friend heard nothing definite, my dear?" asked the older woman, with an enigmatical smile.

"No—Mrs. Prince said nothing definite, either. It makes me angry. It's so mean."

"Well, you will learn not to believe everything you hear in Africa. Lal Crowhurst is unconventional, unmarried, and enormously rich. He comes and goes as he pleases. He has no ties. All that irritates people who have to live ordinary working lives in the colony. Kenya is not quite the rose garden that many people imagine, and our nerves get frayed at times. They talk as much about Lal Crowhurst when he is away as when he is on the spot. There are dozens of stories about him. Possibly some are true. One must judge people for one's self in Kenya."

"But you are his friend, Mrs. Dunbar?"

"I am, my dear. But that does not mean I would recommend him to every woman as a friend. You asked me a straight question. I give you a straight answer. I like you very much."

There was no questioning Mrs. Dunbar's sincerity or loyalty. The firm lips closed and Kit knew that she must be satisfied.

Patience Is a Great Ally of Thoughtful and Wise Parents

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

An observant young person who understands children was looking over my shoulder one day as I was making a sort of survey of my booklet service. I thought she'd have something pertinent—not impertinent—to say, so I waited.

And it came: "Considering how many people seem to think they need advice on obedience and stubbornness, and so on, I think it's surprising that more of them don't seem to think they need help with patience," she said.

And it set me wondering, too, whether parents realize how large a part patience plays in bringing up children. Really, it enters into practically everything you try to accomplish with them.

When the baby is old enough to walk, but not old enough to know danger, patience has to be on constant tap. When he's old enough to feel his oats and be eternally active and "into everything," or when you're trying to establish those habits of elimination, patience has to be your standby. When he's older, and noisy, and hullabaloo and the lusty forgetfulness of washing and manners are the order of the day, patience helps you to hold back your don'ts and refrain from nagging.

It's patience that pulls you through the times when you're nervous and tired and worried without venting it all on the unoffending children.

As this sort of thing is not dealt with in books on child training, or in leaflets, this department has its own specially written booklets called, "Make Patience Your Handmaiden." It will be sent on receipt of stamped self-addressed envelope.

Young Parisiennes Wear Muffs, Tippets

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Little Parisiennes from 12 to 20 are wearing ermine sets with their cloth suits and coats this winter. Ermine in its wintry whiteness, trimmed with black tails, and very romantic, is used to make tiny tippets that hug young throats above buttoned-up wraps. Muffs of ermine are in vogue to go with these tippets, and they are not merely muffs, but contain purses, like the one shown, which has a competent purse hidden under its tail-fringed flap, and which at the same time has a section behind for warming the hands.

Other muffs are smaller and round, like canteloupes. They also have purses. A little toque of ermine, cocked over the left eye, like the one shown, completes the fur accessories that little Parisiennes wear this season.

Evening bags for the young girls of France are also frilly and romantic.

Made to go with this bag are the new short evening gloves, also pictured, which are of white glacé kid, very short one button length, fastened with a big pearl button, and with two Valenciennes lace frills at the top, joined to the glove with lines of pink and blue embroidery.

SQUIBB MILK OF MAGNESIA

PURITY, efficacy, uniformity, reliability—you get all of the four points of quality in Squibb Milk of Magnesia. Made by a special process, it is a smooth, creamy preparation that is decidedly pleasant and refreshing. By the time Squibb Milk of Magnesia is ready for the familiar Squibb label it has been tested and retested to insure that it is as pure and fine as science and skill can make it.

Tastes Better

...Do you know WHICH BAKING POWDER is an actual aid to HEALTH

ALL good baking powders leaven, some better than others. All have ingredients sanctioned by law, and must maintain certain standards in manufacture. But RUMFORD the pure all-phosphate BAKING POWDER has certain definite characteristics which only a pure all-phosphate baking powder can have. One of the most important is that Rumford adds real food value wherever it is used, either in baking or in general cooking.

As all housewife-cooks know, this is very important, especially in the diet of young children.

Funeral Rites Today for Prof. Myers, U. of C.

Funeral services are to be held at 2 p. m. today in the Bryn Mawr community church for Professor Elmer George W. Myers of the University of Chicago. Dr. Myers, who died 67 years old, died Sunday, after a long illness. He retired from the university faculty in 1929, after twenty-eight years of service. He was professor of the teaching of mathematics and astronomy in the school of education. Before coming to the university he was director of the observatory at the University of Illinois. The family home is at 1510 East 56th place.

Knocks Poison Cup from Girl's Hand; Eyes Injured

Miss Margaret Jones, 24 years old, poured poison in a cup last evening and started to drink it in her home at 4621 Hazel avenue. As she was lifting the potion to her lips her roommate, Frances Johnson, entered. She struck the cup from Miss Jones' hand. Some of the poison, which was corrosive, was dashed in the eyes of Miss Jones. Physicians at the Lake View hospital, where she was taken, say that the girl might lose her sight.

1,200 4-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS HERE THIS WEEK

Groups to Take Part in Live Stock Show.

More than 1,200 boys and girls from parts of the country will assemble in Chicago this week for the tenth annual Four-H club congress which opens Friday. The Four-H club members will participate also in the International Live Stock exposition which opens at the Chicago union stockyards on Nov. 28.

In addition to banquets and tours about the city, 214 boys and girls will show more than 250 beef cattle, sheep, and hogs in junior feeding contests. Many of these animals will be sold at auction in competition with the animals of veteran showmen, according to Thomas Pelsie, chairman of the national committee on boys' and girls' club work, and Barney Heide, manager of the international stock show.

20 Teams to Compete.

On Friday 20 Four-H teams will compete for the Thomas Lipton cup trophy in the non-collegiate judging contest. In addition to this trophy, $1,000 will be divided among the ten highest individuals as college scholarships provided by the Chicago association of commerce.

The feeding contests will be judged on Saturday. Hundreds of boys and girls will be entertained all day Saturday at the stock show, where the annual boy and girl health champion contests will be started. In the evening at a banquet at Thomas Wilson & Co.'s in the stockyards the national project winners will be announced.

Breakfast at Armour & Co.

Some of the boys and at Swift & Co. for the rest o nthe following day will be followed by trips through the packing plants, while the girls are entertained at the Chicago Art Institute. On Wednesday the entire group will be at the International Harvester company to watch the making of tractors and twine.

Clubs to Bring Bands.

Two bands are to be brought to the live stock exposition for performances and for participation in separate 4-H club events. They are made up of members from Hamilton county, Iowa, and Sedgwick county, Kansas. Visitors at the show next Monday evening will witness the annual parade of the boys and girls and their leaders during the evening show.

1,200 4-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS HERE THIS WEEK

Delegates to Take Part in Live Stock Show.

More than 1,200 boys and girls from farms of the country will arrive in Chicago this week for the tenth annual Four-H club congress which opens Friday. The Four-H club members participate also in the International Live Stock exposition which opens at the Chicago union stock yards Nov. 28.

In addition to banquets and tours of the city, 214 boys and girls will exhibit more than 250 beef cattle, sheep and hogs in junior feeding contests. Dairy cows and animals will be entered in competition with the adult cattle showmen, according to Guy Cantwell, chairman of the national committee on boys' and girls' club work, and Homer Hields, manager of the International stock show.

20 Teams to Compete.

On Friday 20 Four-H teams will compete for the Thomas Lipton team trophy in the non-collegiate judging contest. In addition to this trophy, $1,000 will be divided among the three highest individuals as college scholarships provided by the Chicago association of commerce.

The feeding contests will be judged on Saturday. Hundreds of boys and girls will be entertained all day Monday at the stock show, where the national boy and girl health championship contests will be started. In the evening at a banquet at Thomas E. Wilson & Co.'s in the stockyards three national project winners will be announced.

Breakfast at Armour & Co. for one of the boys and at Swift & Co.'s is the treat o nthe following day will be followed by trips through the packing plants, while the girls are being entertained at the Chicago Art Institute. On Wednesday the entire group will sit at the International Harvester company to watch the making of tractors and twines.

Clubs to Bring Bands.

Two hustle are to be brought to the live stock exposition for performances and for participation in separate Four H club events. They are made up of members from Hamilton county, Iowa, and Sedgwick county, Kansas. Visitors at the show next Monday evening will witness the annual parade of the boys and girls and their leaders during the evening horse show.

Funeral Rites Today for Prof. Myers, U. of C. Vet

Funeral services are to be held at 1 p.m. today in the Bryn Mawr Community church for Professor Emeritus Elmer W. Myers of the University of Chicago. Dr. Myers, who was 77 years old, died Sunday, after a long illness. He retired from the university faculty in 1929, after twenty-eight years of service. He was professor of the teaching of mathematics and astronomy in the school of education. Before coming to the university he was director of the observatory at the University of Illinois. The family home is at 1510 East 57th place.

Lunch Poison Cup from Girl's Hand; Eyes Injured

Miss Margaret Jones, 24 years old, found poison in a cup last evening and started to drink it in her room at 4311 Basil avenue. As she was lifting the potion to her lips her roommate, Frances Johnson, entered. She struck the cup from Miss Jones' hand. Some of the poison, which was a corrosive, was dashed in the eyes of Miss Jones. Physicians at the Lake View hospital, where she was taken, said that the girl might lose her sight.

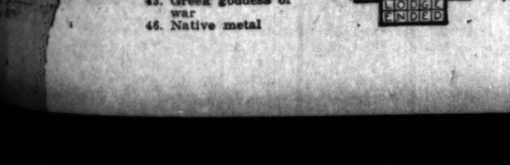
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Street Scene

JURY WILL QUIZ STATE OFFICIAL ON JOBS TODAY

E. Frank Throgmorton of Vienna, fiscal supervisor of the state department of public welfare in Springfield, will appear today before the Kane county grand jury at Geneva in connection with the alleged sale of jobs in state insane asylums, of which he has been accused by two men now held in jail at Elgin.

State's Attorney George D. Carbary said yesterday the Throgmorton would be questioned on charges made against William D. Stone, attendant at the Elgin state hospital, and George Bost, operator of the hospital commissary. Stone and Bost have confessed that they took $25 or $35 each from twenty-three applicants for state hospital jobs in Elgin, Dunning, and Peoria.

The state's attorney plans to obtain indictments this morning charging Bost and Stone with operating a confidence game and obtaining money under false pretenses. They have indicated, it was said, that they will plead guilty when arraigned before Circuit Judge William J. Fulton, and then Carbary intends to take them before the grand jury to testify against others in the alleged job selling conspiracy. Twelve attendants in the hospital who are named in Bost's and Stone's confessions as having paid for their jobs are also subpoenaed to appear today before the grand jury.

Tom Mix Victory Upheld by State Supreme Court

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The Mississippi Supreme court today affirmed the decision of Adams county Chancery court at Natchez, denying Jack T. Miller, owner of the 101 ranch shows of Ponca City, Okla., $50,000 damages against Tom Mix, movie and circus cowboy, on a libel suit. The court held a quoted statement by Mix that Miller had a "nightmare," in saying Mix had signed a contract with him, was not libel.

PHYSICIAN DIES OF TETANUS, LAID TO RIDING HORSE

To his enthusiasm for horseback riding was laid the death yesterday, from tetanus, of Dr. Joseph X. Ryan, 31 years old, 6222 Wentworth avenue.

Dr. Ryan died at Mercy hospital. Dr. Michael McGuire, who attended him, said that the infection apparently entered his body through a boil on his leg, which had been chafed by contact with the saddle. He rode frequently.

Dr. Ryan, who was unmarried, graduated in 1924 from Loyola university medical school. His father, Patrick Ryan, is a retired policeman.

Free Loop Drug Store Owners in Liquor Case

Charles A. Wright and Victor Lawrence, proprietors of the Wright and Lawrence drug stores in the Marshall Field annex and the Garland building, were freed yesterday before United States Commissioner Walker on charges of violation of the prohibition law. Dry agents testified that they had been able to purchase liquor from clerks in both of the stores without presenting prescriptions. The proprietors were released when they satisfied Commissioner Walker that they had no knowledge of the illegal transactions.

Rites for J. P. Arnold, Editor, Pioneer, Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel at 6340 North Clark street for John P. Arnold, former editor of the Siebel Technical Review, who died at his home at 6320 North Hermitage avenue Sunday night. He was 77 years old. Mr. Arnold was a pioneer resident of Chicago. He was well known for his literary activities in the fermentation industries. Surviving him are his widow and two daughters, Miss Ella Arnold and Mrs. Alice Barkemeyer.

Rites Held for Wife of Ex-Alderman Scully

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia Baker Scully, wife of John E. Scully, former alderman, who died Saturday at the Passavant hospital following a long illness, were held yesterday afternoon in the chapel at 810 North Clark street. Burial was in the Lyonsville cemetery. Mrs. Scully was 65 years old. Mrs. Scully was born in Chicago and attended the public schools here. She lived at 647 Junior terrace.

YOUTHS TRAPPED IN DEALING IN STOLEN GOODS

Two youths, who set themselves up in business with stolen goods, faked letterheads, a false telephone number and a real bank account, where held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Brooks of the Boys' court. They are Oscar Kahn, 19 years old, 3111 South Spaulding avenue, and Samuel Ball, 19 years old, 3122 West 19th street.

Kahn was formerly employed by H. A. Brown, 740 West Adams street, manufacturer's representative selling Christmas tree lights. He raided Brown's stock and, with the aid of Ball, it was asserted, hauled away $1,700 worth of lights. The pair sold these to department stores at a heavy discount, pretending that the sales were made by Wolf & Co. of Cicero, their trade name.

A slip by Kahn, who, when asked by a buyer to give his telephone number gave the real one instead of that printed as the fraudulent Wolf concern's, caused an investigation. It was found that the youths had banked one check of $783.

Prof. M. Hurney, Ruggles School Principal, Dies

Martin E. Hurney, principal of the Ruggles school, died yesterday at his home, 7948 Bennett avenue. He had been ill for some time, but was apparently convalescing when he suffered a relapse, Mr. Hurney was 55 years old. He had been connected with the Chicago public schools since 1907, for 18 years at the Philip D. Armour school, and for six years as principal at Ruggles. He is survived by his widow, a son, and two daughters. Funeral services will be held at Our Lady of Peace church at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Burial will be at Mount Olivet cemetery.

Leonora Braham, Famous Actress, Dies at Age of 78

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Leonora Braham, creator of the rôle of Yum-Yum in "The Mikado," and known the world over to stage followers of the past generation, died here today. She was 78 years old. Miss Braham played in the first production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" in 1885. It ran 672 performances. Her first appearance in America was at New York in 1899 as Princess Toto in the comic opera of that name.

Julius Straus, Retired Wholesale Milliner, Dies

Julius Straus, retired wholesale milliner, died yesterday at the Michael Reese hospital after an operation. Mr. Straus was 72 years old and had been living at the Ambassador East hotel. Born in Germany, Mr. Straus came to Chicago when he was a young man. He is survived by his widow, Hannah K., and son, Jesse L.

Maj. R. H. Merrifield of Volunteers Laid to Rest

Funeral services for Maj. R. H. Merrifield, 82 years old, a veteran officer of the Volunteers of America, were held yesterday afternoon at the Central Presbyterian hospital. He was born in England and was active in religious work in that country and in South Africa before coming to the United States.

FAMILY OF FIVE KILLED BY FUMES OF GAS HEATER

Boston, Mass., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—William F. Goodale, junior master at Boston Latin school, his wife, Catherine, and their three children were found dead in their home in Dorchester today, victims of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Mr. Goodale and his wife were found in the bathroom; William, 3 months old, in his crib in a room on the first floor; Ann, 4, in bed in a rear room on the second floor, and Mary, 2, in bed in a front room.

Fumes from a heater in the bathroom are believed to have snuffed out the lives of all five.

Police believe Mrs. Goodale was overcome as she prepared for a bath and then her husband went to her aid and was overcome himself. Medical Examiner Leary said all five probably had perished Friday.

STOP THAT COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Grandmother finds way to grow old gracefully

"I don't try to keep up the pace of the younger generation," says this 65-year-old woman. "I leave that to my grandchildren.

"But just because I lead a quiet life doesn't mean that I'm not perfectly well. I never felt better. Everything about me is normal and functions as it should. I make sure of that by taking Nujol regularly. Nujol keeps me in good condition."

When people become less active, Nujol becomes even more important for good health. For Nujol not only prevents the excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but aids in their removal.

All of us—old and young alike—lead more or less sedentary lives. But Nujol helps make up for this lack of exercise. It keeps the body functioning as Nature intended. Even if you think you're perfectly well, try Nujol. It was perfected by the famous Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York City. Take it for three months and just see if you don't feel better. Nujol can't possibly upset you. It contains absolutely no drugs or medicine. Be sure you get the genuine.

In your Space Buyer's HANDS

HE sits in on no copy conferences. Wields no blue pencil on layout. But he does have a voice in where your ad goes.

And through that voice—according to the reports of ad-readers themselves—he can vary the stopping power of your advertising from 15% to 153%!

For new facts, gathered in a wholly new kind of magazine survey, show that the eye-stopping factor may differ that much or more in various magazines.

Regardless of the illustration!

Regardless of the headline!

The Gallup Tests

These facts came out last July and August. Dr. George Gallup, professor of Advertising and Journalism at Northwestern University, led his investigators into 6 cities at that time. (Official observers from the A.N.A. went along in 3 cities.)

With current copies of the 4 mass weeklies in hand, they approached 15,000 front doors.

Talked to those who answered wherever one or more of the magazines was found.

Leafed through the entire book—page by page—crayon in hand.

And checked down exactly what had been seen—what had been read in each of the 4 mass weeklies.

What They Found

By this simple (though never before attempted) process of measuring reader-interest in magazines by what people remembered seeing, this was discovered:

. . . For every 100 men in a given circulation unit stopped by the average page advertisement in Magazine A, 115 were stopped in Magazine B, 71 in Magazine C, and 132 in LIBERTY.

There's a Reason!

But editorial content as well as advertising was checked in this census. And in expressing themselves on what they read among the editorial pages, readers helped explain differences in the effectiveness of advertising pages. For . . .

A. READER INTEREST was found greatest in those magazines with the greatest proportion of spirited, dramatic, newsy stories and articles.

B. READER INTEREST was found greatest where reading was made easiest—i.e., by make-up which cut down runovers and "continued-on-page-blank" interruptions.

C. And, as might have been expected, READER INTEREST was most intense where the percentage of single-copy, bought-when-wanted circulation was highest, dropping off as the percentage of mail circulation rose.

Add compact, easy-to-handle size to Factors A, B, C, and you have the formula on which LIBERTY has been built into America's best read weekly:

A. 100% post-war-paced editorial content.

B. 100% story-on-consecutive-pages make-up, barring all run-overs.

C. 99% single-copy circulation, bought only when wanted to be read.

D. Compact, easy-to-handle page-size.

Consider Costs

The picture becomes even more interesting when viewed through the dollar sign. For LIBERTY page costs are down 35% in the past 5 years. Putting in your space buyer's hands not only a 153% variation in stopping power of your ads, but a possible 188% variation in the buying power of your advertising dollars!

Want Proof? Just Write!

Many an advertiser, many an agency has invited LIBERTY to present the Gallup Tests in detail through personal group presentation.

For those missed, for those not-yet-reached-but-anxious, the presentation is ready in report form. As a mass advertiser interested in getting all your money should buy, simply write a note on your own letterhead. A copy of the report will come with all speed via a LIBERTY representative. The address . . . LIBERTY, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

What Happened

to the Same Copy when it ran in Four Different Magazines . . . as reported by Dr. Gallup's Reader-Interest Census.

This center spread in full color appeared in Magazine A

This page in full color appeared in Magazine B

This page in full color appeared in LIBERTY

This effective Texaco advertisement appeared in full color in the four mass weeklies last July while the Gallup Reader-Interest census was being made. Once—in Magazine A—it appeared in center-spread position. Elsewhere, it appeared in one full page.

But! Dollar for dollar expended, this Texaco copy stopped more people in LIBERTY than in any other mass weekly. Specifically—

It stopped 23% more men and 37% more women in LIBERTY than in Magazine "B";

ARISTOPHANES FATHER OF U. S. FOOTBALL YELL

But It Took 2,300 Years to Make Hit.

This is the first of a series of articles on college football cheering.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 23.—Organized cheering, as practiced in the United States, especially in the colleges and most vociferously on football occasions, seems to be a development of the European operatic claque.

A. LAWRENCE LOWELL.

The claque, however, was organized as an artificial stimulus to the career of the artiste on whose behalf it created a laudatory uproar, whereas the original intent of organized or merely concerted cheering in sport in this country was not constructive. The intent was to rattle the opposing pitcher in baseball.

An authority on the opera, consulted with the Metropolitan Opera house, reports that a nervous lady making confidence on the eve of an important appearance in Florence, in 1931, obtained tickets for about fifty of her friends who were seeded among the audience. At appropriate moments during the performance they did their duty and a doubtful enterprise became an artistic triumph.

Ancient Hissing Claques.

Subsequently anti-claques were organized in Italy to meet every cheer with a hiss, and these are said to have become a great nuisance. I am not an authority on the state of the opera in Italy, however, and submit this merely as reliable hearsay.

It may be assuming too much to say that the originators of the American cheering system consciously borrowed their principle from the lady in Florence. But certainly the principle was not original with them, for organized cheering was not conducted at sports events as recently as 1877 when intercollegiate sport was just beginning, and A. Lawrence Lowell, the present president of Harvard university, was an undergraduate.

Dr. Lowell confided to a convention of musicians in Boston in 1911 that organized cheering was his idea of the worst means ever invented to show emotion, and added that it was virtually unknown when he was in college. However, it might be added that the occasion for it had not yet become apparent to the students, because intercollegiate football was less than ten years old, and not much expected at the time of his graduation.

Woodrow Wilson, who is said to have been a football coach in the very early days of the game as an intramural sport, did not enter a controversy with the president of Harvard as to the means of absurdity of premeditated cheering, but, in discussing President Lowell's remarks, one of the thoughtful magazines of the day referred in an observation of Dr. Wilson to the effect that five years was time enough to mature a tradition in the American college.

Yale Started Early.

We grow our moss and ivy in forcing beds in this country; wine is aged in fifty days, as against the years required for the same purpose on the other side; thirty minutes is a venerable age for gin, and a little brown egg on an ax becomes a historic trophy in an intercollegiate rivalry well within Dr. Wilson's conservative estimate of five years.

In 1894, seven years after Dr. Lowell received his A. B. at Harvard, the undergraduates at Yale were making the frog chorus from a comedy of Aristophanes as a college yell. Nor am I chanting it yet, and among the old grads who chant it with them nostalgia in the fall is Prof. Wilbur Lyon Phelps, who barked the words, some strange sounds, come down from the years B. C., in its original rendition as a taunt, boast and defi of the foe in 1894.

Without its classical label—if such it can be called—it such known as O-op parabalou had been born just last year by a Yale man—the Yale yell might be dismissed as absurd as the worst of the cheering cries, the childish rig-a-jig-jig and ali-gaddas, invented by the undergraduates of other schools, who apparently felt a need of some sound more or idiotic to express their warlike enthusiasm.

Dr. Phelps Explains It.

Dr. Phelps has explained the howl of Yale's favorite cry. Aristophanes intended to simulate the call of the frogs. The class of '86, in the middle of their sophomore year, were studying the comedy under Prof. Tarbox, with the president of Harvard as the means of absurdity of premeditated cheering, but, in discussing President Lowell's remarks, one of the thoughtful magazines of the day referred in an observation of Dr. Wilson to the effect that five years was time enough to mature a tradition in the American college.

The class of '86, in the middle of their sophomore year, were studying the comedy under Prof. Tarbox, with one of the students, John Corbin, himself a professor at Yale in after years, was so fascinated by the rhythm that he found himself teaching his classmates with it on the campus. It became a class fad during the spring of 1884 the class sang it unanimously in an attempt to make a pitcher opposing the Yale

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicago's reputation as the sports capital of the nation gets a fresh challenge this week.

The football season, which normally would have been concluded with last Saturday's games, lingers another week to give Father Dearborn opportunity to swell the Joint Emergency Relief fund.

Six games in three days! That is the program Chicago will attempt to absorb this week-end. All of them will be played for charity except the annual Bears-Cardinals professional contest Thanksgiving morning.

Four Big Ten elevens—Chicago, Iowa, Illinois, and Indiana—start the ball rolling for the unemployed in an elimination tournament at Stagg field Thursday afternoon that promises to produce three interesting games. The schedule calls for Chicago to play Iowa and Indiana to meet Illinois. The winners then will collide for the day's championship.

Northwestern, one of the country's undefeated teams, battles Purdue at Soldiers' field Saturday afternoon to decide whether it is to keep the Western conference title to itself or share it with Purdue and possibly Michigan and Ohio State. The last three teams have been defeated only once in Big Ten competition and a setback for Northwestern would place all four schools on an even basis.

Receipts from the Northwestern-Purdue game as well as from the Michigan-Wisconsin and Minnesota-Ohio State contests will be distributed among the relief funds of the states within conference territory.

Chicago Cardinals also figure in the week-end charity games. They will play the Cleveland Indians at Wrigley field Saturday afternoon. Profits will be contributed to the Eastern Star lodge.

On Dec. 5 Harrison High school, champion of the Chicago Public School league, will engage Mount Carmel, winner in the Catholic High School league, at Soldiers' field. All proceeds of this encounter will be donated to the Chicago charity fund.

There were at least 750,000 words filed out of the stadium at Notre Dame Saturday describing the 16 to 14 victory of Southern California, but none carried more freight than these:

"Notre Dame had not forgotten how to lose."

It is not an easy matter for a group of high strung young men to see a victory string of twenty-six games stretching over three years snapped in the waning moments of a battle that gave every indication of concluding with a brilliant triumph.

It was the first time any of the players on the Notre Dame side of the line had come out of a college football game on the low end of the score. But to their everlasting credit as sportsmen let it be recorded that there wasn't a squawk. Nobody heard a complaint about the officiating, about rough play or about bad breaks.

They say a fighter is never great until he has to get up off the floor, and it was the late Knute Rockne who is on record to the effect that no football team really reaches great heights until it has been beaten once.

So it may not be out of order to venture the remark that Southern California Saturday defeated the greatest of all Notre Dame football teams.

It is interesting to note that Howard Jones, coach of the Southern California eleven, has been instrumental in checking the two longest victory streaks Notre Dame has enjoyed.

In 1921, after Notre Dame had won twenty straight games, Jones' Iowa eleven, which carried on to win the Big Ten championship, whipped the Irish, 10 to 7. A field goal turned the trick.

And in case you didn't read the Sunday papers, you might be interested to know that it was a field goal from the toe of another player coached by Jones who Saturday ended the Notre Dame victory march after twenty-six games.

Incidentally, four members of the Iowa team that defeated the South Bend boys ten years ago—Thompson and Slater, tackles, and Devine and Shuttleworth, backs—were in the stands to see their old coach repeat.

Knockouts Rule Evening at White City.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Lee Marriner, who has been away from the turmoil of the prize ring for more than two years, came back to the scenes of his former triumphs at White City last night and knocked out Biff Bennett, Fort Sheridan heavyweight, in the third round. A short right to Bennett's chin, a blow from the same fragile right hand which forced Marriner into temporary retirement, finished the lanky 190 pound soldier boy.

As the right, traveling not more than a foot, landed, Bennett went down on his face. There was no doubt that he was finished. The crowd, which numbered 1,508, stood and watched Referee Joe McNamara count out the sprawled soldier. Later Bennett was carried to his corner and revived.

Bennett Down For Nine.

Marriner had floored Bennett for a nine count with a left to the chin in the first round, but he seemed to be protecting his once brittle right through the first two rounds and the third until it came time to finish Bennett. Except for his cautiousness with his right Marriner looked as good as he did a few years back when he gave promise of being one of the best young heavyweights in the country.

An exciting slugging match came out of the 10 round semi-windup, which found Johnny Baima, a graduate of the TRIBUNE Golden Gloves tournaments, the winner over Chuck Heffner, seasoned Denver middleweight.

Peeping out from a badly cut right eye, Baima let fly with a fierce body attack in the fifth round which often doubled up Heffner. He wasn't able to finish the plucky Denver boy but had him in distress all through the late stages.

Hull Pathetic Figure.

A brave old guy is Clyde Hull, once a topnotcher among the welterweights, but game as he was, he was a pathetic figure as he took a beating at the hands of Costas Vassis, the Greek middleweight champion who was making his first fight in America. It was the rugged Greek's battle all the way. He scored two knockdowns but wrestled and clinched so much the crowd was against him.

It looked like the White City patrons were in for a short entertainment early in the evening. Sonny Rickman had knocked out Sandy Sanders in the first round of the first bout and Billy Gladstone knocked over Al Ries, Chicago 137 pounder, for the count of 10 in the second round of the second encounter.

Promoter Mique Malloy was breathing easier when the later bouts began to stretch out over some distance.

PLAN TO MATCH EASTERN CHARITY ELEVENS BY LOT

New York, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Reynolds Benson, Columbia's athletic manager, who is in charge of the charity football round robin at the Yankee stadium Dec. 9, announced today that pairings for the games would not be announced until the teams have taken the field. Columbia, Cornell, Princeton, and Pennsylvania are the competing teams.

The pairings for the first two games will be made by lot, Benson announced. The winners then will clash in the final contest.

Fight Decisions

At New York.—Bob Olin stopped Dan Petrin [6].
Juanito Olaglabel beat Chester Matan [10].
At Newcastle, England.—Al Foreman beat Norman Dale [10].
At New York—Jo y Johnson knocked out Jim Darcy [1].

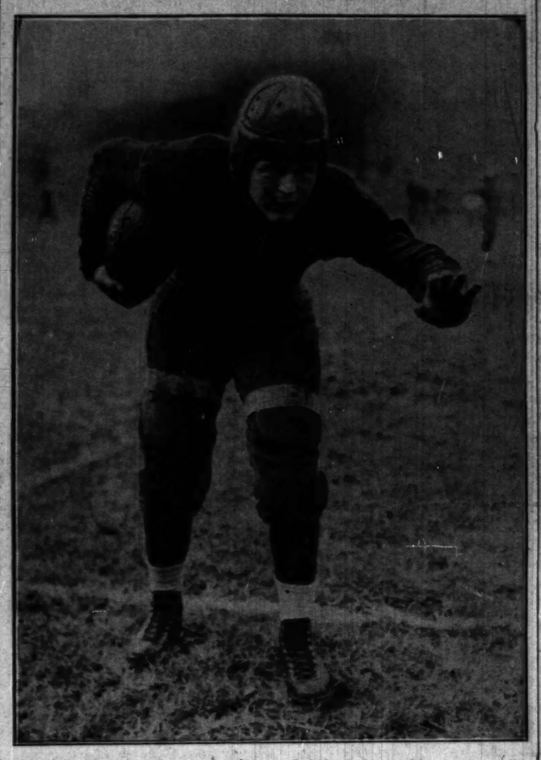
SAHLIN SAILS THROUGH



Puts punch in Maroons. Vinson Sahlin isn't so big, but requires three or four tacklers to bring him down. Sahlin will be at half back in the Thanksgiving tournament opener with Iowa at 1 p. m.

Teams to Gamble for Early Scores in Charity Tourney

Wide open attack will be the order of the day at Stagg field Thursday afternoon when the four tall end Big Ten teams, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, and Chicago, meet in their charity tournament. The teams will probably gamble for scores, and stake everything on offense during the three half games.

In the event that there is no scoring the decision will be awarded on the basis of yards gained. Coach A. A. Stagg, lacking a good forward passer, yesterday dug a few trick plays out of his venerable bag, with which he may lengthen the gains in his running attack.

Maroons Meet Iowa.

Chicago takes the field against Iowa at 1 p. m., and the greatly improved Maroon team hopes to be able to play a double header. The fact that the Maroons are a good first half team offsets an advantage Iowa may have in passing.

Indiana is regarded as the favorite to capture the tournament honors. The Hoosiers meet the Illini at 1:45 for two 15 minute quarters.

Three Cripples Return.

Chicago evidently will be in the best shape of the month for the tourney, since Wallace, Buzzell, and Tolgo, the three cripples, turned up in suits yesterday afternoon and will probably be ready to start. Stagg is fairly well satisfied with his defense, and contented himself with a demonstration of Iowa plays by Maroon freshmen yesterday.

Tickets for the charity tournament, which is without a parallel in conference history, are on sale at Spalding's, Marshall Field's, Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., and the football ticket office at 5625 Ellis avenue, phone Fairfax 4405.

ILLINI LINEUP INTACT

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Coach Zuppke prescribed rest for his Illini today. Practice for the Thanksgiving day charity tournament in Chicago will be concentrated in one light drill tomorrow, and the squad will leave Champaign Wednesday noon.

Zuppke indicated that he probably will use the same lineup against Indiana as he started in the Ohio State game. That eleven consisted of Berry, Evans, Cook, and Snavely in the back field; Hedtke, center; Bodman and Nusspickel, guards; O'Neill and Mariner, tackles; Frink and Schustek, ends.

For Evans and Nusspickel the competition Thursday will conclude three years on the squad. Munch, Root, and Schultz are other veterans playing their final season. Frank Purma, tackle, who is completing his first year with the squad, also is a senior.

Illini Pick Berry to Captain 1932 Football Team

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Gil Berry, University of Illinois half back, tonight was elected captain of the Illini for 1932.

Berry, who made many sensational runs as a sophomore last year, played an improved game all-around this year, but the Illini were not strong enough to give him a chance to shine.

Berry is from Abingdon, Ill.

HOOSIERS UNLIMBER

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Indiana university's entire squad was out on the practice field this afternoon limbering up for the Big Ten charity tournament at Chicago Thursday afternoon.

Practice this week will be spent entirely in general drill, with a little emphasis on stopping Cook and Berry. These boys are a real threat in the Illinois lineup, according to the Hoosier scouts who covered the Ohio State-Illinois football game.

The Crimson will leave for Chicago at noon Wednesday.

HARRISON PLAYS MT. CARMEL FOR CITY TITLE DEC. 5

Soldiers' Field Site of Charity Game.

Harrison Tech, winner of the Chicago Public High School league football championship, will meet Mount Carmel, Catholic league champion, at Soldiers' field on Dec. 5.

The date and site of the contest, which is being played for the Joint Emergency Relief fund, were determined at a meeting of officials of both leagues and the relief fund committee yesterday afternoon.

"The date is satisfactory to us," said A. H. Pritzlaff, secretary of the Chicago Public High School league. "Of course, our teams annually have finished their seasons on Thanksgiving day, but the board of control agreed to have the winner of our league title play for charity."

Last Game in 1928.

The interleague contest will be the first since 1928, when a powerful Tilden team defeated De Paul academy. Mount Carmel played Schurz in a charity game in 1927.

Officials of the relief fund expressed hope that more than 30,000 will attend the game. Students at all Catholic and public schools will be admitted to the game for 50 cents. General admission tickets at the gate will cost $1, while the price of box seats is $1.50.

Tilden Meets St. Louis.

Harrison won the City league championship by defeating Schurz last Saturday at Mills stadium, while Mount Carmel captured the Catholic league title Sunday at Soldiers' field, triumphing over St. Philip, 12 to 7, in a driving rain.

It also was announced yesterday that Tilden Tech, co-champion of the central section of the City league, will meet Roosevelt High school of St. Louis, Mo., in one of the Thanksgiving day games scheduled in Chicago. The contest will be played at White City.

Roosevelt is the champion of the St. Louis Public School league. It defeated Solden, 3 to 2, for the title at St. Louis last Saturday afternoon.

In other city games Thanksgiving day, Jasper academy, Jasper, Ind., will face Loyola academy at Loyola field, and Mooseheart will battle St. Rita at St. Rita field, 63d street and South Oakley avenue.

CRISLER DENIES HE WILL RESIGN AT MINNESOTA

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23.—(AP)—H. O. Crisler, head football coach and athletic director at the University of Minnesota, today denied reports published by several Twin Cities newspapers that he probably would resign after the close of the gridiron season this week.

Crisler said reports that he had been offered a position at Chicago and had been "approached" by Wisconsin were untrue.

The St. Paul Dispatch said Crisler, who came here early last year from the University of Chicago, had disagreed with university officials over athletic policies.

It had been reported on the university campus for some time that Crisler would relinquish his duties as football coach after this season and devote his time to the athletic directorship entirely. Well informed campus circles still expect this to happen.

The Dispatch said Bernie Bierman, now coach at Tulane, would come to the university before spring as athletic director, as well as head coach. Crisler, declining to comment on reports Bierman was to be head coach, said definitely he would continue as athletic director.

Parker Eleven Battles Elgin on Thanksgiving

Elgin, Ill., Nov. 23—[Special.]—Parker High school football team, south section champions in Chicago, and Elgin High school will meet here at 11 o'clock Thanksgiving morning in a charity game.

WILDCATS VS. BOILERMAKERS

DISCUSSION of whether or not Northwestern should be given conference permission to play Southern California on New Year's day is premature if it presupposes a Wildcat victory over the Boilermakers at Soldiers' field Saturday, according to Purdue communications received by this column. With that viewpoint The Wake agrees.

On the basis of the last two games played by Northwestern, the margin is with the eleven from Lafayette. On the season as a whole Northwestern has the advantage, that advantage more pronounced because the Wildcats have not been defeated than because of comparative scores. Certainly the Wildcats must recover from what appears a letdown after the hard early season contests, or the Boilermakers, who will be keyed for their greatest effort, will render null and void that clean slate of the Evanstonians. Here is Northwestern's record:

Oct. 3—Northwestern, 19; Nebraska, 7.
Oct. 10—Northwestern, 0; Notre Dame, 0.
Oct. 17—Northwestern, 19; California [Los Angeles], 0.
Oct. 24—Northwestern, 19; Ohio State, 0.
Oct. 31—Northwestern, 32; Illinois, 6.
Nov. 7—Northwestern, 32; Minnesota, 14.
Nov. 14—Northwestern, 7; Indiana, 6.
Nov. 21—Northwestern, 19; Iowa, 0.

Here is Purdue's record:

Oct. 3—Purdue, 23; Western Reserve, 0.
Purdue, 19; Coe, 0.
Oct. 10—Purdue, 7; Illinois, 0.
Oct. 17—Wisconsin, 21; Purdue, 14.
Oct. 24—Purdue, 13; Carnegie Tech, 6.
Oct. 31—Purdue, 14; Chicago, 6.
Nov. 7—Purdue, 49; Centenary, 6.
Nov. 14—Purdue, 22; Iowa, 0.
Nov. 21—Purdue, 19; Indiana, 0.

Looking at those figures, Purdue was upset by Wisconsin by an early lead, while Northwestern overcame an early lead against Minnesota and was lucky to beat down Indiana's first touchdown. Purple and Purdue recorded almost equal scores against Iowa. Purdue's greater margin against Indiana was offset by Northwestern's greater margin against Illinois. Ohio State and Minnesota were more formidable opponents than Chicago, or than Wisconsin proved to be, except against the Boilermakers.

This "dope" favors Northwestern, but not enough to presuppose victory over Purdue, especially if the Wildcats do not lift from what is regarded as a slump.

Football Retrospect.

In Saturday's football forecast The Wake had 32 winners, 8 losers, and two contests ended in ties. Season to date: 267 winners, 72 losers, 31 ties.

This Wake is Conducted by Help! Help! Harvey T. Woodruff.

Notre Dame in Defeat.

Notre Dame, long accustomed to victories, was game in defeat, more game in acceptance of defeat. From no official source came criticism, even of the close decision called interference on a forward pass, which played an important part in the ultimate result.

There were a few murmurs among undergraduates and alumni, but the tendency was to give full credit to the Trojans for a remarkable and game comeback against seemingly hopeless odds.

There was disappointment, of course, because of the long sequence of victories and the desire to finish Coach Anderson's first season and the first season after Knute Rockne's tragic death without setback. Yet the composite was "It had to come some time, so why not Southern California, which previously had lost three contests by one point?"

Florida Arrives on Coast Today for U. C. L. A. Game

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Thirty-three football players of the University of Florida, accompanied by Coach Charley Bachman, will arrive here tomorrow for their game Thanksgiving day against the University of California at Los Angeles.

Plan Heavy Attack on Boilermakers.

Northwestern, leading the Western conference football race with five straight victories, went to work yesterday for its charity battle with Purdue Saturday at Soldiers' field.

DALLAS MARVIL.

The Wildcats must win to have a clear claim to the Big Ten title, but Coach Dick Hanley refused to drive his men through a hard practice. He dismissed the squad after a lecture and signal practice, and will continue to use the rest cure as the best means of preparing the team for is most important engagement of the year.

The Northwestern athletic department reported a considerable increase in demand for tickets yesterday. The chance that Purdue may beat the Wildcats and precipitate a tie for the Big Ten championship has increased interest among the fans. It was predicted that at least 50,000 will see the game.

Ban on Contact Work.

Several of the Wildcats are nursing minor injuries, which, while not serious enough to keep them from playing, necessitate that they forego contact work of any kind during the coming week. Among those who will get a chance to recuperate are Rentner, Moore, Fencl, and Marvil.

Each team will toss its full bag of tricks into the game from the start Saturday. The Wildcats hope to prove the truth of the old adage that the best defense is a strong offense. Purdue has one of the strongest scoring aggregations in the conference, one which has scored heavily in nearly all of its games to date.

Star Kickers to Meet.

Both teams will have the benefit of strong kicking. Northwestern relying on Ollie Olson, while Purdue will depend on Paul Moss. Moss, who plays end, ranks among the best kickers in the conference this year.

Twelve members of the Wildcat team will terminate their college careers Saturday. They are: Capt. Dal Marvil, Jack Riley, and Paul Engebretsen, tackles; Jimmie Evans and Hi Crisevsky, guards; Reb Russell, full back; Will Lewis, quarter back; Al Moore, Sid Burnstein, Luke Fossier and Jimmie O'Mara, half backs, and Ralph Eylar, end.

PURDUE EYES TITLE SHARE

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Following their 19 to 0 triumph over Indiana, the regular members of Purdue's football squad were given a day of rest here this afternoon before launching preparation for the game with Northwestern at Soldiers' field Saturday that will determine whether the Boilermakers are to have a share of the Big Ten title.

Admitting that Northwestern must be granted the edge, Boilermaker fans point to the brilliant Purdue backfield combinations that have averaged over five yards on running plays this season, and the play of the Purdue line, led by Capt. Miller and Paul Moss, that held Indiana without a first down Saturday during the 45 minutes that they were in the game.

The weight of the Wildcat line provides the main worry for the Purdue fans, for they are firmly convinced that Jim Purvis, Roy Horstmann, Alex Yunevich, Fred Hecker, Paul Pardonner, Ed Risk, and Doxie Moore can more than hold their own with the Wildcat ball carriers.

Purdue fans point to the showing Northwestern and Purdue have made against the three Big Ten foes they have met in common this season—Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana. Northwestern made a much better showing against Illinois, but Purdue counterbalanced this by making a vastly better showing against Indiana. Against Iowa, both teams did about the same amount of damage, Northwestern winning, 19 to 0, while the Boilermakers won, 22 to 0.

FIVE BUCKEYES HURT

Columbus, O., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Ohio State's football team, which will enter the charity game with Minnesota Saturday hoping for a tie for the Big Ten title, will be handicapped physically.

The more seriously injured players are Mickey Vuchinich, full back; Martin Varner and Joe Gailus, guards. Bob Grady, substitute half back, and Howard Rabenstein, end.

MEASURE FEELS LIKE RUNNING, SO WINS AT BOWIE

Daily Racing Form Selections

BOWIE.
1—WEST'S ROSE, Warabout, Kay Francis.
2—Springfield, Donahure, Tulach Ard.
3—Peanuts, Sennell, Selsey.
4—Waterwar, Mouthpiece, Khorasan.
5—Scot Free, Sun Shadow, Kadiak.
6—Polydorus, Pubois, Syriac.
7—Baritone, San Fresto, Bold Hard.

Bowie, Md., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The eccentric Measure, one of the moody daughters of Chicle, ran one of her good races in the Long Green purse today and was a comparatively easy winner over a good field in which she was hardly expected to be a factor. At the end of the mile and seventy yards she was a length and a half before the favorite, Whipper Cracker, which appeared to be coming on to victory in the stretch only to be turned back by Measure's reserve of endurance.

Third went to Dancing Mack. The field was completed by Annimessic, Gigantic, and Mine Sweeper, in the order named. The race was for three year olds and the daughter of Measure from Rinkey was timed in 1:45. Veriyn Smith was in the saddle at 104 pounds. Measure across the board paid $9, $4, and $2.40.

Eddie Steffen was the rider of the winner in the Genteel purse, the secondary feature. He had the leg up on Playfole, which won by two lengths. Steffen had to bring this filly from a position in the middle of the pack, and until the stretch run it did not appear that she could overtake Lady Blue.

READY AT JEFFERSON

New Orleans, La., Nov. 23.—With more than 1,200 horses here, everything is in readiness for the opening of the winter racing season at the Jefferson Park track on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day.

About 700 horses are quartered at Jefferson Park and the other 500 are at the Fair Grounds course. The season at Jefferson Park continues for 51 days, until Jan. 23. Then comes the annual meeting at the Fair Grounds.

The Thanksgiving Day handicap will feature the opening at Jefferson Park. It is at a mile and sixteenth, and Don Leon, a Kentucky 3 year old, has worked so well he may rule as the favorite.

MILLS TO BATTLE MEMPHIS TIGERS NEXT SUNDAY

The Chicago Mills have accepted an invitation for a return game with the Memphis Tigers on Sunday. The Tigers, pro-champions of the south, are undefeated and were untied until the Mills battled them to a scoreless draw at Memphis, Nov. 14.

The Mills will entrain for Memphis Friday night. Twenty players will make the journey, including Tony Lawless, fullback, and Larry Foley, guard, who were offered contracts by manager Early Maxwell of the Tigers after their outstanding play in the Memphis battle.

GERMAN FIGHTER WINS PLACE ON STADIUM CARD

Adolph Heuser, who has accomplished just as much in European prize fight rings as Max Schmeling, and who, like the champion, hails from Germany, has been added to the Chicago stadium's Willie Stribling-Ernie Schaaf card of Dec. 2.

Heuser takes his orders from the same source as Schaaf, from Jack Sharkey and John Buckley. He is a light heavyweight and came to America with papers to prove that he was champion of that class in Europe. Matchmaker Nate Lewis has paired him with Clyde Chastain, from the Stribling camp. The weight is 172 pounds. Just how far these two will be asked to go depends upon how the balance of the Dec. 2 card is arranged.

Heuser's literature makes him a ring tiger of the first water. He has only defeated the 175 pound champions of France, Spain, Lichtenstein, Holland and Denmark, but knocked all of them out. He claims that three out of every four of his opponents have been stretched out for the count.

In a telegram received yesterday from Buckley, Lewis was informed that the Schaaf party will arrive Saturday.

Two Golden Gloves stars, Tony Muscarello and Joe Roman, meet in a half of the double windup of the show at Merry Garden arena, Sheffield and Belmont avenues, Friday night. Muscarello and Roman have met twice before, each winning a decision. Bill Reardon and Phil Pernice fight in the other main event.

"Jack Dempsey, who meets Max Schmeling next September." This is the caption below a photo of the former heavyweight champion on a poster advertising Dempsey's exhibition bouts at Fargo, N. D., Dec. 4. Several of the posters were to be found on prominent spots in the loop yesterday.

BY EDWARD BURNS

Chicago Thanksgiving night will have the opportunity to take the first look at its entry in the American Hockey league—the Shamrocks—as reported to be even more speedy and full of youthful ambition than last year's team. Buffalo will be the opponent.

The better players of last season's outfit have been retained, and talented newcomers have been added and the cast is headed by an old hockey star in the person of Eddie Dye.

Many New Players.

The new Shamrocks include Johnson, veteran forward, who is brother of Ching Johnson of the New York Rangers; Left Wing Presnik, all-American intercollegiate center year, from St. Mary's, Minn.; Osler, defense rookie from Cornell college, Ontario; Center Tip O'Neill and Defense Leo Carbol, on leave from Minneapolis last year; Walter Powell, defense man of the Fredericton St. Francis Xavier club, Montreal, and Paul Armand, left wing from St. Francis Xavier.

Three veterans are grouped in a combination—Brydson and Burns on the wings and Johnson at center. Fadyen and O'Neill, wings, and MacKenzie, center, form another scoring line, all second year men. The latter is known as the line from Calgary, all three hailing from that town in Alberta.

Speed at Defense.

Presnik, left wing; Riley, center, and Wiseman, right wing; are a fast combination, averaging 22 years of age. Presnik, the newcomer, weighs 190 pounds, packs a hard shot and skates fast.

Paired off at defense are Burns and Buswell, and Taylor and Carbol. The first two depend on speed and trickiness to stop opposing rushes, though they will give no ice when bodycheck is in order. Taylor and Osler major in body checking. Taylor weighs 195 pounds.

The Green and White has played three games to date. It beat Buffalo 2 to 1, in a double overtime victory, in the last 10 seconds of play, and 6 to 6. Duluth won from the Shamrocks 3 to 2. They have a chance to even it up with the Hornets tonight and will come home with three games won out of four on their first road trip.

HAWKS IN NEW YORK

The Blackhawks play the Rangers at New York tonight. In six games played at Madison Square Garden this season, two with the Americans and four with the Rangers, one of the latter was a Stanley cup game, the Hawks blanked the New Yorkers four times and made 12 goals to their rivals' 4.

The Rangers lost but one game in the six played to date and top the league with 12 points. Their victories, however, look like a flash in the pan, as the Broadway sextet has vanquished the Canadiens, 4 to 1; Boston, 2 to 1, and Toronto, 5 to 2.

Rochester at Duluth.
Tulsa-Minneapolis at Kansas City.
St. Louis-Fliers at Buffalo.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago Thanksgiving night will have the opportunity to take the first jolt at its entry in the American hockey league—the Shamrocks, now expected to be even more sprightly and full of youthful ambition than last year's team. Buffalo will be the opponent.

The better players of last season's outfit have been retained, several talented newcomers have been added and the cast is headed by an oldtime hockey star in the person of Babe Dye.

Many New Players.

The new Shamrocks include Ade Johnson, veteran forward, who is a brother of Ching Johnson of the New York Rangers; Left Wing Prelesnik, all-American intercollegiate center last year from St. Mary's, Minn.; Eddie Oster, defense rookie from Cornwall college, Ontario; Center Tip O'Neill and Defense Leo Carbol, on loan to Minneapolis last year; Walter Buswell, defense man of the French-Canadian St. Francis Xavier club of Montreal, and Paul Armand, right wing from St. Francis Xavier.

Manager Dye is using three forward lines and two defense.

Speed at Defense.

Prelesnik, left wing; Riley, center; and Wiseman, right wing; are a kid combination, averaging 22 years of age. Prelesnik, the newcomer, weighs 190 pounds, packs a hard shot, and skates fast.

Paired off at defense are Headley and Buswell, and Taylor and Osler. The first two depend on speed and teamwork to stop opposing rushes, although they will give no ice when a bodycheck is in order. Taylor and Osler major in body checking. Osler weighs 195 pounds.

The Green and White has played three games to date. It beat Buffalo, 3 to 1, in a double overtime victory in the last 10 seconds of play, and 5 to 4. Duluth won from the Shamrocks, 2 to 1. They have a chance to even it up with the Hornets tonight and come home with three games won out of four on their first road trip.

HAWKS IN NEW YORK

The Blackhawks play the Rangers at New York tonight. In six games played at Madison Square Garden last season, two with the Americans and four with the Rangers, one of which was a Stanley cup game, the Hawks trimmed the New Yorkers four times and made 13 goals to their eastern rivals' 4.

The Rangers lost but one game of six played to date and top the league with 12 points. Their victories don't look like a flash in the pan, for the Broadway sextet has vanquished Canadiens, 4 to 1; Boston, 2 to 1, and Toronto, 5 to 2.

After tonight's game the Hawks go to Boston for a battle with the Bruins on Thanksgiving night.

Women Open Field Hockey Title Tourney

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

The opening of the Women's National field hockey tournament at the New Trier athletic field tomorrow will see some of the finest women players of the country in action. The meet, which will continue throughout Saturday, will be concluded with the selection of the 1931 All-American team, which will play the premier women's team from Scotland, Saturday afternoon.

It is the first time in four years that the meet has been held in this section. The sectional winners of the midwest, southeast and northeast will compete, as well as two high school teams, and organizations from Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, St. Louis, Madison, Wis.; Chicago, and Winnetka. The team from Scotland will play each sectional winner.

Organized in 1920.

The United States Field Hockey association was organized in 1920, to promote the playing of field hockey by women. Only organizations of amateurs are eligible for membership. The association comprises 12 local associations, 76 active clubs, and 266 allied high schools and colleges.

Local associations must have at least three active clubs, each playing a minimum of four games a season. There is no age limit in hockey, and, while the sport is based on the same fundamentals as ice hockey, it is by no means as dangerous, but is fast and interesting.

Colleges Have Good Teams.

Purdue, Smith and Vassar students are loyal exponents of field hockey, and have strong teams. The Scottish team, in its tour of the country, met the organizations from these schools and lost only one game. Hockey, in the British isles, is played ten months of the year, and the invaders this year show the advantage of long practice in superior play. The team is made up of girls who have played together for several years while the all-American team will be selected from the best players at the tourney, who never have competed together. The schedule:

TOMORROW.
1 p. m.—Northeast vs. Southeast.
2:30—Midwest vs. Scottish team.

THURSDAY.
10 a. m.—Midwest vs. Northeast.
11:30—Southeast vs. Scottish team.

FRIDAY.
1 p. m.—Midwest vs. Southeast.
2:30—Northeast vs. Scottish team.

SATURDAY.
1 p. m.—All high school games.
2:30—All-American team vs. Scottish team.

DROP PLANS FOR MICHIGAN STATE, MARQUETTE TILT

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 23.—(AP)—There will be no charity football game between Marquette university and Michigan State, it was announced this afternoon by Con Jennings, athletic director of Marquette.

Jennings explained that Dec. 5 would have been the earliest date on which Marquette could meet Michigan State and that would be so late he was afraid cold weather would prevent the game from being a financial success.

The game had been proposed by the welfare committee of Governor Wilbur M. Brucker of Michigan. It would have been played in Milwaukee.

Pernice Battles Higgins on Odd Fellows Card

Phil Pernice will meet Gene Higgins in one of the eight bouts which will be held in the boxing show arranged by the Odd Fellows' service bureau of Cook county at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium, Van Buren street and Ashland boulevard, on Dec. 16.

NAME CHICAGOAN CAGE COACH AT MILWAUKEE HIGH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 23.—Francis McElligott of Chicago, a former basketball and football star at Marquette university, tonight was appointed basketball coach at Pio Nono High school here. McElligott will continue his studies at Marquette. He succeeds Erv Wendt at the St. Francis school.

Thompson Meets Angus in 24th Ward Headliner

Lynn Thompson and George Angus, amateur bantamweights of the west side, will meet in the feature bout at the 24th Ward club arena, 3242 West Roosevelt road, Friday night. Matchmaker Harry Weiss also has secured Hank Kastman to fight Leo Raneri in the lightweight division.

Tony Shane meets Sammy Mink and Harry Kominsky will face Smitty Chapman. Four other bouts will complete the card. The proceeds will go to charity.

FREY FACES OPERATION.

Sonnenberg, Zbyszko Meet on Mat Tonight

Another troupe of wrestlers, this one headed by Gus Sonnenberg of the noted flying tackle, and including numerous Chicago grapplers will put on a show at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

Sonnenberg, who once held the heavyweight championship, will meet Karol Zbyszko the youngest of the famous family in the headliner. Karl Pojello of Chicago makes his first start in some time when he clashes with Joe Malcewicz in the semi-windup.

The state athletic commission, having heard stories of how Sonnenberg injured his foes with his tackle, has informed the former champion that he will be tossed out of the ring, figuratively speaking, if he violates the rules. He was handed a book of rules the other day and told to study it. Gus called on the commission to find out if it was true that his favorite grip would be barred. He was told to go ahead and use it, but to keep within the code. It was the "tackle" that floored Ed Lewis seven times and finally knocked him out.

Gus Sonnenberg vs. Karol Zbyszko, two out of three falls.

Joe Malcewicz vs. Karl Pojello, 45-minute limit.

Nick Lutze vs. Count Zarynoff, 30-minute limit.

Fred Meyers vs. Jack Sherry, 30-minute limit.

KRONE COMPLETES CARD

Completion of Friday night's heavyweight wrestling show at the Fronton arena was announced last night by Promoter Doc Krone. He closed for the sixth and final match by signing Gino Garibaldi and Milo Steinborn for one of the supporting bouts to the Kola Kwariani-Rudy Dusek main event. Gino, an Italian, and Milo, a German, are almost equally matched in height and weight.

Jim McMillen appears in the semi-windup against Lou Plummer, former Notre Dame athlete. Jim starred in football and wrestling at Illinois a few years ago. Earl McCready, who meets Wee Willie Davis of Philadelphia, was an athletic hero at Oklahoma A. and M., for which school he won two national intercollegiate wrestling titles.

Old Bill, Navy's Mascot, Becomes Father of Twins

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Old Bill, the Naval academy goat mascot, is a father.

Two kids were born to his mate today—Josette and Nanette are the names.

Old Bill was a bachelor for years but recently took to himself a wife. The offspring were named by Capt. Roland W. Schumann, an academy officer.

Old Bill always is on the sidelines when the Navy football team is in action. At Columbus, O., supporters of Ohio State captured him and daubed a stripe of red paint on his fleecy white back. A trip to the cleaners followed.

The next week on the eve of the Notre Dame game someone painted him green.

Finland to Send Two Men to Olympic Winter Games

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Finland's skating union today decided to send two representatives to the winter Olympic games at Lake Placid, New York, next February. The Finnish representatives will be Thunberg and Bloomquist.

LOS ANGELES TO GREET TROJANS WITH HOLIDAY

City Plans Honors for Notre Dame Conquerors.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 23.—By order of Mayor John C. Porter, the Los Angeles city council and Chamber of Commerce today, a holiday was decreed for Wednesday in honor of the Southern California football team, returning victorious over Notre Dame last Saturday, 16 to 14.

The mayor issued a call to the citizenry to commend fittingly the eleven which was able to down Notre Dame and it was announced that Gov. Rolph probably would be here from Sacramento to greet the team's homecoming unless cares of state prevent.

To Vacate the Streets.

The city council voted to vacate the streets and give formal recognition to the victory parade which will engulf Johnny Baker, Gaius Shaver and the other athletes at the depot at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and will convey them over downtown streets to the city hall for a brief program.

The Chamber of Commerce voted to hold a victory luncheon for the boys at noon Wednesday.

Another public appearance already is booked tentatively for the players and coach at Philharmonic theater down town next Monday night, when motion pictures of the entire game are to be shown.

There's Another Baker.

It will interest the midwest to know that Johnny Baker, the guard who kicked the winning field goal, has a younger and taller brother, Kenny, coming along to keep the name represented on the Trojan first team next year. Kenny plays guard, as Johnny does, and was one of this year's freshman stars. Ken weighs almost as much as Johnny and is just as fast. Tip to Hunk Anderson: Remember the name Baker.

DEMPSEY MAKES FAST FINISH TO BEAT BABE HUNT

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 23.—(AP)—After a slow start, Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, wound up a four round exhibition bout tonight with Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., in whirlwind style to gain a newspaper decision. Dempsey weighed 193; Hunt, 197.

CARDINALS MEET BEARS IN 23D ANNUAL BATTLE

Win Over Packers Encourages Red Team.

When the Cardinals and Bears clash at Wrigley field Thanksgiving day morning at 11 o'clock it will be the twenty-third meeting of the National Professional Football league rivals and their twelfth turkey day contest.

The Bears have won a dozen times in this, the oldest rivalry in professional football, to six for the Cardinals, while four battles resulted in scoreless ties. The standing for the holiday games is 5 to 3 in favor of the Bears, with three scoreless ties.

The last four games went to the Bears, but with the Cardinals showing a great reversal in form in their last four league contests, including a 21 to 14 victory over the Green Bay Packers, the only loss suffered this season by the champs, the game Thursday is rated a tossup.

Bears Won in October.

The Cards point to their great going against strong teams since the defeat by the Bears, 26 to 12, on Oct. 11, while the Jones coached team is confident that what was done once already this season can be repeated, especially with the acquisition of Herb Joesting, one of the greatest of line smashers, and with fair prospects that Bronko Nagurski, who left the hospital yesterday, may be able to play. Joe Lintzenich also is expected to resume his place at half back.

With Bronko on the sidelines, it might be a different situation, but regardless of this, when the Cardinals and Bears meet, it usually is a real battle. The Redbirds emerged from their victory over Portsmouth in excellent trim, as did the Bears in their easy defeat of Brooklyn.

Hank McNally, Cardinal center, who has been attracting much attention with his work, hopes to continue his pace but will get plenty of opposition from Bert Pearson and George Trafton, who haven't been outplayed to any great extent by any center this season.

The Bears' line received plenty of attention from Coach Jones yesterday in practice, for it faces the proposition of stopping the apparently unstoppable Ernie Nevers, playing-coach and outstanding star of the league, whose work this season has been one of the sensations of the circuit. Nevers will renew the feud with Nagurski and Joesting, who heretofore have matched the big blond in line plunging.

Cards in Charity Game.

Both clubs face a hard week, but Thursday's game is the one they want most to win. The Cardinals meet the Cleveland Indians at Wrigley field Saturday afternoon in a charity contest which is sponsored by the Order of the Eastern Star. The game will count in the National league standings.

Next Sunday the Bears will invade Portsmouth for a return game with the Spartans. The following Sunday the Bears will meet the Green Bay Packers at Wrigley field.

Reno Mayor's Hunting Bid Ends in 75 Dead Decoys

Reno, Nev., Nov. 23.—(AP)—E. E. Roberts, Reno's usually liberal mayor, was up in arms today.

Yesterday the mayor invited two alleged sportsmen to shoot on his private pond in Spanish Springs valley, twelve miles from Reno. They did, and within half an hour after sunrise had killed seventy-five of the mayor's live decoys.

The mayor sought to have the two men arrested today, but was informed by a game warden that because the ducks and geese were tame ones the men could not be prosecuted for killing more than the legal limit of wild fowl.

Civilization and Its Perils Drive Salmon Northward

BY BOB BECKER.

Middle western fishermen who have watched the disappearance of their favorite game fish from lakes and streams during the last few decades can find a graphic parallel of this situation in the east when the story of the Atlantic salmon is unfolded.

This great game fish once was common in the St. Lawrence and its tributaries, and in many rivers of the eastern United States, but they have had to give way to the disturbances which civilization creates in our streams—weirs, dams and pollution.

Going back to the early studies of the migrations of the salmon we find that in 1836 this fish ascended the St. Lawrence river and its tributaries as high as Lake Ontario, its progress farther up being barred by the falls of Niagara. John Richardson, of England wrote in that year that although the salmon came as far as the Niagara they never entered that stream, probably because of the lack of gravel beds on which to spawn.

Inhabited Hudson in 1609.

He also commented on the great abundance of salmon in the rivers of Labrador, Newfoundland and Nova Scotia in Canada, the New England states, and the waters of New York which emptied into the St. Lawrence. Though this English student of American fishes war writing nearly 100 years ago, he went back to the time of Hudson, who, sailing up the New York river which now bears his name, commented on the fact that in 1609 the Hudson had "great stores of salmon." But by 1836 the salmon had been forced from the Hudson, although at that time the fish still were making their way up the St. Lawrence and were being caught in Lake Ontario.

Just a casual glance at the history of the American salmon shows that when civilization comes and factories, towns, power plants, dams, and pollution change a stream, the salmon has to find a new home. The United States bureau of fisheries stresses this fact in its studies of the disappearance of salmon from dozens of large and small rivers in northeastern North America.

Center in Canada.

Today its present centers of abundance are in the Canadian provinces bordering the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The St. Lawrence river, the Hudson, the Kennebec, East Machias, Machias, Sheepscot, Merrimac, and others have seen the great schools of fish dwindle year after year as the streams were changed by the march of civilization. In some cases it was dams which kept the fish from reaching their spawning grounds. In others pollution from mills made the water unfit for salmon to live.

It is apparent that the Atlantic salmon is a particular fish in its demand for a habitat. It must have gravel beds in the headwaters of a stream and it requires full run of the stream in order to reach them.

IRISH PLAN TO START A NEW VICTORY MARCH

Notre Dame, Ind.—[Special.]—Notre Dame football players who participated in Saturday's 16 to 14 defeat at the hands of Southern California, were excused from practice today, but most of the second and third team players were in uniform. Notre Dame plays Army at New York Saturday.

Practically all of those who played any length of time against the Trojans reported to the training room today for sun lamp treatments of bumps and bruises, and for first aid to cuts and scratches.

The campus is confident that the team will bounce right back at Army and be tougher than ever to beat Saturday. Tradition says that a Notre Dame team is more powerful the week after it has taken a defeat than at any other time.

SCHROEDER TO TEST SKATES ON ILLINI RINK

Eddie Schroeder, one of the Chicago skaters on the United States team in the Olympic speed skating events at Lake Placid, N. Y., in 1932, will have his first ice workout today at the new University of Illinois rink at Champaign, Ill.

Schroeder is one of a team selected from the best in the country last season. A joint meeting of these stars is scheduled for Dec. 1, at Lake Placid, for their first outdoor practice.

Schroeder won THE TRIBUNE silver skates last winter against the largest field of skaters ever to compete in an ice skating event.

O'Niel Farrell, Eddie Murphy, Kucera, Walter Mitchell and Al Minster, the other skaters who are Chicago's Olympic team members, had a light workout on the Chicago Stadium rink yesterday.

varsity and the whole attendance took it up:

"Brekeke'ex, ko-ax, ko-ax.
"Brekekekex, ko-ax, ko-ax.
"O-op, o-op, parabalou.
"Yale, Yale, Yale."

There had been some primitive organized cheering before that time, largely consisting of rah-rah-rah, derived from hoorah, descended from hurrah, the son of huzzah, which the encyclopedia traces back to the sailors' word heeze, meaning to hoist, with the remark that this word heeze probably was used as a cry for unison, in hoisting and hauling like the later yo-heave and heave-ho.

Yale Takes Responsibility.

Some of the Yales, already, in 1884, regarding rah-rah-rah as a traditional Yale cry, protested against the adoption of the frog chorus, but sentiment did not support them, and Yale had taken on a terrible responsibility.

There is no evidence that any school had used gibberish in a yell before this time and the baby talk, the maniac sounds, which have been invented and even set down in a solemn textbook for cheer leaders, probably represent attempts to imitate Yale without resort to actual plagiarism.

Harvard at that time, so soon after the graduation of A. Lawrence Lowell, had pretty well decided upon the rah-rah-rahs which still constitute the regular Harvard cheer, an undistinguished yell with no indigenous quality.

Notwithstanding its high intellectual sanction, the aristophanic gibberish, on direct comparison, seems no less absurd than some of the native American imitations, the least worst of which are like to curl the hair with sympathetic shame and mortification when yelled by groups of college men and women supposed to represent the most successful experiment in the improvement of the human race.

Such phrases as bee-bibby-ba-ba, allpadada, and een-dicka, teen-dicka, feendicka-fa are yelled unblushingly on Saturday afternoon in fall to inspire football teams whose members can hardly be congratulated on the fact that they do find such cries to be inspiring, if they do.

Chance to Tie for Top Spurs Michigan Team

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The possibility of a Purdue victory over Northwestern Saturday gives Michigan a fighting chance to end the season in tie for the conference championship if it can beat Wisconsin this week-end.

"If Michigan players felt any disappointment in not being able to meet Northwestern in the final game, that disappointment is all in the background now," Coach Harry Kipke said today. "My men are just as full of enthusiasm as they were in mid-season, and Wisconsin will face a fighting Michigan team."

Wisconsin defeated Michigan in 1928, 7 to 0, in the last game the schools played.

Kipke decreed a holiday for the players today and allowed them to participate in a touch football game. At the close of the touch game, Kipke divided his squad into three teams and ordered them to run through signals, after which they returned to the showers. The first string eleven lined up with Williamson and Petoskey, ends; Wistert and Goldsmith, tackles; Lajeunesse and Hozer, guards; Morrison, center; Newman, quarter; Everhardus and Fay, halves, and Hewitt, full back.

Harry Tillotson, business manager of the athletic association, predicted a crowd of 25,000 at the Wisconsin game.

MINNESOTA END OUT

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Minnesota will have to play its charity game against Ohio State next Saturday without the services of Brad Robinson, its star end. He suffered an attack of appendicitis after the Michigan game and spent Sunday in a Chicago hospital.

Robinson returned to Minneapolis today, but was taken to the student health service for observation. He thinks he can play in the final game, but Coach Crisler and everyone else feel different about it.

The Gopher regulars took the day off after listening to a short chalk talk. Because it rained all afternoon, the reserves merely limbered up in the field house.

The ticket sale passed 20,000 today.

Billy Herman's Name Attached to Bouncing Checks

Rubber checks purported to be issued by Billy Herman, the Cubs' youthful second baseman purchased from Louisville last summer, are bouncing around the south and west sides. The checks have been presented in payment of goods, and merchants holding them made inquiry of the Cub office yesterday as to whether the athlete was in the city.

President William Veeck located Herman at his home in New Albany, Ind. He has been there since the city series. It is thought that the Herman checks are being put in circulation by the same party who has used the name of Bill Hallahan, the Cardinals' pitcher, in deals with north side storekeepers.

IOWA JINX IS WORKING

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—University of Iowa's football squad today began preparation for the conference charity tournament in which the Hawkeyes meet Chicago in the first 30 minute game Thursday.

Because of a driving all day rain, and the battered condition of his squad after the Northwestern game, Coach Burt Ingwersen ordered only kicking and signal practice.

Nelson Tompkins, regular guard, was sent to a hospital today with influenza and probably will not be able to play in the Thanksgiving affair. Alexander Rogers, who replaced Foster in the first string lineup last week, was out with an infection in his leg. It was hoped that Foster, who was out last week with pleurisy, will be in condition this week.

The Hawkeyes will leave Tuesday night.

South Section Picks Catholic Ring Winners

Another stride was taken last night in the Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament at De La Salle gymnasium when the south district sent eight boxers into the semi-finals and finals the night of Dec. 4 at the Chicago Stadium.

While 32 boys battled for the honor of representing their district in the climax of the tournament, a crowd of 1,500 applauded their efforts.

Leo Rodak, international 112 pound champion, fighting in the 118 pound division and representing SS. Peter-Paul, was one of the sensations of the night. He scored a two round knockout over R. Messmer and then won the title when Tom Wiggins, St. Elizabeth, defaulted. Results:

118 POUND—Leo Rodak, SS. Peter-Paul, won over Tom Wiggins, St. Elizabeth [default].
126 POUND—F. Para, St. Rose of Lima, knocked out Edwin Maury, St. Elizabeth [2].
135 POUND—Eddie Stieral, St. Rose of Lima, defeated Leroy Haynes, St. Elizabeth [3].
147 POUND—Joseph Serlotic, Our Lady of Hungary, defeated R. McCue, Visitation [4].
160 POUND—Max Marek, St. Rita, stopped J. Vasilenko, Visitation [2].

Benny Leonard Scores Easy Comeback Victory

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 22—(AP)—Benny Leonard, seeking to come back as a welterweight in the ring he graced for seven years as the lightweight champion, scored an easy decision over Buster Brown of Baltimore tonight.

Bob Olin Stops Petrin in Sixth Round at New York

French Team Gets $11,700 to Start Olympic Training

PARIS, France, Nov. 23.—(AP)—To enable the national sports committee to start work training the French Olympic team, the under secretary for physical education today paid over to the committee an advance of 300,000 francs [about $11,700] on the appropriation voted by parliament.

On Friday the finance committee of the chamber of deputies cut the Olympic appropriation from $1,220,000 to $600,000.

Back to Man Style
Current styles for men just naturally draw into the picture the Robt. Burns Panatela. Men in this day show much sturdier tastes, and their renewed liking for the cigar is evidence of it.
But young men, watchful of style, turn to long, graceful Robt. Burns Panatelas as the cigar that possesses style—that distinctive appeal to eye. They are equally caught by the surprising mildness of its clear Havana filler.
A chap out of fashion in a sense is out of the world. The Robt. Burns puts him in the world of men with MAN STYLE in smoking.

RAILWAYS MAY TAKE STEPS TO LOWER WAGES

Eastern Presidents Meet Tomorrow.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Whether or not the railroad labor unions will voluntarily accept wage reductions is expected to be decided in Chicago on Dec. 8. On that date the 1,500 general chairmen representing unions on railroads in all parts of the country will meet and discuss the railroads' proposal for wage reductions of approximately 10 per cent.

In connection with the call for the Chicago meeting it was pointed out yesterday that seldom, if ever, had such a large number of union representatives been assembled and that this indicated an important decision may be reached. But what action the meeting may take must await its outcome. The meetings between railroad executives and union leaders in New York last week witnessed the rejection of a suggested wage cut by the labor men.

May Not Await Outcome.

Whether the railroad executives will await the outcome of the union conferences also is in doubt. There were predictions yesterday that the carriers within the next fortnight would take initial steps to bring about a wage reduction. Daniel Willard, chairman of the committee of nine railroad presidents who asked the union heads to accept a voluntary reduction of 10 per cent at the New York conference, will report on the results of the meeting at a special meeting of the eastern presidents' conference tomorrow. No action will be taken by other members of the committee representing the western and southern railroads.

It was predicted yesterday in some quarters that the railroads will hold only regional conferences to draft formal notices of wage reductions to be served on representatives of the employes of individual lines. This would be the initial step prescribed by law and the subsequent steps of mediation, arbitration, and fact finding and final decision by the interstate commerce commission would follow.

Hope to Avoid Delay.

It was disclosed in letters exchanged by Mr. Willard and D. B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, that the railroads desire a 10 per cent wage reduction to be made along the lines provided by the labor provisions of the transportation act. The railroad executives hoped, however, to avoid months of delay and protracted hearings by asking the unions to accept a reduction voluntarily.

One of the prime reasons for railroad executives to seek to reduce expenses by lower wage scales is their present precarious situation as to earnings. A number of railroads have been forced to cut or eliminate dividends and still face the specter of failing to meet interest charges. Bonds of a number of carriers, including lines of the Baltimore and Ohio, Boston and Maine, Erie, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, St. Louis and San Francisco, St. Louis Southwestern, and Denver and Rio Grande declined to new low levels yesterday.

Affect Investments.

The low earnings of the railroads have seriously affected investments of insurance companies and savings banks, totaling several billions of dollars. The present laws of New York state provide that bonds eligible for such investment must be covered by earnings at least one and one-half times interest charges.

Because of this legal limitation banks, insurance companies, and other investing corporations recently have been heavy sellers of railroad bonds, with many of them switching from railroad securities into public utility bonds and United States government short term issues.

Industry of Illinois Raps Job Insurance

BY SCRUTATOR.

After having made a careful study of the subject, both in the United States and abroad, the Illinois Manufacturers' association announces that it is "unqualifiedly opposed to every form of public or compulsory unemployment insurance."

That is the gist of the verbal statement made in Washington by James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the association, to members of the senate committee considering unemployment insurance.

Insurance presupposes an insurable risk. Unemployment, says Mr. Donnelly, has no accurate statistical background.

"A plan to compensate those exposed to the dangers of unemployment in these widely diversified conditions of economics and human abilities has no actuarial reality," he told the senate group. "The money allotments made must be classed as doles."

Killing Beneficent Goose.

He conveyed to them the opinion of the Illinois Manufacturers' association that public or compulsory unemployment insurance would do in the United States what it has already done in European countries—kill the goose that lays the golden eggs.

"It would increase unemployment," he said, "by aggravating the very conditions which it would attempt to correct—by crippling the agencies which furnish opportunities for employment, by discouraging efforts to relieve unemployment and by placing a premium on idleness."

The association estimates that the number of persons which would eventually be covered by compulsory unemployment insurance in the United States would be 20,000,000.

The English act includes 12,000,000 and the German act 17,000,000 industrial workers. On the basis of German experience the estimated cost annually in the United States would be $300,000,000 and on the basis of the English experience it would be $540,000,000.

Tax on Industry.

A very large proportion of any additional taxation resulting from unemployment insurance would have to be borne by industry.

Can industry afford to pay the amount that compulsory unemployment insurance would cost it, in direct contributions and indirectly through higher taxes, without impairing its ability to provide employment for workers?

The Illinois Manufacturers' association says that it cannot.

Mr. Donnelly at the senate committee hearing expressed the opinion that the popular idea of industry's ability to pay was due to the tendency to regard the success enjoyed by certain of the larger corporations as symbolizing the experiences of industry in general.

He presented figures showing that 85 per cent of the companies in the United States employ less than 100 persons, and that the latest available figures indicated that establishments employing more than 100 wage earners represented only 6.3 per cent of the total wage earners.

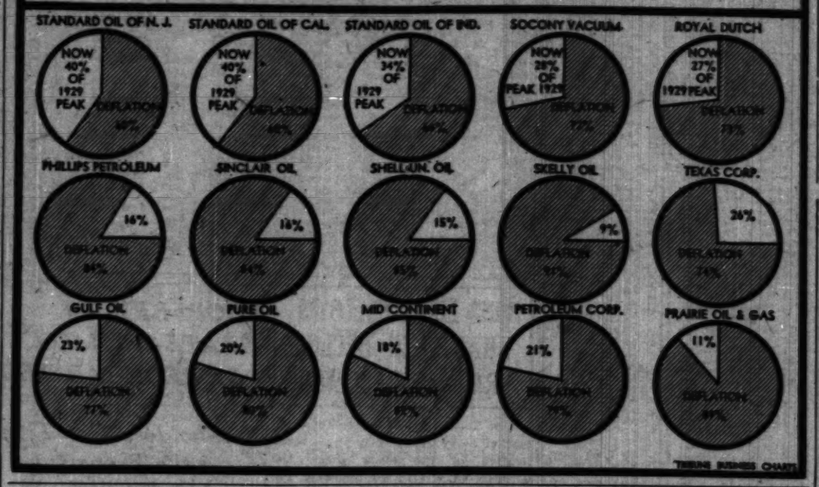
Income of Firms.

He recalled that of the 495,892 corporations filing income tax returns last year only 268,783, or 54 per cent, showed some net income and that of these 236,564 corporations, or 88 per cent, made less than $25,000.

As a result of its study of this subject the Illinois Manufacturers' association concludes that adoption by the government of compulsory insurance would only impose extensive hardships on all concerned and retard the eventual solution of the problem on an economically sound basis by private initiative.

It points out that many American industries are experimenting with voluntary unemployment insurance, recognizing that stabilization of employment means better workmanship, increased production, lowering of costs, maintenance of a better spirit of coöperation and increased profits.

HOW MUCH DEFLATION IN THE LEADING OIL STOCKS SINCE THE BOOM



POUND STERLING OFF SHARPLY; DOLLAR SOARS

Attribute Break to Importers' Demand.

New York, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The British pound sterling broke sharply today as the price of the dollar went up by leaps and bounds. The pound with cable rate closed at $3.65¼. The slump was 7¼ cents under Saturday's close.

The break in English currency was largely attributed to the heavy demand for dollars by importers who wish to move their goods before the new British tariffs take effect. The pound opened in New York 6½ cents under the previous close and showed virtually no tendency to rally.

Coincident with the sterling break, the French franc temporarily exhibited an upward inclination, but the trend was soon reversed and the close was soft at 5.91 cents for the demand rate. Other European currencies registered weakness, many apparently in sympathy with the pound. Scandinavian exchanges fell on an average of from 6-10 to 7-10 of a cent on the reported decision of the Swedish riksbank to abandon its attempt to peg the kroner.

Bar Silver Drops.

Bar silver, which recently has been a shining light to brokers on the New York Metal exchange as well as in the trading centers of London, Bombay, and Shanghai, today exhibited a further waning brilliance when the spot metal dropped ⅝ of a cent to 29¾ cents an ounce.

This is a new low for the several weeks in which exuberant traders rode the metal up to a high for the year of 37¼ cents an ounce on Nov. 10. The low of 25¾ cents was reached on Feb. 16. The futures market was dull and moderately lower.

The lowering prices are viewed by traders as being somewhat unusual, as they say this country, just now, is without an appreciable supply of the spot metal. Activity among commercial manufacturers, it is said, has been such that it has been found necessary to go to London to fill orders for the raw material in spite of the supposedly unwieldy surplus of the commodity.

Receive Large Orders.

In addition some sellers say they recently have had orders for large amounts from several countries wishing to use the metal for monetary purposes. At the same time traders believe large purchases of silverware are being made in this country with the idea that it will become more valuable in time.

STANDARD OF N. J. TO RETIRE $30,000,000 5 PCT. DEBENTURES

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has called for retirement on Feb. 1 $30,000,000, or one-quarter of its outstanding issue of $120,000,000 of twenty year 5 per cent debentures. The bonds will be drawn by lot, and under the terms of the issue will be redeemed at 102.

The debentures were sold Dec. 15, 1926, at 100½ as a part of a program for retiring $200,000,000 of 7 per cent preferred stock then outstanding. The balance of the funds needed for that purpose was provided from the company's treasury and through receipt of $86,282,925 from the sale of stock.

In announcing the plan to call $30,000,000 of the debentures, W. C. Teagle, president, said one-quarter of the twenty year term having run, it seemed wise at this time to reduce the funded indebtedness in that proportion.

SUCCESS FOR CANADIAN LOAN SEEN ASSURED

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Success was generally believed assured today for the Dominion of Canada's $150,000,000 national service loan.

Sale of more than $40,000,000 of the loan within a few hours after it was offered was announced by the general management committee.

As the first report included only incomplete subscriptions from some of the larger cities, the committee expected the total issue would be sold promptly, or over-subscribed.

The loan was offered in issues maturing in five and ten years, each bearing five per cent interest. The five year bonds were offered at 99½, and the ten year bonds at 99.

Financial obligations that necessitated the $150,000,000 dominion national service loan, launched today, were outlined in a statement by E. N. Rhodes, acting minister of finance.

He explained that commitments already entered into under the employment act total $27,000,000, loans to harbor commissions will total more than $15,000,000; and more than $8,500,000 will be required to refund a 1916 loan. In addition, he said, the payments of five cents a bushel on wheat in the three prairie provinces to aid farmers in meeting transportation costs will exceed $10,000,000. Loans to the Canadian national railways and other cash requirements for the dominion services account for the remainder of the loan.

EXPECT BRITISH TO IMPOSE NEW DUTIES SHORTLY

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—A new batch of British anti-dumping duties is expected in the next few days, covering heavy industries not included in the government's original list Friday night.

Among the first duties to be imposed, it is reported, will be a 33 1-3 per cent tariff on iron and steel. Imports of foreign iron and steel into Great Britain total $125,000,000 yearly—a greater amount than the aggregate of the twenty-three items on the first list of dutiable articles.

The high tariff element in the Conservative party is far from content and is exerting renewed pressure on the government to extend anti-dumping duties to virtually every class of manufactured goods.

Recommend 50% Cut in Cotton Crop

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The south-wide uniform cotton control conference late today adopted the Texas curtailment plan, calling for 50 per cent reduction in planting in 1932 and 1933 as its recommendation for relief legislation in all the southern states.

Ten of the eleven cotton producing states represented here cast their votes for the Texas plan to boost prices in the face of this year's bumper crop. North Carolina's delegation, instructed not to vote, abstained from the ballot.

Urged to Enact Law.

The lead of the Texas legislature in enacting an acreage curtailment law has already been followed by South Carolina, Arkansas, and Mississippi. Governors of all states where the plan has not been invoked were urged by the conference to convene their legislatures immediately to enact the uniform law.

Louisiana has enacted a cotton holiday measure which will probably have to be substituted by the proposed acreage reduction plan.

Will Hold Back Bales.

Washington, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Unless the price of cotton reaches 12½ cents a pound, the farm board and other holders will keep 6,800,000 bales off the market for a year. Of the total the board's American Cotton Coöperative association holds 3,500,000 bales which will be locked up until July 31, 1932. The remainder, in the hands of farmers, will be kept off the market through loans pledged by southern bankers.

The cotton spinning industry was reported by the census bureau today to have operated during October at 85.1 per cent capacity on a single shift basis, compared with 88.1 per cent in September this year and 77.1 per cent in October last year.

New York, Nov. 23.—Shares of nearly all the country's leading railroad companies sold off to new lows for the bear market today in response to the negative outcome of the wage conferences here.

New York Central, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Illinois Central, Atlantic Coast Line, and Rock Island were conspicuous among the issues to plumb fresh depths. Setbacks averaged from 1 to 4 points or more.

Only One Above Par.

A report from Washington that the railroad executives had not abandoned hope for an agreement with the brotherhoods on the wage issue and that a reopening of the negotiations might be expected in the near future failed to check the selling. The speculative community was just as indifferent to word that steps would be undertaken, in the event of a final collapse of the negotiations, to initiate wage cuts under terms of the transportation act. Evidently, the market realizes that whatever course the matter may take is going to require considerable time, which will use up more earnings and necessitate further dividend reductions.

RUSSIAN OIL MAY DOMINATE BRITISH MARTS

Devalued Pound Puts U.S. Firm at Disadvantage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Efforts to secure control of the petroleum business in Great Britain have cost the big oil companies of the world tens of millions of dollars. Russian oil seems likely to dominate the British market and the American companies have received at least a temporary setback through the British abandonment of the gold standard.

Looking back a few years, in January of 1927, an agreement was reached between the Russians and the Anglo-American company, acting on its own behalf and on behalf of the Shell and Anglo-Persian companies, by which the Russians obtained an annual quota of about 200,000 tons. Sir Henri Deterding upset the agreement at the last moment, which started a bitter fight.

Grant Million Ton Quota.

The upshot was that when peace was established between the Russians and the big British companies in 1928 the Russians were granted a quota of about 1,000,000 tons annually. This quota was divided among a number of companies, including the Medway Oil company, Anglo-American, Lubricating Oil and Fuel company, and Russian Oil Products.

However, the Russians have been served notice that this agreement will not be renewed automatically, as provided for in the contract, and in view of the sharp reduction in oil prices it is stated that negotiations will be conducted for a revised contract. The British companies have been purchasing 250,000 tons of kerosene from the Russians annually at a price approximately three times that prevailing in the Rumanian fields.

The big British companies have had always more or less one policy regarding Russian oil, but recently there has been a difference of opinion regarding it, probably because at the present moment bitter feeling exists between the British oil companies and the Americans.

Losing More Money.

Notwithstanding the agreement with the Russians, the oil companies in Great Britain have been losing more money than ever before. The reason for this is that the Cleveland Oil company, which is controlled by the Pan-American (a subsidiary of Standard of Indiana), has been trying to obtain a quota here. This the British companies opposed, with the result that an oil war started. In this connection the dumping of cheap oil vame, not from the Russians, but from Standard of Indiana.

Since the departure from the gold standard, the big British companies are temporarily in a much stronger position that the American, because they are producing the majority of their oil with English currency or rupees. Their overhead and marketing expenses are paid in British pounds. The strength of the British companies in competition with the American, therefore, is quite obvious.

Refuse to Boost Prices.

The bitter feeling toward the American companies is so great that even now, with the depreciated currency, the British companies have refused to increase oil prices. They have been netting for gasoline between one and two sets a gallon when the actual lowest cost to them is approximately 5 cents a gallon. However, the American companies are now practically giving away their gasoline, covering only the freight, overhead, and marketing expenses. It is regarded as quite obvious that the American companies are now losing much more money than the British.

Whatever the results of this fight, the Russians at the moment stand to win, because Great Britain and the dominions will have to import foreign oil, and it is only natural to assume that the British government will be happy to encourage the use of Russian oil, since it can be purchased for English pounds or English machinery, instead of purchasing American oil for golden American dollars.

Seen More Advantageous.

If the British can reach an agreement with the Russians and control Russian oil exports and come to another agreement with the Rumanian producers, then it must be obvious that certain big American oil companies must stand big losses, since they must carry on their operations with their purchases and expenses paid for in American gold.

While it is true that there is a big oil overproduction in the United States, nevertheless the fact remains that Russian oil, for economic and geographic reasons, is more advantageous to certain European and near east markets than American oil.

WHEAT AGAIN ON TOBOGGAN DOWN 2 CENTS

Futures Show Big Decline from Nov. 9 Peak.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

New low levels on the current downturn on wheat were established yesterday, prices breaking around 3½c from Saturday's finish due to general unloading by bulls on the disappointing news from abroad.

At the inside the active futures were off 14@14½c from the high on Nov. 9 when the sensational upturn which started on Oct. 5, culminated with a bulge of 24c.

May wheat touched 58¾c on the break, with a leading local operator who was on the bull side last week going out of his line on the way down, and support was lacking until buying developed against the bids. A rally at around 1c from the bottom followed on short covering, but it was largely lost later and the finish was at net losses of 2@2¼c with December, 55⅝c; March, 57¼c; May, 59 to 59¼c, and July, 59¾ to 59¾c.

Liverpool Wheat Lower.

A sharp decline in sterling exchange tended to unsettle the market and also restricted export business, and sales in all positions were estimated at only 300,000 bu, mainly No. 1 northern Manitoba from Montreal. Liverpool closed 2¾@2¼c per bu lower with December quoted at 58¾c on the basis of $3.86 for sterling, being 2¼c over Chicago, against 2c over on Friday. Liquidation was reported as responsible for the break abroad with a slow demand for cash wheat. Winnipeg dropped 2@2¼c with December at 61¾c in Canadian currency, the discount rate being around 12 per cent. Buenos Aires was off ¾@1¼c with December, 47¾c.

Failure of general business conditions to show improvement, the pessimistic view being based on the action of the stock market, is having some effect on grain traders, and sentiment as a whole is not as bullish as it was a while ago. The Argentine market has failed to respond to the continued showers reported in that country, although cables reported the quality of the new crop as being lower. Further rain and snow was claimed in parts of the dry area in the west and southwest and houses with southwestern connections were on the selling side of futures early.

A decrease of 3,430,000 bu in the domestic visible supply was somewhat in excess of trade expectations but had little effect. The total is now 223,367,000 bu wheat, against 193,008,000 bu last year.

Country Holds Cash Corn.

The country shows little or no evidence of desiring to sell its cash corn and the holding tendency has become accentuated by the heavy rains which have fallen over the greater part of the belt in the last few days. Bids of around 50c per bu in northeastern Nebraska failed to bring out any grain of consequence. A Chicago house sold a car of cash corn to go to Oconomowoc, Wis.

Corn futures were somewhat unsettled early, but weakened later with wheat and closed ⅜@1c lower with December at 42c; March, 44¾c; May, 46¼c to 46⅜c, and July, 47¾c to 47⅞c. An increase of 71,000 bu was shown in the visible supply, making the total 9,221,000 bu against 6,238,000 bu last year.

A bid for cash oats was received yesterday from Montreal within 1c of a working basis, compared with 3c out of line for business late last week. Oats futures showed moderate resistance to pressure, but closed ⅛@¾c lower in sympathy with other grains, the December closing at 25⅞@25¾c; May, 28¼c to 28⅝c, and July, 27⅛c. A decrease of 452,000 bu in the visible supply brought the total down to 16,293,000 bu against 28,920,000 bu last year.

Rye weakened with wheat and failed to show independent action, closing 1⅝@2¼c lower with December at 67¾c; May, 52¼c, and July, 51⅝c.

MEN.

IF YOU FEEL YOU COULD LEARN TO SUCCESSFULLY MARKET OUR PRODUCT; IF YOU QUALIFY AS CHARACTER AND HAVE AMBITION TO BECOME A LEADING MONEY-MAKER IN OUR ORGANIZATION, WE WILL TRAIN YOU. START YOU AND BACK YOU. FREE.

DURING THE PAST TWO WEEKS we have successfully started sixteen men in this work. We do not mean that we have just started them in the work, but that we have started that many men actually making money right at the very beginning of their work. Not one of these men should make less than $5,000 during 1932. Several of them made over $100 in the first week.

INASMUCH AS SUCH INCOMES would mean a great deal to certain men who may read this announcement, let us explain the nature of our business and the requirements of these positions, so that you may determine if you are qualified to do the work and if you would like to make a success of it now for yourself on our Chicago organization.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, let us say that nowhere to our knowledge, in any kind or line of sales work, in any class of selling you might wish to investigate, will you find a body of men of better character, better habits, cleaner thoughts, higher ideals—men who take more pride in their positions, more joy in their work, more interest in their customers—or men who have less of false pride, jealousy, trickery, etc., than you will find in this specialty successful Chicago organization of money-makers.

WE MAKE THE ABOVE statement for the reason that the character of an individual business is sometimes misjudged because of the nature of its operation, and therefore men sometimes have a misconception of direct specialty selling as being the only opportunity, questionable method of undesirable status in trade. The truth is that the "peddler" or "canvasser" no more represents his business than the ambulance chaser represents the legal profession or the quack represents the profession of medicine. Our men go to the fine homes with self-respect and pride in having for sale one of the most successful business relationships in mutual regard and confidence.

WE DO NOT TEACH "CLEVERNESS" nor do we tolerate trickery or chicanery. We want men who know how to do this work in a straightforward business way in position becomes permanent, his good reputation assured, and his opportunities become limitless. Many of the leading business men of the world got their successful start in specialty successfully selling. The International Chairman of this institution was an outstandingly successful specialty salesman. In fact, it was he who sold our first unit, and it was he who made many prominent sales, including that of Mr. Rockefeller, he personally made the demonstration. The President of the company was a specialty salesman, and the vice-presidents are one of our branches. The General Manager of the company is a man of thirty years' experience in such sales work. The General Sales Manager took up such work after a graduation from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, becoming a salesman he worked up to assistant sales manager, and then to his present position of Vice-President and General Sales Manager. Men throughout this country have established themselves in important lines with this company, individually and permanently in useful profitable, honorable business. Individual opportunity is unlimited.

OUR BUSINESS IS TODAY the most successful of the entire history of this company. October was our twenty-second consecutive month of increase, and our sales thus far in November are so far ahead of October that the twenty-third month will show an equally big increase. The sales of our Chicago offices are greater than last month, and the earnings of individual men are greatly increasing. Our company has made substantial profit each and every month during the past year, and our product is incomparable, as sound in every phase, our market is unlimited and our product is incomparable, as sound in every phase, our market is unlimited and our product is incomparable, as sound in every phase, our market if experienced men of intelligent business judgment and foresight, and our proposition is for steady, uninterrupted engagement.

WE ARE READY to train and teach men who have the qualifications to take hold of an opportunity of this kind and build a success of it. Applications should be made from 8:30-12 A. M.; 1-4 P. M. See:

—MEN—

These were just two pay checks drawn last week by two of our new men who had no previous sales experience. Forbes, the master statesman and authority on human relations, now says that things with real appeal will sell, and he has recently written a wonderful article about our Company—and it's a wonderful product. Fellows, we have an article that is different. It sure has appeal; it offers the only 3 reasons that make people spend money: Pleasure, investment, and necessity. Without fear of contradiction, we have the highest paid sales force in the country. If you want to make money you must go to work. Wishing won't get it. This is the place. Come in and see for yourself—meet the men who are making it. They are farmers, lawyers, engineers, architects, auditors, clerks, mechanics of all kinds; and, in fact, from most all trades and professions, making good. Any former specialty salesmen who have come into this business because they can make more money than in their former business.

If you are chosen no expense will be spared in training and preparing you for this business. You can live comfortably from Chicago and surrounding towns in a radius of 75 miles. Come in and see—be convinced, then you, too, can make this money.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:
The average monthly cost of a $200 loan, repaid in 20 equal monthly payments, is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

Get the Cost in DOLLARS Before You Borrow.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest, at the Reduced Rate, is charged only while you keep the money.
